Batteries Along Gaza Strip Roar for Hour

Climb to 66.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector.
April 6 (UP)—Firing broke out again today along Israel's borders with its Arab neighbors.
Egyptian and Israeli forces exchanged artillery fire for the second straight day along the Gaza strip where in yesterday's fighting Egypt reported 63 persons killed and 102 wounded and Israel reported three killed and six wounded.

An Israeli spokesman reported that a few hours after today's artillery exchange on the Egyptian-Israeli border, Jordanian troops fired on Israeli workers on a plantation in the Beisan valley. One Israeli was wounded, he said.

Informed sources said Israel took a "particularly serious view" of the incident in view of the already-tense situation along the border with Egypt.

Firing for Hour.
Egyptian and Israeli batteries blasted each other for more than an hour today. Each side accused the other of breaking the United Nations cease-fire.
Israel told U.N. officials it would shoot back whenever Egyptian forces opened fire.
An Egyptian official communicated in Cairo revised yesterday's casualty figures upward. Egypt said 59 civilians and four soldiers were killed and 93 civilians and nine soldiers wounded in the hours-long bombardment. Earlier the death toll had been placed at 42.

The Egyptian communique reported that one Arab soldier was killed in today's exchange.
There was no report of Israeli casualties.

The United States ambassador to Israel, Edward Lawson, conferred this afternoon with Foreign Minister Moshe Sharet on the steadily deteriorating situation along the frontiers.

A U.N. spokesman said both sides agreed to accept another cease-fire this morning and that the border was quiet. Fifteen truce observers rushed to the front lines to get information for U.N. headquarters in New York on latest developments.

Egypt and Israel blamed each other for starting yesterday's shooting and renewing it today.
The deteriorating situation was turning U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's Middle East mission into a race against time. He leaves New York by plane late today.

The U.N. truce supervisor,
Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, canceled a flight today to Rome, where he was scheduled to meet Hammarskjöld tomorrow. (The Associated Press said Burns now planned to fly to Hammarskjöld in Rome Sunday.)

In Cairo, loud speakers inflamed the populace with reports of the Palestinians killed in the fighting an army spokesman said was started by Israel.
In Tel Aviv a foreign office spokesman accused Egyptian Premier Nasser of trying to

EISENHOWER REPORTED READY TO ASK FOR DEFENSE FUND BOOST

WASHINGTON, April 6 (UP).

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER will ask Congress soon to boost defense appropriations for "critical items" such as guided missiles and aircraft, congressional sources said today.

The amount of the request was not revealed.

The disclosure follows Democratic criticism that the Administration has been lagging in the weapons development race with Russia.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Rep., Massachusetts, Senate Republican whip and ranking G.O.P. member of the armed services group, and Senator James H. Duff (R-Pa.), Pennsylvania, another committee member, conferred at the White House Wednesday with President Eisenhower on military matters, including the guided missile program. Neither, however, would divulge details of the subjects covered.

$50,000 STOLEN IN HOLDUP
OF BANK AT FLINT, MICH.

Armed, Masked Men Carry Out Robbery in Less Than 5 Minutes.

FLINT, Mich., April 6 (AP)— Three and possibly four armed men held up the east side branch of the Citizens Bank today and looted it of about $50,000.

Bank officials said the amount might be higher because the bank had an unusual amount of money on hand today since it is payday in many businesses.
There was no shooting as the men, wearing stocking masks, took less than 5 minutes for the robbery. One stood guard at the door of the bank as the other two climbed over a teller's cage and stuffed the money into a bag.

FEDERAL SCHOOL BUILDING AND
TO EISENHOWER

Group Summarizing
White House Parley
Favors 'Short Term' Funds—Avoids Integration Stand.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 6—The Committee for the White House Conference on Education called today for federal aid for school construction on a "short-time emergency basis," but avoided a direct stand on racial integration in public schools.

In a 50,000-word report submitted to President Eisenhower, the 34-member committee wound up its work with 79 recommendations for improving educational standards and coping with the national shortage of classrooms.

The report, presented to Mr.
Eisenhower by Chairman Neil McElroy of Cincinnati and other committee members, summarized results of the nation-wide White House Conference on Education last year and the state conferences which preceded it, and added the committee's own conclusions.

Never More Important.
From the 16-month study, the report said, "one fundamental fact emerges: schools now affect the welfare of the United States more than ever before in history, and this new importance of education has been dangerously underestimated for a long time."

The committee said the public schools have fallen far behind both the aspirations of the American people and their capabilities, and urged increased support for education at the national, state and local levels.

"This committee recommends that the Federal Government provide school aid to the states and territories on a short-time emergency basis," the report stated.

"There is no doubt that a school building emergency exists. Different estimates have been made of the extent of this emergency, but all reliable estimates indicate that the school building needs of the nation are very great."

Calls for 'New Look.'
The committee called for "a new look at the entire question of how much money this society should spend on education."

In the richest nation in all history, there is no valid reason for the grimy, dilapidated and overcrowded school buildings which too many children now occupy," it said. "Most Americans would not permit their children to live in a house which is as bad as the school buildings which many pupils are forced to attend."

The committee estimates that 10 billion dollars a year is now being spent on public and private elementary and secondary schools.

Declaring that "the dollars spent on education in this nation should be approximately doubled" in the next 10 years, the committee said:

"The schools have become the chief instrument for keeping this nation the fabled land of opportunity. It started out as a promise to the children of this country that no matter what prevent the success of his son."

No Suggested Amount.
The committee made no recommendation on the amount of federal aid for school building, but the phrase "short-time" aid defined in terms of years.
A committee spokesman told the Post-Dispatch it was felt these were matters for Congress to determine.

In private conversation, committee members were reported to have expressed the belief that federal assistance should extend over five years, the same period proposed by Mr. Eisenhower.

Tone of the report was generally along the lines of administration policy on education, as outlined by the President in his school message to Congress last Jan. 12. For the most part, the report followed major recommendations made by the White House conference last December.

Mr. Eisenhower has asked Congress to authorize a five-year program of school aid calling for $250,000,000 a year in federal grants for school construction, with the states to put up matching funds.

The 32-year-old sovereign has been stalled over the segregation issue. Representative Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.),
New York, leader of a civil rights bloc in the House, has said he will offer an amendment to deny federal funds to school districts which are not moving to comply with the Supreme Court's 1954 decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

On this subject, the committee failed to take a firm stand, calling it a "difficult question."
School segregation, the report declared, "is an area of conflicting opinions not entirely resolved by Supreme Court action."

"This committee agrees that

BATES FAVORS
DONNELLY FUND PLAN BECAUSE BANKERS LIKE IT

But Some Legislators Say There Are Serious Flaws in Interest Proposal on Idle Money.

By BOYD F. CARROLL Jefferson City Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 6—
State Treasurer C. Hubert
Bates said today he favors Gov.
Phil M. Donnelly's proposal for a constitutional amendment to allow the state to earn interest on some of its funds, because the plan has the backing of the Missouri Bankers Association.

"If this is the bankers' proposal, I'm for it," he told the Post-Dispatch.

Meanwhile, some legislators charged there are serious flaws in the Governor's plan, which was submitted to the special session of the Legislature after such action was recommended by the legislative committee of the Missouri Bankers Association.

The proposal was approved without change yesterday by the Senate Banking Committee, headed by State Senator Floyd R. Gibson, Democratic floor leader, who is president of Manufacturers and Mechanics Bank of Kansas City. His bank on Friday had a $750,000 interest-free deposit of state funds.

Chairman of the bankers' legislative group is Richard R.
Nacy, president of the Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City, which holds the second largest interest-free state deposit at this time. Nacy, an influential Democratic leader, is a close friend of Donnelly.

Legislators' Objections.
After legislators took a second look at the proposed amendment, they raised the following objections:

1. The proposed amendment would permit but not actually require that a portion of the state's fund be placed in interest-bearing time deposits.

2. The proposal would not allow the state to invest its own funds in short-term United States Government securities and Treasury notes.

3. A provision that not more than 50 per cent of the state deposits could be placed in interest-earning time deposits would be "unworkable," and would lead to the concentration of most state funds in non-interest-bearing "idle" deposits in a few politically favored banks.

4. What total amount of money the 50 per cent provision would apply to is uncertain.
Legislators pointed out that the balances of state funds fluctuate sharply from time to time and records in the State Treasurer's office show that the daily balances have varied from $75-000,000 to $140,000,000 from time to time in recent years.

It was pointed out that the proposed constitutional amendment does not specify whether the 50 per cent limitation would apply to anticipated minimum or maximum balances or to the amount that might be in the Treasury on any single day.

Bank Group's Position.
Robert E. L. Hill of Columbia, executive director of the bankers association, told the Post-Dispatch his organization did not submit a specific state fund proposal to the Government, but aims to submit the matter for action by the Legislature in the current special session.

But O'Donnelly's proposal is "substantially what we suggested," he said.

Hill appeared in support of the Governor's proposed constitutional amendment, at a hearing before the Senate Banking Committee yesterday.

Nacy said neither he nor the bankers group suggested to Donnelly any provisions to be included in the proposal.

RAINIER DESIGNED UNIFORM HE WILL WEAR AT WEDDING

MONTE CARLO, April 6 (AP)—Prince Rainier III will wear a uniform of his own design, resembling those of Napoleon's marshals, when he marries American actress Grace Kelly.

The trousers will be sky blue with a gold stripe down the sides. The tunic will be black with gold oak leaves on the lapels. Looped over his shoulder will be a gold cord. His hat will be pointed fore and aft and sport a white ostrich feather.

The 32-year-old sovereign will wear this uniform for both the civil ceremony April 18 and for the religious ceremony the following day in the Cathedral of Monaco.

Male guests at the civil ceremony in the throne room are to wear formal morning attire—striped trousers, black cutaway coat, silk topcoat, white gloves, and decorations. For the cathedral ceremony and other formal functions the men's outfits will be the same—except the trousers will be all black.

The palace has informed Mon-acan dressmakers that the women at both ceremonies should wear two-piece dresses in neutral shades of blue and gray. White and black are frowned on.

UNION OFFICER ROBBED

'FORTUNE' IN GEMS
LEFT BY EX-CIRCUS
STAR WORTH $5.25

The "diamonds, pearls, rubies and emeralds" found in a trunk of the late Dolly Vaden, one-time circus aerialist, were examined by a court-appointed appraiser yesterday and found to be worth—conservatively—$5.25.

"It's all a big flop," said
Attorney W. W. Slater III mournfully. Slater, counsel for the administrator of the estate of the former actress, added that "I would have staked my life that those things were real jewels."

He had described the stone in one ring as looking "like the headlight on a car." A St. Louis newspaper said the trunk's contents were "a king's ransom" worth $100,000.

Thomas J. Tobin, the appraiser, examining the collection in the vault of a downtown bank where Slater had put it for "safekeeping," rapidly tossed pieces aside as worthless costume jewelry. Many were broken and some bore marks indicating an earlier appraisal.

The trunk, unlocked, had been
before her death here last Dec. 18.

HAY AIR-LIFTED TO HORSE TRAPPED
IN MOUNTAINS

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine)

GUNNISON, Colo., April 6 (UP)—Gordon Warren, operator of Western State Aviation Service here, and one of his pilots, Wallace Powell, have been airlifting hay to a horse since Powell spotted him last month trapped between 14,399-foot Mt.
Harvard and 14,172-foot Mt.
Yale in Colorado's Collegiate mountains.

The operation is being financed, at $12 a flight, by Mayor Ben Jorgensen, who said the twice-a-week flights to feed the trapped horse would continue as long as the animal is unable to make its way to safety.
That may not be until June.

The Mayor, a retired businessman, said no one had "any idea where the horse came from or who it belongs to."

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTOR
LEARNS EXPENSIVE LESSON

Fined for Speeding—Had Told Pupils Limit Was 25
Instead of 35.

URRICHVILLE, O., April 6
(AP)—An instructor in automobile driving at Tuscarawas High School discovered that he had been giving his students the wrong information when he appeared before Mayor Burton Kennedy yesterday on a speeding charge.

"Are you sure the speed limit is 25 where I was doing 35?"
Robert French of nearby Tuscarawas asked the mayor. "I've been telling my kids it's 35."

The mayor fined him $30.20 and described the fine as an "expensive but good lesson."

Driver's Good Record Saves
Him From Fine; Police Benefit

Charles W. Stewart, 6915
Magnolia avenue, suffered a blow to his pride when, after driving more than 25 years without a traffic arrest, he was given a ticket for speeding 40 miles an hour Feb. 26 on Skinker boulevard at Arundel place.

When Stewart explained today to Police Judge Robert G.
Dowd the pride he had always felt in his safe driving record and his unblemished driver's license, Dowd paid tribute to that record by finding him not guilty.

TRUMAN BACKS
HENNINGSON, WON'T AID IN PRIMARY

'Not Going to Dabble in State Politics'—
Gavin Files for Senate Nomination.

By a Special Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 6
—Former President Harry S.
Truman today said he supports United States Senator Thomas
C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis for re-election, but said he would not take an active part in Hennings' primary campaign.

More than a year ago I had a luncheon with Tom and I told him then I would like to see him stay in the Senate for another term," Truman recalled. "I have not changed my position since."

Thomas J. Gavin Files.
Meanwhile, Thomas J. Gavin, Kansas City, a close friend of Truman, today filed his declaration of candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination in opposition to Hennings. Gavin said at Jefferson City he had not precluded a platform, but believed the western part of the state should have Senate representation.

When Truman was asked whether he would support Hennings actively in his campaign for re-nomination at the August primary election, the former President bluntly replied that he would not.

"I am not going to dabble in state politics," he said.

Indicating he would not support any candidate in the Democratic primary, the former President said he would take an active role only after the nominees had been named.

Wants to Heal Sore Spots.
"I want to be in a position to heal any sore spots that may develop during the primary campaign," he said. "Then our job will be to get all the Democrats out in support of their candidates."

"I never did object to a Democratic fight in the primaries, because it helps to stir up interest and bring out the vote."

Some uncertainty as to Truman's position with respect to the Hennings candidacy arose from separate statements he made yesterday. In St. Louis, during a brief stopover between trains on his return home from New York, he said he was already on record in favor of Hennings and "I don't change horses in the middle of the stream."

However, on arriving in Independence last night, he was

ONE LEAPS OUT OF TRUCK INTO MACHINE'S PATH
ON NORTH SIDE

Another Joins Him—
Two Armed, Wear Masks—Money Was
for Cashing UAW Workers' Checks.

Raymond C. George, financial secretary of the United Automobile Workers' Union, Local 25, was robbed of $12,195 in union funds today by three men, one of whom leaped from a panel truck into the street in front of George's automobile to force him to stop.

George told police he was returning to the union office at 3412 Union boulevard from the Mound City Trust Co., 4401 Natural Bridge avenue, with the money for cashing payroll checks when the robbers, two of whom wore tops of women's stockings over their heads, stopped him on Geraldine avenue near Palm street, about one block from the union office.

After displaying a pistol and a shotgun, the men took the money and fled in the truck.

George said he was driving south on Geraldine toward Palm when he noticed the truck pull out of a side street in front of him. When the truck slowed its speed, George also slowed down.

"Finally the rear doors of the truck flew open," he said.
"and a man seemed to fall out onto the street right in front of my car. I thought it was an accident and stopped right away."

But as the man on the street climbed to his feet, a second man jumped from the rear of the truck and approached George's machine. The second held an automatic pistol in his hand and the other carried a shotgun.

"I Couldn't Get Away."
"Not until I saw the guns did I think it was a holdup," he said. "I couldn't get away.
There were cars parked on both sides of the street and another automobile in back of me. I was stuck."

"When the robbers got to my car, the one with the pistol said, gruffly, 'Get out.' He then added, 'Don't try anything.
Ray,' calling me by my first name."

"The man with the shotgun then tried to scare me for any weapon I might be carrying.
He said, 'What have you got on you, Ray?'"

"Then the guy with the pistol reached into my car and took a portfolio from the floor of the front seat. It had the money in it. As they ran back to the truck, one of them shouted,
'Don't follow us.'"

The robbers climbed in the rear of the truck and George followed them for about a block in his automobile, obtaining the license number. He then reported the robbery to the local police, James R.
Blancett, who called police.

License Number Traced.
Officers discovered the license plate on the truck apparently had been stolen. It had been issued for an automobile of a Kirkwood resident. The license plate had not been reported stolen, however.

George, who has been financial secretary of the local for three years, told police he could not recognize the robbers, but when they got back into the truck, he saw that the driver was a "sandy-haired" man, who did not get out of the truck

MALENKOV SAID TO HAVE FAILED IN APPEAL TO BRITISH LABOR

Visiting Russian's Suggestion for Popular Front Reported to Have Been Received Coolly by Socialists.

LONDON, April 6 (UP)—Georgi Malenkov will have to report to his Kremlin bosses that Britain's Labor party turned a cold shoulder on his suggestions for a popular front with British Communists, informed sources said today.

The former Soviet premier privately sounded out Socialist leaders on the idea in his three-week visit here. There were no signs he got any encouragement.

He planned to fly home tomorrow after spending the last day of his tour sight-seeing and conferring with Soviet Embassy officials.

Malenkov will be able to give his superiors an enthusiastic description of his reception by the British people and a first-hand impression of the greeting they will get when they arrive later this month.

But he also will have to tell Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin that British Socialists will continue to spurn British Communists.

Meets Laborite.

He met with Socialist leader Hugh Gaitskell six times when he was here but apparently got little encouragement. The Socialist party's foreign policy spokesman, Alfred Robens, supplied the answer to Malenkov's overtures for co-operation with the Communists. He said it would be the "kiss of death" for social democracy.

Khrushchev and Bulganin are scheduled to arrive April 18 for a 10-day visit. Most Britons viewed the Malenkov trip as a warm-up for his chiefs. They thought he did the job well.

Malenkov turned on his charm full force last night at a farewell dinner given by the British Central Electricity Authority, his host for the tour.

"It isn't easy to establish friendship," he said, "because an atmosphere of confidence is required." But he said he found friendship wherever he went in Britain and "we'll convey your good feelings to the Soviet people."

Interpreting Error.

Meanwhile, Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik said an interpreter was in error when he quoted Malenkov as saying at a press conference "it is very difficult to make love to women through an interpreter."

That statement was given as Malenkov's answer to a question as to his impression of British women.

"What Mr. Malenkov actually said," explained Malik, "was 'it is difficult to speak of one's regard for women through an interpreter.'"

By the Associated Press.

Malenkov, in response to one question at the press conference, said persons who believe Russia places more emphasis on friendship with Britain than with the United States are wrong.

He said his visit, and presumably the coming visit of Bulganin and Khrushchev, had the goal of improving relations among Britain, the United States and Russia.

In reply to another question, Malenkov said he did not believe Israel was a "great friend" by Egypt's acquisition of new arms for Communist sources.

"The tension in this part of the world (Middle East) is due to the creation of war alliances," Malenkov said in an obvious reference to the Baghdad Pact, which Britain backs.

Denounces Stalin.

Malenkov lined up with Khrushchev in denouncing Stalin's egoism. He referred to Khrushchev as his "great friend."

One newspaper man asked Malenkov if he now felt "any sense of guilt for the part he played in the Stalin purges." He was a close confederate and aid of Stalin.

Malenkov replied: "We always feel responsible for the shortcomings and errors which we have made and we openly admit them to our people and this helps to rectify the position."

Malenkov predicted Communism would triumph in peaceful competition over the Western way of life within 100 years. Meanwhile, he said, Russia wanted to be friends with everybody, including the United States.

"We do not consider that war is fatally inevitable," he said.

BONN CALLS ON U.S. FOR TWO BILLIONS MORE FOR ARMY

BONN, April 6 (AP)—West Germany has called on the United States to provide an additional two billion dollars for the buildup of its new armed forces, Western Allied and German officials said yesterday.

The Germans want one billion dollars as an outright gift and a second billion as a long-term credit, these sources said.

The billion dollar credit would be repaid only when the army has been established at full strength in 1960.

The German request, if granted, would bring the United States financial contribution to German rearmament to almost three billion dollars.

Officials said the United States already is committed to supply West Germany with approximately $833,000,000 worth of heavy weapons.

The timing and size of the request astonished Western authorities in Bonn. It came as the West German government was locked in controversy with the Western powers over German financial aid to Allied troops stationed there.

Western authorities, in pressing for continuation of the aid, have told the German government it is not spending enough for defense.

SCHOOL BUS MAN CONVICTED IN FATAL TRAIN COLLISION

DAYTON, Tenn., April 6 (UP)—Raymond Moore was convicted yesterday of driving a school bus into the path of a freight train. Eleven children were killed and 30 injured.

An all-male jury found Moore guilty of manslaughter in the Spring City (Tenn.) train-bus collision but asked the judge to suspend the one-year sentence it imposed.

The same jury cleared the engineer of the freight train, M. Paul Giles, who was also charged with manslaughter and tried jointly with Moore. Both men had faced possible sentences ranging from one to five years in the penitentiary or county jail terms of not more than 11 months and 29 days.

Several witnesses who testified that Moore failed to stop at the crossing. Moore said he did.

EISENHOWER, DULLES MEET ON NEW GAZA CLASHES

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred for 30 minutes today. White House Press Secretary James A. Hagerty said it would be "fair to assume" they discussed the latest outbreak of fighting on the Palestine border.

Hagerty declined to say whether the President and Dulles were "gravely concerned" about the shooting along the Gaza strip.

Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles conferred before the regular Friday morning meeting of the President's cabinet. Hagerty said that so far as he knew the Middle East situation was not discussed at the Cabinet session.

SENATE GROUP AGREES ON REPORT ON CASE GIFT

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—A special Senate committee reached unanimous agreement today on a report of its investigation of whether an improper attempt had been made to influence the vote of Senator Francis Case (Rep., South Dakota), on the natural gas bill.

Case disclosed in Senate debate on the measure he had been offered, and had rejected. A $2500 campaign contribution by an oil lobbyist who had made inquiries about his stand on the legislation.

The committee announced that its report, about 15 pages in length, would be available for publication in Sunday morning newspapers.

CZECHS UPHOLD KILLING SLANSKY AND CLEMENTIS

They Will Not Be 'Rehabilitated,' Red Leader of Assembly Says.

MOSCOW, April 6 (AP)—A Czech Communist leader said today the Prague regime had investigated and found valid the execution of Rudolf Slansky and Vladimir Clementis.

Zdenek Fierlinger, president of the Czech National Assembly, told a press conference here they would not be "rehabilitated."

Slansky, a Jew and first secretary of the Czech Communist party, and Clementis, a former Czech foreign minister, were executed in 1952 on charges of Titoism and spying for the West.

The Soviet government's recent rehabilitation of victims of Stalin's one-man rule started a wave of speculation that Russia's Communist neighbors would follow suit. Hungary did so last week by clearing the name of Laszlo Rajk, former first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party.

The central committee of the Czech Communist party called last week for new emphasis on "Socialist legality" in line with the decisions of the February Communist party congress in Moscow. Fierlinger, who is touring the Soviet Union as head of a Czech parliamentary delegation, was asked by an American reporter.

"In view of the efforts to re-establish Socialist legality in Czechoslovakia do you see any possibility for the rehabilitation of Rudolf Slansky?"

After several moments of whispered consultation with other members of the delegation and an audible snigger from Soviet correspondents at the conference, Fierlinger said: "Slansky was charged, as were others with him, precisely with violating Socialist legality. If anyone was guilty of violating Socialist legality it was former Communist party secretary Slansky and his associates."

Fierlinger conceded the possibility of minor inaccuracies in the case against Slansky but said in the main the charges were substantiated.

HARDING CALLED HOME FOR TALKS ON CYPRUS DRIVE

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir John Harding is being called home for new talks on dealing with rebel-splashed violence on Cyprus, island sources said today. He is military governor of that strategic eastern Mediterranean colony.

Prime Minister Eden's government wants a first hand report on the campaign to restore order on Cyprus since the deportation of Green Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement.

Informants said Harding is expected here within two weeks. On Cyprus, rebels hurled two bombs at a British army patrol in Famagusta last night. Two soldiers were slightly wounded. A Greek Cypriot was killed and another wounded in separate shooting in the Paphos area in western Cyprus.

FARM CONFEREES MEET FOR FINAL VOTING ON BILL

Acting Formally on Tentative Agreements—Only Minor Changes, if Any.

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—A compromise election-year farm bill takes on its final form today.

A 10-member Senate-House conference committee met to act formally on the tentative agreements it reached in two weeks of efforts to combine the differing programs of the two houses.

All the earlier decisions were open to revision in the final voting, but leaders of the conferees said they expected only minor changes, if any.

"We'll stay in session until we wind this up," said Senator Allen J. Ellender (Dem., Louisiana), chairman of the conference group.

"Good Progress" Made.

Senator Milton Young (Rep., North Dakota), reported "good progress" today toward final approval. Young said the conferees were "about half way" through the 92-page patchwork bill.

The sections covered included general authorization for the new soil bank with promised payments of $1,200,000,000 a year to farmers, as well as a one-year restoration of 90 percent of parity supports on cotton, corn, wheat and other basic crops.

Parity is a price determined by law to be fair to farmers in terms of their costs.

Young said the conferees agreed also that costs of the soil bank could be paid out of July 1 of next year from the funds available to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The immediate final action by the committee apparently caused Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to cut short a visit to Salt Lake City. He flew back to Washington last night.

Benson was in Salt Lake City to attend the annual conference of the Latter-day Saints (Mormons) Church. He is a member of the church's Council of 12 Apostles.

House Action First.

The complex bill and report explaining it must be printed over the weekend for use of the Representatives and Senators due back from a 10-day Easter recess Monday. The House will act first, possibly Wednesday.

Representative Harold Cooley (Dem., North Carolina), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and head of its conferees, told reporters he is confident the compromise will clear the House by a safe margin.

"The farm situation has deteriorated," he said, since the House voted 206 to 201 last May 5 to return to higher, rigid price supports on five basic crops.

Cooley said the recent Minnesota primary, in which the Democratic vote topped that of the Republicans, "showed the

Reds in Posts Outside of Russia Get Speech Downgrading Stalin

Copies of Khrushchev's Secret Address Before Party Congress Omit Some Liquidations.

By SYDNEY GRUSON The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times.)

PRAGUE, April 6—Russian Communists working outside the Soviet Union have now received copies of Nikita S. Khrushchev's secret address downgrading Stalin before the recent Soviet party congress in Moscow.

According to Russian sources, the reports of the first secretary of the Soviet Union have been published in the Western press. In the main, accurate. The sources, however, refused a request to read a copy of Khrushchev's speech on the ground that it was an "internal party matter."

In discussing the subject they said that four points in the various reports published in the Western press were not included in the version of the speech received by them. There is, of course, the possibility that this version is an edited and shortened account of the speech.

According to these Russian sources, their texts gave no indication that Khrushchev had mentioned Marshal Mikha'il Tukhachevsky by name in dealing with Stalin's "murder" of thousands of Red army officers between 1936 and 1938. Tukhachevsky was executed in 1937 after a one-day military trial on charges of treason.

For does the circulating version of the Khrushchev address contain specific mention of the case of Nikolai A. Voznesensky, according to these sources. Voznesensky, head of the State Planning Commission and a member of the Politburo, disappeared in March 1949.

According to unofficial accounts of the Khrushchev speech, the party secretary told the Communist congress that he had been anti-Stalin since 1948, is the only newspaper in the part of the world to disclose the fact that Khrushchev made such a report.

Borda pulled no punches. Its seven-column story told of "murders of thousands of honest Communists by Stalin's orders after false confessions were obtained by the 'most violent physical pressure.'"

The Russians said their text did not mention the purge of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, nor the incident of Stalin ordering Khrushchev to dance. Some Western accounts of the speech said Khrushchev told of Stalin shouting at him ways the farmers are thinking." The House thus far has acted only on the rigid price supports.

Other major provisions are the soil bank plan; an extra $500,000,000 for price support purchases of meats, fruits and other perishable farm commodities; two-price plans for wheat and rice; and other plans for increasing price support levels.

The conferees voted to allow imports of 95,000 bales of extra long-staple foreign cotton annually, including enough Peruvian cotton needed for parachutes and balloons, and directed the Agriculture Department to sell 74,000 bales of domestic long-staple cotton on the world market.

The $50,000-bale quota would reduce imports of this special cotton, chiefly from Egypt and Peru, by from 10,000 to 25,000 bales below recent annual imports.

Speech by Benson.

Before leaving Salt Lake City Benson told a meeting sponsored by farm group organiza-

FRENCH BATTLE GUERRILLAS IN SAHARA REGION

High Losses on Both Sides in Algerian Fighting Reported—More Troops on Way.

ALGIERS, April 6 (UP)—French troops are battling Arab guerrillas on the fringes of the Sahara desert with "high losses on both sides," the French command announced today.

The French are rushing reinforcements to the scene of the battle, in the Nememchas mountains about 110 miles south of the east Algerian provincial capital of Constantine.

The action started yesterday, when a French motorized patrol trailed a strong guerrilla force into a dry riverbed on the slopes of the Nememchas. The Arabs tried to slip away in the night, but the French forces stuck to their trails.

Appeal to Eisenhower.

In Libya, the official newspaper Tarabulusg said King Idris has appealed to President Eisenhower to "end French shedding of Arab blood" in Algeria.

The paper said Idris handed a message to United States Ambassador John Tappin Tobruk yesterday, asking for "active intervention" by the President to halt the "savage and barbaric deeds of French forces and the massacres of the Arabs."

Earlier, authorities here announced a Communist youth leader, Henri Maillot, stole a truckload of arms and ammunition yesterday from a French officers' school and turned it over to the guerrillas.

An underground handout mailed to newspapers here today, boasting about the arms haul, said that "Communists, nationalists, progressives, Moslems and Europeans" are working against the French in Algeria. The statement said the stolen arms included six United States-made Thompson submachineguns, 120 British-made Sten guns, 62 Lebel rifles, 84 revolvers and 4000 cartridges.

Joins Guerrillas.

The underground's letter said the young Communist, an officer candidate, has joined the guerrillas.

An official account said Maillot was riding in the cab of the arms truck with a soldier-driver when he revealed his true colors. Maillot was the commander of a small convoy en route here from Miliana, 63 miles to the southwest.

He persuaded or forced the driver to elude escorting vehicles and take the truck into a wooded Arab picnic ground six miles outside Algiers, where a guerrilla band was waiting.

11 COUNTY AREAS SUBSTANDARD, HEALTH HAZARDS CALLED LIKELY

Should Have Top Priority for Studies, Dr. Domke Says — Had Population of 15,572 in 1950.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine)

Elmwood Park, north of Olive, is only one of 11 substandard areas in St. Louis county where there is a likelihood of health hazards, Dr. Herbert R. Domke, county health commissioner, said today.

"These areas should have top priority for studies to detect such hazards," Dr. Domke said.

H. Clifford Mitchell, county sanitation director, who reported to the County Council Wednesday that 94 per cent of the houses in Elmwood Park had inadequate sewage disposal facilities and were a menace to public health, said the health department planned studies of the other substandard areas.

One area—Meacham Park, south of Kirkwood—underwent a health department study last November.

2302-Acre Area. The 11 substandard areas have a total area of 2302 acres and had a population in 1950 of 15,572. Elmwood Park, 95 acres, had 325 population and Meacham Park, 210 acres, 765 population. Since that census, population of many of the areas has risen sharply.

Other substandard areas, with location, area and population in 1950, are as follows:

Times Beach, on Meramec river at U.S. Highway 66, 420 acres, 50 population.

North Hill Homesites, near Jennings, 170 acres, 350 population.

Most of the residents of Elmwood Park, Meacham Park, Kinloch, Webster Heights and Fairmount Park are Negroes. The other areas have principally white residents.

Dr. Domke said that scattered throughout the county were smaller areas with sanitation difficulties serious enough to warrant studies and improvements.

"This is particularly true," he said, "in the older sections where sewage disposal difficulties often exist and where small lots complicate the problems."

The health department, planning commission and public welfare department are at work on a report, ordered by the county council, intended to serve as a basis for preparing a minimum housing standards ordinance similar to that of St. Louis.

Mitchell said sanitation staff members of the county health department will meet soon with Elmwood Park civic groups and individuals in an effort to create a community interest to correct health hazards.

Inspectors will make detailed examinations of each residence in the area, he said. Problems will be pointed out to each owner and recommendations made for correction. A time limit for corrections will be set and follow-up inspections made.

Meanwhile, Mitchell said, the St. Louis County Water Co. will be asked to make an effort to supply water to the 49 per cent of the area's residents now using unsafe or inadequate water supplies. The health department also will discuss with the Metropolitan Sewer District the necessity for improving sewage disposal facilities in the area.

Volunteer Program Pays Off. The voluntary co-operation of the residents will be sought, Mitchell said, in a similar voluntary program brought "marked improvement" of conditions at Meacham Park after the survey last November. He praised the Meacham Park residents.

"They have done a terrific amount of cleanup work," he said. "We haven't had to take a single person into court. All of the work done so far has been on a voluntarily basis."

A great deal of work still remains to be done at Meacham Park, he acknowledged. The area still suffers from improper sewage disposal and lack of safe water supplies.

Preliminary discussions have been held with the Metropolitan Sewer District about the sewage problems. Some improvements have been made in outside toilets used by three-fifths of the residents.

Mitchell said the general sanitation ordinance under which the health department is proceeding fails to give the department authority in two important categories. It has no authority to require furnishing of indoor water supplies from a public system nor to prohibit residents from keeping animals or domestic fowls in close proximity to residences.

The ordinance, which was passed last August by the county council, provides a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $300 fine for violations.

Dr. Domke pointed out that the serious health hazards found in Elmwood Park pose a threat of blight to surrounding areas as well as being an immediate danger to Elmwood Park.

Future 'Blank' for Innocent Man Freed After 16 Years; Alias Led to Troubles

ROY EATON, just out of prison and making new start in Chicago, stops to admire new automobile that caught his attention.

By TOM YARBROUGH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, April 6 — Roy Eaton, a free man at last after 16 years behind prison walls, faced a "blank" future today with forgiveness for all concerned but with a firm hope of collecting a substantial amount of money from the State of Illinois for imprisonment by mistake.

His attorney, Robert J. Gorman, would not say how much he proposes to ask of the Legislature, but remarked that as for himself he would not willingly endure such an experience for $10,000 a year.

"The Future Is Blank." Eaton said as he sat in a flood of daylight in Gorman's office and recalled the fantastic set of circumstances that sent him to Statesville Penitentiary at Joliet June 28, 1940.

His sentence was one year to life, on a charge of armed robbery—a robbery committed by two other men, as long investigation proved, when Eaton was far away in Lordsburg, N.M., just fired from a mining job for excessive drinking.

The stage for this episode was set in 1934 when Eaton, 31 years old and hard pressed to make a living, accepted the alias Carl Rogers. He did it, he said, because of a rumor that if he gave his right name in applying for a WPA job he would some day have to repay the Government. Just about everything he knew was doing it, he said.

Decided to Keep Name. Eaton's need for relief work passed with the years, but he had become known in Lordsburg as Carl Rogers and decided just to keep the name.

In October 1935, shortly after a $50 holdup at Rock Island, Ill., the name Carl Rogers—a real one, no alias—was added to the list of men wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as a suspect in that case.

It was added to the list by mistake, but it remained there despite the fact that the Rock Island chief of police was notified officially that Carl Rogers was a law-abiding citizen. He had only advanced some money to a man who later came under suspicion.

In February 1940 the Lordsburg also will discuss with the Metropolitan Sewer District the necessity for improving sewage disposal facilities in the area.

Volunteer Program Pays Off. The voluntary co-operation of the residents will be sought, Mitchell said, in a similar voluntary program brought "marked improvement" of conditions at Meacham Park after the survey last November. He praised the Meacham Park residents.

BOY KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS TWO ON MOTORCYCLE

Companion Seriously Hurt Near Granite City — Suspected Driver Seized Later.

James Phelps, 16 years old, was killed and William Schmalzreid, also 16, was injured seriously early today when the motorcycle they were riding on a highway near Granite City was struck from behind by an automobile that continued on.

Police shortly afterwards arrested Clyde Hennings, a Negro, and booked him suspected of reckless homicide and leaving the scene of an accident. Hennings, who said he lives in the 2600 block of Washington avenue, Alton, was held in Madison county jail at Edwardsville.

State patrolmen report the motorcycle driven by Schmalzreid, with Phelps riding in a tandem seat, was knocked off the shoulder of Illinois Highway 111 when struck by the car south of U.S. Highway 66. Schmalzreid suffered a serious head injury.

Hennings was arrested in Granite City by police who had been alerted by the highway patrol. Blood was splattered over the front of his machine and the hood was dented. Police said he apparently drove six miles from the scene of the crash with one tire flat and the hood sprung open in a manner that obscured the driver's vision. Hennings said he did not remember anything.

Phelps, a student at Cahokia High School, lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Phelps, on Camp Jackson road in Cahokia. Schmalzreid lives at 108 Judith lane, Maplewood Park.

Nazareth Walton, 15, was seriously injured last night when struck by an automobile while she was standing in a safety zone in the 4000 block of Easton avenue. The driver did not stop.

The girl, a Negro, was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital for treatment of injuries to her left shoulder, hip and leg. She lives at 3642 Cottage avenue with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Payne.

LEMAY MAN FOUND DEAD
Emil Litzner, a 72-year-old pensioner, was found dead in bed today at the home of friends, 114 Nellie avenue, Lemay. He had been living there for several months while his wife was in a hospital.

St. Louis county police said a bottle and a box that had contained sleeping pills was on a bedside table, and that Litzner left a note indicating that he intended to end his life.

Cold War 'Hysteria.'
In an address to the convention, Quincy Wright, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, said that a "popular hysteria" in America brought on by the cold war had led to "a serious loss of prestige of Congress" and "a serious deterioration of the civil service, especially that of the Department of State."

He asserted that in recent years the relationship between scientists and the Government has deteriorated "at a time when close and cordial relations are essential for the national defense."

One reason why the United States is falling behind Russia in the training of engineers and scientists, he said, has been "the unreasonable security standards and classification of papers in the scientific bureaus."

Wright, a past president of the association, also criticized "the excessive requirements of clearance and liability to investigation for scientists in the public service, and the inquisitions of prominent scientists" such as J. Robert Oppenheimer, the noted physicist.

"These circumstances have convinced many potential scientists that science, and in particular nuclear physics, is not a safe occupation and that if one is a scientist, it is better to keep away from the Government," he told the group, which met at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

The cold war period, he said, "has been marked by serious attacks on accepted freedoms in this country."

He referred to administrative and congressional investigations, declaring that the most serious of all were "investigations and dismissals by certain academic administrators in violation of accepted standards of academic freedom and tenure."

In another address, Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley of Washington University told the association that special interest groups were bringing the nation close to "a dog-eat-dog idea of how to operate our government."

Another report, which criticizes the St. Louis University administration in the firing of Dr. Philip A. Tumulty as head of its internal medicine department in 1954, also was to be presented to the association. The report also made some criticism of Dr. Tumulty. It did not recommend censure of the university.

EAST SIDE FIRM TO INSTALL 9 WEBSTER GROVES SIRENS
The $4515 bid of the R. Dron Electric Co. of Granite City for installation of nine air raid warning sirens in Webster Groves was approved by the City Council there last night.

The sirens, to be put at the top of poles to be erected at points throughout the suburb, were bought for $5736 last January from the Protective Materials Co., 2911 Iowa avenue. They will be controlled from police headquarters in city hall.

City Manager H. C. McClintock said half the cost of the sirens and installation would be defrayed by the Federal Civil Defense Agency.

Gains in Academic Freedom Noted at Four of Six Schools

But Recommendation for Censure of All Six Is Up for Action by Professors Association.

Four of six colleges and universities recommended for censure by a special committee of the American Association of University Professors have recently made "substantial progress" toward accepting principles of academic freedom, the committee reported today.

However, all six institutions still were recommended for censure by the committee in its report submitted to the opening session of the association's forty-second annual meeting here.

The committee's proposals were approved yesterday by the association's governing body, a 30-member council, and were to be acted on today by the full organization. Five of the colleges had been recommended for censure previously.

The sixth institution, the University of Oklahoma, was added to the list today.

Four That Improved. The four schools which made "substantial progress" in accepting principles of academic freedom are Oklahoma, Ohio State University and Temple University, the committee said.

The other two on the list proposed for censure are Rutgers University and Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. All cases involved the firing or suspension of faculty members in civil rights cases.

Association officials said representatives of the administrations and faculties of Temple and Ohio State appeared before the council yesterday to protest against the proposed censuring of their two institutions.

The committee report proposed that association officials confer with the administrations and faculties of Oklahoma, California, Ohio State and Temple "in regard to further improvements and the removal of the censure as speedily as possible."

The effect of censure was described as "purely moral" by Ralph F. Fuchs, general secretary of the association. Some teachers might not be willing to accept positions at censured institutions, he said.

In an address to the convention, Quincy Wright, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, said that a "popular hysteria" in America brought on by the cold war had led to "a serious loss of prestige of Congress" and "a serious deterioration of the civil service, especially that of the Department of State."

He asserted that in recent years the relationship between scientists and the Government has deteriorated "at a time when close and cordial relations are essential for the national defense."

One reason why the United States is falling behind Russia in the training of engineers and scientists, he said, has been "the unreasonable security standards and classification of papers in the scientific bureaus."

Wright, a past president of the association, also criticized "the excessive requirements of clearance and liability to investigation for scientists in the public service, and the inquisitions of prominent scientists" such as J. Robert Oppenheimer, the noted physicist.

"These circumstances have convinced many potential scientists that science, and in particular nuclear physics, is not a safe occupation and that if one is a scientist, it is better to keep away from the Government," he told the group, which met at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

Mother Turns Back for Moment to Aid Another Child Choking on Food.

Donald M. Crisel Jr., 12-day-old son of a Scott Air Force Base staff sergeant, drowned yesterday in his bathnet when his mother turned her back momentarily to care for another son, Jon, who was choking on food.

Mrs. Crisel, the mother, said she was bathing Donald about noon and Jon, 18 months, was in a high chair in another room eating his lunch in her home at Daly-Lewis Acres, near the air base.

Jon suddenly started coughing as though he was choking, Mrs. Crisel said. She placed Donald on a plastic apron in the bathnet

Will Retire

THE
REV. HARRY T. SCHERER

THE REV. H. T. SCHERER TO RETIRE IN 1957

Minister for 20 Years of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer announced today he will retire next January after serving for 20 years as minister of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

It is the largest Presbyterian church in Missouri and one of the 25 largest in the denomination. Since the Rev. Dr. Scherer became pastor in 1937, the membership has risen from 1415 to the present total of 3171.

He announced his decision to retire in his church's weekly paper mailed to all members. He explained that he wanted to take "less strenuous service." He was 65 years old March 29. "The announcement is made at this time," he said, "in order that the church may have ample time to secure my successor."

The Rev. Dr. Scherer and his wife are natives of Raymond, Ill. He is a graduate of James Millikin University, Decatur, Ill., and McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. He came to Webster Groves from a nine-year pastorate at First Presbyterian Church, Hutchinson, Kan. During World War I he was an Army chaplain. He is a former president of the St. Louis Metropolitan Church Federation.

Since the Rev. Dr. Scherer became pastor, the Webster Groves Church has built a three-story educational building, created the Elizabeth Holloway Woods Memorial Chapel, remodeled the sanctuary, and rebuilt the dining hall, church offices and Sunday school classrooms. Last year the church bought adjoining property for parking space.

The church supports three missionaries; one each in Africa, India and the Missouri Ozarks.

TRAILER FINALLY MOVED—BUT IT'S STILL A PROBLEM

A homemade house trailer, which the city ordered moved off city property in the 500 block of Gimblin road, has been moved a block and a half away and left in the street in Gimblin, but authorities weren't sure today their problems are solved.

Sheriff Martin L. Tozer, whose deputies moved the trailer yesterday, disclaimed further responsibility. Police said they would make a full report to Director of Streets and Sewers Frank Kriz. Kriz said: "I'll request police to move the thing—where, I don't know."

The trailer belongs to 82-year-old Miss Anna Hayes, now a patient in City Hospital, who had been living on the property since 1947 when Mississippi river floodwaters forced her out of a tent on lower ground.

The city wanted the trailer moved because it is considered a health nuisance. Among problems deputies confronted were Miss Hayes' seven chickens and a rooster, now staying with neighbors; and five dogs and several cats, which were taken to the Humane Society. One large tomcat avoided capture.

HEADS OF 2 UNIVERSITIES BACK SCHOOL TAX INCREASE

St. Louisans were urged today to approve the proposed $130 school tax levy on the $100 assessed valuation by Chancellor Ethel A. H. Shepley of Washington University and the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University. The special election will be next Thursday.

"The costs of education in recent years have risen steadily," Shepley said. "It is a continuing challenge to educators and citizens to meet these costs without lowering standards."

Father Reinert stressed the importance of improving teachers' salaries and status and commended the Board of Education for recognizing the need for increasing teachers' salaries. The proposal is a 15-cent increase over the present school tax rate of $1.15. If the measure fails, the rate will revert to 89 cents, the rate provided for in the Missouri Constitution.

$1300 AND 180 CIGARETTE CARTONS IN TRUCK STOLEN

Stephen Bresley, service man for Jack Joseph Vending Machine Co., told police that $1300 and 180 cartons of cigarettes valued at $370 were stolen from his truck yesterday while it was parked outside a tavern at Twenty-first and Olive street. Bresley said he could not explain how the money and cigarettes were taken since he found the truck locked, as he had left it. The $1300 consisted of dimes and quarters in 20 small canvas bags, he reported.

INDICATES ACTION IN TEAMSTER ROW

Judge Expected to Ask New York Council Head to Step Out.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 6—Judge Edmund L. Palmieri indicated yesterday he would ask John J.
O'Rourke today to voluntarily relinquish control of the Teamster Union's New York council which O'Rourke seized Tuesday despite a court order temporarily restraining such action.

Judge Palmieri made clear that he believed he had the right to order O'Rourke to give up control pending development of the suit brought against him by Martin T. Lacey, who is attempting to prevent O'Rourke from succeeding him as council president.
Lacey, holding that O'Rourke was named to succeed him as president of the council by illegal votes and other "fraud" in an election Feb. 14, obtained the temporary restraining order March 22.
He charged that accession by O'Rourke would bring underworld control of the 125,000 unionized truck drivers in the area. This was denied by O'Rourke, who is New York

lieutenant of James R. Hoffa, powerful Teamsters international vice president. O'Rourke's election was declared valid by Dave Beck, president of the Teamsters Union.
In a series of exchanges with Thomas Sheehan, one of O'Rourke's lawyers, Judge Palmieri left no doubt that he was upset by the seizure and other O'Rourke actions which prompted Lacey to ask that O'Rourke be punished for contempt of court.
The judge said he understood

George Brenner, O'Rourke's chief attorney, to have given assurance that Lacey's position would not be violated while the suit proceeded.

ARAB, ISRAELI FIGHTING FLARES

Keep the crisis at the boiling point, and said Egypt was guilty of a flagrant breach of the armistice.

Israel's military spokesman said Egyptian guns opened up at 8 a.m. today on an Israeli unit in Kissufim, a key Israeli communications center astride the Gaza frontier and spread an hour later to the Beerli sector six miles north.

Egypt's military spokesman said the Israel guns began firing first and poured shell after shell into the Gaza strip for an hour without letup.

"Orders have been issued to halt firing in compliance with your personal request," Israel told a U.N. official. "If Egypt again breaks the cease fire arrangement, fire will be returned."

Israel's chief military spokesman, Col. Nehemia Brosh, denied Syrian reports that Israeli and Syrian troops clashed yesterday near Ein Gev near the Sea of Galilee and that two Syrian soldiers were wounded.

Accounts Differ.

Egyptian and Israeli accounts of yesterday's fighting differed but it was clear there had been a long and deadly artillery duel in the area.

An Egyptian spokesman said the Israelis poured deadly fire into the towns of Gaza, Deir el Balah and Khan Yunis. These towns on the desert strip jutting into Israel along the Mediterranean are filled with homeless Palestinian refugees.

An Egyptian spokesman said the artillery fire started up clashes of infantry forces all along the demarcation line. He denied reports Gaza was being evacuated and said only those who lost their homes were being moved.

Egypt accused Israel of trying to inflict losses on civilians, but the Israeli Foreign Office called the casualties at Gaza "regrettable" but an "inevitable boomerang effect of Egypt's reckless folly."

"In the face of repeated warnings," the Israeli Foreign Office said, "Egyptian forces have harassed the Israeli border day in and day out for many months despite repeated admonitions by the United Nations."

Charging Israel started the trouble, Egypt complained officially to the U.N. Security Council. But an Israeli spokesman at the United Nations said Egypt started the fight and mentioned 16 separate attacks since Monday.

Israeli reports said the only sign of the battle at Ein Hashlosha, one of two villages hit by Egyptian artillery fire, was a ruined children's home.

Rushed Underground.

The children were rushed into underground shelters before they finished their afternoon prayers and inside the home itself a table still bore milk bottles, glasses, bread, butter and cheese.

By the Associated Press.

A statement issued yesterday through an Egyptian army spokesman said:

"Israel purposely tried to provoke Egyptian outposts with small automatic fire and the exchange between the two sides was aggravated yesterday (Wednesday) when Israeli artillery took part in the attacks. The artillery shelled Egyptian outposts and the town of Deir el Balah yesterday."

"Today at 1 p.m. local time, an Israeli patrol exchanged fire with one Egyptian outpost and at the same time Israeli artillery shelled Deir el Balah and Khan Yunis and Abasan."

"It was clear that Israel's aim in doing this was to cause heavy casualties among civilians, as these towns are packed with Palestinian refugees."

"Egyptian forces repulsed the attacks and Egyptian artillery pounded the Israeli settlements of Ein Hashlosha, Kissufim and Nirim."

Early Morning Attacks.

An Israeli military spokesman said the incidents started with two early morning attacks from Egyptian positions on an Israeli patrol in the Kissufim area. He gave this Israeli version of ensuing events:

Egyptians crossed the demarcation line into Israeli territory in the Beerli sector and were beaten back by an Israeli patrol. At mid-morning Egyptian positions attacked another Israeli patrol in another sector.

Egyptian automatic fire was opened at mid-day on an Israeli patrol in the Kissufim area. An hour later Egyptian artillery attacked the patrol and heavy fire was returned to relieve the patrol.

Egyptian 120-millimeter mortars shelled Israeli settlements at Kissufim and Ein Hashlosha, both near the Gaza strip. Later in the afternoon Egyptian heavy mortars shelled Nahal Oz settlement farther north and Israeli artillery, in retaliation, fired on Egyptian positions. Egyptian shelling continued after sunset on two additional settlements at Yezev, south of Nahal Oz, and Nirim.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett sent an "urgent letter to Burns in which he underlined the murderous character of the Egyptian acts of provocation along the Gaza strip, and demand firm action to stop them."

Lloyd to Hold Emergency Meeting With U.N. Secretary.

LONDON, April 6 (UP)—Britain announced today that Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will hold an emergency conference with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld here tomorrow.

The Foreign Office said Lloyd will spend an hour with Hammarskjöld at London airport. A government spokesman said Britain deplored the new incidents, but refused further comment until official reports are received from the scene.

Rome dispatches said Hammarskjöld would meet Italian Premier Segni and Foreign

the great social, psychological and organizational changes implicit in the recent decisions of the Supreme Court . . . cannot be achieved with equal speed in every community," the report said.

"The committee also agrees that the intent of the majority of the American people is to abolish racial segregation as soon as possible. This is a problem which must be worked out by each community in its own way within the framework of existing legal structures and the intent of the relevant supreme court decisions."

In view of the "emotionally-charged" atmosphere surrounding racial integration in public schools, there is a "special" need for "understanding and tolerance of differing convictions," the committee said.

This subject was the only section in the report where the committee was unanimous. The segregation issue received only scant attention in reports issued during last year's conference in Washington. It was not mentioned in summaries of preliminary state conferences, which formed part of today's report.

Committee's Assignment.

The committee was appointed by Mr. Eisenhower to organize the "most thorough, widespread and concerted study the American people have ever made of their educational system."

Administration officials, particularly Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, have said the committee's recommendations, and those of the White House Conference, were needed before final Administration policy on education could be formulated.

The committee report, therefore, can be expected to form the basis for any future educational program put forth by Mr. Eisenhower.

The report's value in the present session of Congress, is problematical, because the President already has sent up his program. Democrats previously had offered their own plan, calling for $400,000,000 a year for four years in federal school construction assistance.

Recommendations of the committee were made at the end of each of six major topics covered in the report. In general, the committee called for greater public awareness of educational problems, increased state aid and a new look at state financing of school programs.

Seven "fundamental recommendations" were listed:

1. School authorities should "emphasize the importance of priorities in education." In attempting to offer too many services and too many classroom subjects, there is "a real danger" that "schools may end by doing nothing well," the committee said. "In the rush for a great quantity of courses, quality must not be lost" and first things must come first, it added.

2. The American people should give careful study to the organization of their local school systems and consider whether state and federal funds should be withheld from school districts which are not organized efficiently. As one "dramatic example" of the need for reorganization, the committee cited 8674 school districts which do not operate schools.

3. Local boards of education should assess their school building needs and report this to state officials. The report said the nation's needs by 1960 had been variously estimated, from fewer than 200,000 to nearly 500,000 additional classrooms and said "inadequate communication" was chiefly responsible for the lack of precise knowledge.

4. "Greater inducements of all kinds" should be offered to attract and retain enough good teachers. Salary schedules and training and licensing procedures should be re-examined to see if they are discouraging young persons from becoming teachers.

5. A new look should be taken "at the entire question of how much money this society should spend on education."

6. Along this line, "every possible step (should) be taken to encourage the interest and activity of all citizens in school affairs."

7. A second White House conference, this one on higher education, should be held promptly. The report warned that the United States must begin preparing for a flood of new college students.

Discussing financing of school construction, the committee said federal aid should be given in such a way as to encourage states and local school districts "to make adequate use of their own resources" and to avoid penalizing areas "which have already made a substantial effort to provide for their school building needs."

Differences on Operation.

The committee said it would make no recommendation on whether federal funds should be provided for operation of schools, noting that there was "great division of opinion" on this in the White House and state conferences.

Urging increased state aid, the committee said each state should establish a "foundation" plan by which local school districts would be guaranteed enough state assistance to provide an agreed minimum of education.

The committee said some states impose "unreasonable" tax and debt limitations which prevent local school districts from raising enough money to finance adequate educational programs. These laws limiting the power to tax and borrow should be re-examined, the report said.

The recommendations on financing of school construction produced the only formal disagreement by committee members.

Two members, Albert J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists, and Miss Martha S. Shull, a teacher and first vice president of the National Education Association, disagreed with the suggestion for "short-time emergency federal aid."

"Contrary to the feeling expressed by the committee . . . the need for federal aid is not limited to school construction alone, and it is not a short-time proposition," Hayes said.

He criticized a "mental attitude which, at almost every point of conflict, subordinates the educational opportunities of our children to technical questions of the responsibility and authority of various levels of government."

Danger 'Exaggerated.'

Hayes said the danger that federal aid would lead to federal control of school policies "has been grossly exaggerated."

Four other committee members, in a dissent written by Frank H. Sparks, president of Wabash College, took almost the opposite view, contending that the role of the Federal Government, as suggested in the report, was too great.

The school emergency, Sparks asserted, "is not so great but that practically every state in the nation can meet it with reasonable adequacy if there is a will to do so."

In calling for "substantially increased" pay for teachers in most areas, the committee said "eventually" teacher salaries will have to be doubled "to attract the most capable young men and women to the schools."

It said the public schools now need about 205,000 qualified new teachers. It warned that the shortage "will remain acute" for possibly 10 years. Low pay for "undoubtedly" the chief cause for the shortage, it said.

By the Associated Press.

Executive Secretary William G. Carr of the National Education Association, said that the committee's recommendation for federal school building aid "is the kind of emergency program NEA has urged upon Congress for the past several years."

"The recommendation . . . is exactly what President Eisenhower recommended to Congress three months ago," he added. "A bipartisan bill to do just what the report has recommended is now pending in the Rules Committee of the House. I hope that the President will now use this report as further support for a special request that Congress pass an emergency school construction bill before it adjourns."

ISRAEL CALLS ON ENGLAND FOR QUICK ARMS DELIVERY

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—Israel called on Britain today to fulfill quickly some longstanding armaments orders in view of what it said was the growing danger of Arab aggression. The request was made to Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd in a meeting with Israeli Ambassador Ellahu Elath, Israeli diplomats said.

Israel has had a wide range of military equipment on order in Britain but for at least two years no significant deliveries have been authorized by the government. The orders include about 30 Centurion tanks and about 40 jet fighter aircraft. Other defensive equipment requested includes anti-aircraft guns, artillery pieces and small arms.

and munitions factories. The Soviets said use of aerial reconnaissance would be examined "when confidence between states has been consolidated." The Russian plan calls for completion of conventional disarmament by 1958.

Britain and France have proposed a three-stage plan which envisages one year for its first phase.

British newspapers today hailed what they saw as the beginnings of agreement in the long, drawn-out disarmament talks.

"At long last," said the Daily Sketch (Conservative), "it looks as if there might be some progress in disarmament. Of course, the basis of mutual disarmament is mutual trust. It is almost certain that Russia will reject the American suggestion of aerial survey . . . but this need not be an insuperable barrier."

The Laborite Daily Herald said the "crucial moment has arrived for checking the arms race."

Other Comment. "Never were differences narrower," the Herald declared. "Britain and France have a key part to play in seeing that success is achieved."

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said "there are clear signs of progress" in the current talks by the U.N. subcommittee.

The Telegraph said the one big problem remaining is Western fears that despite any cuts in conventional arms, Russia would still have the freedom to launch a surprise attack.

"What is possible for the Kremlin is not possible for a Cabinet in Washington or London," the Telegraph said. "In other words, disarmament can only advance a little way before it runs into the political obstacles that divide the free world and the Communist camp."

Meanwhile, all that Stassen and his colleagues can do is to gather together the fragments of agreement that have appeared and see whether some modest but clear pattern can be made out of them."

PRESIDENT WILL RESUME GREETING
OF NEW ENVOYS

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, April 6—The White House disclosed yesterday that President Eisenhower is about to resume the custom of accepting personally the credentials of new ambassadors of foreign countries.

The practice had been abandoned after his heart attack last September. The first ambassador to present his credentials in person will be George Arthur Padmore of Liberia, who will see the President Saturday morning.

Since the heart attack the credentials of 13 ambassadors have been accepted by the President indirectly. They were presented to the Secretary of State, who forwarded them to the White House. In each case the ambassador was later notified by the State Department's chief of protocol, John F. Simons, that the President had accepted his credentials.

Twelve of these 13 ambassadors were entertained by the President at a White House luncheon on March 2 as a substitute for the customary personal call. The 13th, ambassador Masayuki Tanii of Japan, will pay a brief courtesy call on the President this afternoon.

NUCLEAR AIRCRAFT
WORK REPORTED
PLANNED BY U.S.

ATLANTA, April 6 (AP)—A project for the development of nuclear-powered aircraft will be announced jointly Monday by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the United States Air Force, the Atlanta Constitution said last night.

The newspaper said it learned in Washington the project will cost between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000. Some 10,000 acres of land have been acquired near Dawsonville, Ga., about 60 miles north of Atlanta and 40 miles northeast of the Lockheed plant in Marietta. The newspaper said the project will be financed jointly by Lockheed and the Air Force.

Initial phases of the project will be confined to development of a lighter metal shield that will not become radioactive to replace lead shields now required for nuclear engines. The project will deal only with development of the plane to use a nuclear power plant, not with research and engine design, the paper said.

Lockheed officials declined comment on the project.

STEVENSON HITS AT KEFAUVER FOR SENATE ABSENCE

Says Senator Has Been Away During Action on Many Major Bills Since 1948.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 6 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson charged today that his opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, has been absent from the Senate when a number of major bills were being voted on.

The former Illinois governor repeated his charge that Kefauver is hurting the Democratic party with his campaign tactics.

In a speech to the Jacksonville Bar Association, Stevenson said Kefauver "and his supporters have raised a chorus of indignant denunciation of 'political bosses' and 'machines' trying to 'freeze him out'."

The fact that he sought the support of many of these same people or that they were on his delegation in 1952 seems to make no difference.

A political boss is evidently anyone who prefers Stevenson to Kefauver for President.

"Now actually the Senator says nothing unkind about me, but such attacks on my friends and the respected leaders of the Democratic party to win sympathy votes I cannot in honor let pass without protest. It is unfair to them to infer that they are dishonorable political leaders, and it injures the Democratic party."

"It has been my highest purpose to unite the Democratic party, not to divide it."

The candidate, who was here for a one-day campaign in an effort to win Florida's 28 national convention votes in the Democratic presidential preferential primary May 29, said also:

"I've been getting a lot of advice lately since my defeat in Minnesota. Some people tell me not to talk about the issues so much and to shake more hands. Others urge me to 'give 'em hell.' I think I'll do worse. I'll give 'em the truth."

"And one of the truths is that there may be such a thing as wanting to be President too badly. And that may be one of the reasons why none of Senator Kefauver's colleagues in the Senate and so few of the party's leaders around the country have endorsed him."

"In 1948 when the Senate passed the Displaced Persons bill and again in 1952 when it overrode President Truman's veto of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, Senator Kefauver was absent."

"He was absent when the Senate voted on the troops-to-Europe resolution in 1952 and again in 1954 when the Senate voted on the Kennedy amendment to halt the 'new look' reduction in our defense strength."

"When the reciprocal trade bills were passed in 1948, 1949, 1951 and 1954, Senator Kefauver was absent each time."

"When public housing was an issue in 1948 and 1951 and 1954, the Senator was absent, and also when the raising of postal rates was being considered in 1954, and when the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, with all its Dixon-Yates and public power implications, was passed by the Senate."

"Last month when the Senate debated and voted on the agriculture bill amendment offering higher parity for small farmers, Senator Kefauver was absent from the Senate and did not vote."

Stevenson repeated his stand on integration, saying it is the "law of the land" and that he "would only ask that law-abiding citizens comply with it in a lawful manner and as the courts find reasonable and feasible."

"Desegregation cannot be done by guns and bayonets. It cannot be done overnight."

Stevenson planned to spend the remainder of the day shaking hands and chatting on street corners.

At his vacation site in Kingsland, Ga., he had said yesterday that if the South should walk out this year the effectiveness of the Democratic party might be destroyed for a long time.

"If the South left the Democratic party," he declared, "the Democrats not only would lose this important election this year, but the party would be injured for years to come. The Democratic party would be destroyed as an effective instrument of the liberals and of the people's government."

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination discussed the importance of the South to the Democratic party and of the party to the South yesterday in a copyrighted interview with M. L. St. John, Political editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

Stevenson said he did not foresee any third party but warned that "by turning to a splinter party, the South could only lose its prestige in Congress, prestige it holds with influential Democratic leadership from the South."

"It would be unmitigated disaster if the South should leave the Democratic party because of a civil rights dispute," he said.

As for the Republican appeal to the South, Stevenson said: "Certainly the South can expect no more sympathetic view of its problems from the Republican party that it is getting from its own party, the Democratic party."

At this point Stevenson again hit at what he described as "the Republican Administration's poor treatment of the farmer and its favoritism toward big business."

New Catacomb Rich in Murals Of Early Christianity Is Found

Vatican Says Burial Place Is Like 'Fourth Century Art Gallery'—Discovered by Excavations for Apartments.

The New York Herald Tribune-Poc Dispatch Special Edition

ROME, April 6—The Vatican announced yesterday discovery of a new catacomb crowded with the finest collection of early Christian murals yet found in the ancient Roman underground burial places.

The catacomb is 158 feet long and 89 feet wide. It is small in comparison with the total of 500 miles of previously discovered catacombs, but the murals depicting Old and New Testament and pagan scenes are so numerous and in such good condition that it "gives the impression of being a fourth century A.D. art gallery," the Rev. Antonio Ferrua, head of the Vatican Archeological Commission, said.

The discovery proves once again that "underground Rome" is inexhaustibly rich, the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano commented.

The catacomb was discovered as a result of recent construction. Foundations for two new apartment houses opened into corners of the previously unknown underground cemetery, and five months' work by the Vatican Archeological Commission has resulted in a first appraisal and temporary protection of what lies inside the chambers and galleries.

Digging is still going on and much work of cleaning and restoration needs to be done, Father Ferrua said in the article in L'Osservatore Romano.

Most of the murals are of Old Testament scenes. Among them are the expulsion of Adam and Eve from Paradise, Cain and Abel, the Flood, the drunkenness of Noah, and Lot's wife turned into a pillar of salt. The New Testament murals, according to the Vatican, are "extraordinary for their beauty."

Among them are Jesus and the 12 Apostles, the Sermon on the Mount, the soldiers casting lots for Christ's garments, and Lazarus rising from the dead in the presence of 83 witnesses.

Among the pagan murals are Cleopatra and the asp and scenes from the life of Hercules. Some of the pictures are of themes unknown until now and will need considerable study, Father Ferrua reported.

New Yorkers Back St. Louisan In $1,750,000 Greek Oil Venture

Martin Lerman Is President of Plan to Drill on Island of Zakynthos.

MARTIN LERMAN

A New York syndicate has agreed to finance a $1,750,000 Greek oil venture to be undertaken by American-Greek Oil Co., Inc. of which 25-year-old Martin Lerman of St. Louis is president, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

The venture involves reopening one of the world's oldest commercial oil fields on and around the island of Zakynthos, which is southernmost among the Ionian islands about 12 miles off the western coast of Greece. It has been producing since before 450 B.C.

When the Germans occupied Greece early in World War II, they reopened the field and dug 14 wells. They dynamited the installation, however, before leaving. The oil has been described as very heavy petroleum, with an asphalt base crude.

Last fall Lerman and a group of six other St. Louisans were reported to have obtained royalty contracts from the Greek Government permitting drilling, exploration and extraction on and around the island. Lerman had been trying to get the concession for two years. He is now in New York.

James Gribble, public relations man for Lerman, told the Post-Dispatch by telephone from New York that the project had been underwritten by a group of New York stockbrokers whose identity he could not disclose. He said they had guaranteed the full $1,750,000 and that work on the Greek project would begin right away.

Lerman is the son of Sol Lerman, a partner in General Welding Equipment Co. of St. Louis. His parents live at 7128 Tulane avenue, University City. He attended Washington University for a year as a liberal arts student.

The corporation of which Lerman is president was set up under Maryland laws with the help of St. Louis business men who took a minority interest in the project, it was reported. C. A. Mulholland, St. Louis petroleum engineer, has estimated that the main oil sands at Zakynthos may be below 2400 feet.

Lerman's plans were said to call for reopening seven German wells and drilling perhaps 20 more. The agreement with the Greek Government, it was reported, called for purchase by the Government of all oil produced, for processing at a new refinery near Athens.

Zakynthos's antiquity as an oil source is confirmed by a passage from the Greek historian Herodotus, who told of watching pitch being taken there for water-proofing the bottoms of Greek ships.

ADENAUER SUMMONS AIDS FOR EMERGENCY TALKS

BONN, April 6 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer today summoned his foreign affairs advisers to Ascona, Switzerland, for an emergency weekend conference. The 80-year-old Chancellor is on vacation there.

The West German Government is worried about latest foreign political developments. It fears that German reunification might be shelved in favor of some other way of reaching a settlement with Russia.

Others today are: Margaret Ann Herrmann, 6551 Oleatha avenue, a teacher; Mrs. Eleanor H. Schicht, 3 River Bluff place, insurance agent; Frank L. G. Weiss, 5536 Emerson avenue, hardware dealer; Mrs. Conrad Sommer, 5327 Waterman boulevard, housewife; Delbert R. Neupert, 4409 South Spring avenue, advertising manager; and John Hamilton, 1917 Belt avenue, accountant.

Those who declared their candidacies yesterday are: John Naber, 3820 Bowen street, a labor representative; F. C. Woermann, 7 Arundel place, a contractor; Major B. Einstein, 320 Union boulevard, a banker; Glynn B. Chipley, 2740 Ellsworth avenue, an insurance broker; H. C. Harrington, 4262 Lafayette avenue, president, Missouri Chiropractic College; and C. B. Broussard, 4973 Northland avenue, principal of Dumas School.

OPINIONS SOUGHT ON RESIDENT RULE ON HIRING POLICE

The city counselor's office, which has held that the police department may hire only residents of St. Louis as policemen, today sent out letters seeking statements from persons who hold other opinions. "This department lays no claim to infallibility," the letters, signed by Acting City Counselor James V. Frank, said. "We will wholeheartedly welcome your suggestions."

BIG-STORE SALES IN DOLLARS RISE ONE PCT. IN WEEK

Department store sales in the St. Louis area increased 1 per cent in dollar volume last week compared with the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

For the four-week period ended last Saturday, St. Louis area sales increased 10 per cent over those of the corresponding period in 1955. Part of this gain is attributed to the earlier date of Easter this year than last, the bank said. Cumulative sales since Jan. 1 were up 7 per cent in dollar volume over those of the same 1955 period.

Dollar volume of sales was 5 per cent higher in the Eighth Federal Reserve District as a whole last week than in the similar period a year ago. Sales in the district were 10 per cent higher in the four weeks ending Saturday over a year ago.

Department store sales nationally were 6 per cent higher last week than in the corresponding period a year ago.

BULK OF $100,000,000 GOULD ESTATE TO WIDOW

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., April 6 (AP)—Frank Jay Gould, who died in France April 1, left the bulk of his reputed $100,000,000 estate to his widow. His will was probated here today.

He left $100,000 each to his two daughters, explaining they had been "amply provided" for under the will of their grandfather, Jay Gould, American railroad tycoon. They are Mrs. Helen Gould Maret and Mrs. Dorothy Gould Burns.

Gould also made bequests to a number of friends and employees, some of whom have died since he made out his will on April 14, 1936. His will did not specify the amount of his estate, listing only $50,000 in personal property in Westchester county here and "more than one million dollars" in personal property elsewhere.

6 KILLED WHEN TRACTOR, TRUCK COLLIDE IN ILLINOIS

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., April 6 (AP)—Six persons were killed today when a truck loaded with farm workers collided with a tractor on U.S. 51 two miles north of Normal. The victims were believed to have been farm workers from Mexico on their way north.

The truck turned over on its side and caught fire.

WEST TO HOLD AIR, NAVAL TEST IN MEDITERRANEAN

ALGIERS, April 6 (UP)—The Western Allies will hold a large-scale naval and air maneuvers April 11-20 to test protection of convoy and transport lanes in the Mediterranean, French authorities said today.

They said the maneuver has been named Medifex Dragon. Taking part, they said, will be ships and planes from France, Italy, Britain, Greece, Turkey, the United States and Portugal. A "blue force" directed by Adm. Guy Grantham, commander in chief of the Allied forces in the Mediterranean, will represent the Allies attempting to keep the shipping moving and protected. An "orange force" will be the "enemy."

GRAND JURY, FIRE CHIEFS TO CHECK BARRACKS SAFETY

A fire safety inspection of dwellings at the Jefferson Barracks housing project will be conducted Tuesday by the St. Louis county grand jury accompanied by three fire chiefs in the county.

The inspection is intended to determine if there are existing fire hazards that would make it necessary to vacate some of the housing units at once. Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz of the county said.

The inspection, which Garnholz said would be "substantial," possibly lasting the greater part of the day, was proposed by Martin Lammert III, chairman of the grand jury's subcommittee on Jefferson Barracks, after conflicting testimony was heard by the jury on reported fire hazards.

Fire chiefs who will accompany the grand jurors and representatives of Garnholz's office are Edward G. Reboire of Ladue, Otto Bredler of Clayton and Alex Campbell of Jefferson Barracks.

TRUMAN BACKS HENNING, WON'T AID IN PRIMARY

quoted as saying that he first learned of the prospective candidacy of his friend, Gavin, during the St. Louis stopover. He said it surprised him.

Truman then was described by reporters as declining to say to whom he would give his support.

In today's interview with the Post-Dispatch, Truman said the latter report was wrong. He thereupon told of the luncheon meeting with Hennings of last year and repeated his endorsement of the St. Louisan.

Truman's 1952 Alternate.

Gavin, who was Truman's alternate delegate to the Democratic national convention at Chicago in 1952, told the Post-Dispatch he expected to "have some fun out of the campaign."

He said he had been requested to run by a number of war veterans.

Gavin has been a close ally of James M. Pendergast, who fell heir to the now-weakened Kansas City machine left by his uncle, the late Boss Tom Pendergast.

Both Pendergast and Hennings were guests yesterday at a luncheon given by a private club of Kansas City business men and lawyers. Pendergast introduced Hennings and by this gesture convinced those present that he was for the incumbent Senator. The club has a rule against speechmaking at its luncheons.

Gavin, a former state legislator and present Kansas City councilman, has been affiliated with the Pendergast faction for many years. This group lost control of Jackson county two years ago to the powerful Democratic coalition forces headed by William Sermon of Independence and County Clerk Ben Nordberg. Both Sermon and Nordberg have endorsed Hennings for re-election.

Thomas J. Guilfoil, St. Louis attorney, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, said he is not a candidate for any office.

Guilfoil said he expected to be working in Hennings' behalf and he predicted the Hennings campaign organization would be completed in about three weeks, with headquarters in Jefferson City.

MAN FALLS INTO WATER

AT SUNTAN BEACH, DIES

Allen Shipp, 5163 Kensington avenue, died yesterday after falling into about 20 feet of water at Suntan Beach, three miles north of St. Charles, the sheriff's office reported.

Shipp, 71 years old, had been standing on the bank watching fish lines while his son-in-law, William A. Logan, a Negro, fished a quarter of a mile away. A passerby told Sheriff Lester Plackmeyer that Shipp suddenly stood up, lost his balance and fell into the water.

Efforts to revive Shipp, a Negro, with artificial respiration and an inhalator failed. An inquest will be held.

JACOB W. SCHIELE DIES,

OPERATED INSURANCE FIRM

Jacob W. Schiele, who operated Schiele-Kleinschmidt Agency Co., an insurance firm, for more than 50 years, died today of complications following an operation at Deaconess Hospital. He was 83 years old and lived at 5416 Queens avenue.

Surviving are his wife and five daughters, Mrs. Grace Klein, Mrs. Joseph Andrysek, Mrs. Lloyd Moon, Mrs. Henry A. Schneider and Mrs. Russell Hoppe.

INSTITUTE SET UP BY WASHINGTON U.

Change in Department of Education Is Effective July 1.

Washington University's department of education will be reorganized and broadened in scope on July 1 as the new Graduate Institute of Education, it was announced today.

The new institute, which will be a supra-departmental organization short of the status of a separate graduate school, will appoint several additional faculty members, but will offer the same courses and degrees as the present department.

Robert J. Schaefer, chairman of the department who will head the new institute as its director and chairman of its managing board, said the change is being made to give the department more flexibility in training students and to provide greater possibilities for research.

The institute, he said, will permit the university to assemble the kinds of education faculty "which can ask fundamental questions about education." He added that some of the results of this research eventually should improve the content of existing courses.

Within the institute will be a bureau of consultant services, through which professional advice and research facilities will be available to school agencies which ask for them, Schaefer said.

The bureau also will arrange for clinical experience in education for advanced students and faculty members, he said.

The institute's managing board will be the Council on Teacher Education. Members of the council will be Dean Lewis E. Hahn of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences; Dean Thomas S. Hall of the College of Liberal Arts; Stephen C. Gribble, professor of education; Marion E. Bunch, professor of psychology; and Holbrook M. MacNellie, professor of mathematics.

WIDE HUNT ON FOR WRITER'S ATTACKERMan Throws Acid Into Eyes of Labor Columnist
Victor Riesel.

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation and other federal and local agencies pressed a hunt today for the unidentified man who threw sulphuric acid into the eyes of labor columnist Victor Riesel early yesterday. Rewards totaling $14,500 have been offered.

Facilities of the FBI, the New York police department, the Manhattan district attorney's office and the United States attorney's office were mobilized.

State Attorney General Jacob K. Javits pledged the co-operation of his office in bringing Riesel's assailant to justice. Gov. Averell Harriman said he was "inexpressibly shocked."

The latest word on whether the 41-year-old Riesel's eyesight will be lost or impaired came from Dr. Geraldo Bonaccorto, chief eye surgeon at St. Clare's Hospital.

"The diagnosis is guarded. We will not know for one week. He can see now. He has vision now. He can make out objects and light. It will take, however, about one week before we can tell what the results will be to his vision. Both eyes are damaged, perhaps the right eye more than the left. It is quite serious, but I have hope for the best."

United States Attorney Paul W. Williams called the acid-throwing a "black effort" to intimidate witnesses in his month-old investigation into industrial racketeers in the metropolitan area.

Williams said Riesel had given the Department of Justice "important information" on gangster methods in the trucking and garment industries.

Riesel told reporters he believed the attack was provoked by his radio denunciation of convicted racketeers in the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Riesel was attacked about 3 a.m. yesterday on a mid-Manhattan street. Miss Betty Nevins, a young woman assistant with Riesel at the time, escaped injury. Detectives were on guard for her protection as Miss Nevins was questioned.

Riesel is reported to have received a number of threats by telephone and letter in 14 years of attacking Communists and racketeers in organized labor, but he paid them slight heed.

The Hall syndicate distributes Riesel's column to 193 newspapers in the country.

KEFAUVER OPENS 5-DAY CAMPAIGN IN NEW JERSEY

Stevenson Camp Backing Regular Democratic Group's Convention Slate.

NEWARK, N.J., April 6 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver began a five-day handshaking tour of New Jersey today as Adlai Stevenson backers started rounding up support for a rival slate of unpledged delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Kefauver, arriving from a day of appearances in Nebraska, held a press conference here in his first on-the-spot bid for votes for a list of delegates pledged to him in the April 17 primary.

Word came from the Stevenson camp, meanwhile, that it would campaign to have Democrats vote for the slate proposed by the regular Democratic organization.

"Surprised" at Criticism. He told reporters he was "surprised and disappointed" at criticism by Stevenson. He said Stevenson had been "slinging some mud."

"I had no ill word against him," he said. "I turned the other cheek."

Asked to explain the "mud" reference, Kefauver said Stevenson had made fun of his (Kefauver's) handshaking by inference. The Senator added that Stevenson had accused him of saying one thing in one part of the country and something else in another part.

Kefauver also disclosed that he would meet Gov. Robert E. Meyner Sunday and probably would go to church with him. Meyner heads the unpledged slate of delegates in the state's April 17 primary, while Kefauver backers have entered a second slate.

"I came to this state with no ill will to state officials or party leaders," he said. "If the Governor and certain party leaders want to run on our slate, a place will be made by some of our candidates dropping out."

"If I am successful, party leaders and Governor can come over to our slate. I have no desire to cause anyone any harm."

Stevenson Strategy. Harold C. Hoffman, state treasurer of the Stevenson-for-President Committee, said yesterday that supporters of the former Illinois Governor also would try to get Democrats to ignore the separate presidential preference poll on April 17.

The preference poll amounts to a popularity contest since it does not bind delegates. Kefauver is the only name to appear on the Democratic side in the poll. President Eisenhower's name is the only one entered on the Republican side.

The line-up was the same in the 1952 preferential balloting, when Kefauver got 154,964 votes and Mr. Eisenhower 390,591.

Stevenson, a comparative unknown at the time, got only 563 write-in votes in the 1952 primary poll. In the general election that year he lost New Jersey to Eisenhower, 1,015,902 votes to 1,374,613.

Primary voters may write in names of their favorites in the poll, but Hoffman said there would be no write-in campaign for Stevenson.

Before leaving Omaha yesterday, Kefauver repeated he felt Stevenson was "still out in front" for the nomination, despite the fact Kefauver beat Stevenson in the recent Minnesota primary.

Kefauver's attempt to capture New Jersey's 36 convention votes will carry him from one end of the state to the other. It is his first invasion of a major Eastern industrial state in this year's campaign.

After appearances in north Jersey, the Senator tonight speaks to campus groups at Princeton and Rutgers Universities and attends a rally of egg farmers in Lakewood.

AVA GARDNER IS DETAINED IN ROME, PASSPORT EXPIRED

ROME, April 6 (UP)—Italian customs officials detained Actress Ava Gardner for an hour last night when she arrived here from Madrid with an expired passport.

Miss Gardner, who was accompanied by American movie director Fred H. Herbert, said she flew to Rome for a few days to buy three dresses from the Rome fashion house which is making Margaret Truman's trousseau.

Smart in a blue suit with a white hat and a red leather handbag, she waited for an hour in the Ciampino Airport bar while customs officials studied the problem. They gave her a temporary permit to stay in Rome pending renewal of the passport and sent the passport itself to the American consulate.

MUSIC BY ST. LOUISANS TO BE CONCERT FEATURE

A program of chamber music written by St. Louis composers over the last 100 years will be the final presentation in the winter series of concerts for members of the Missouri Historical Society tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the west wing of Jefferson Memorial.

A feature of the concert, arranged by Ernst C. Krohn, director of music at St. Louis University, will be the playing for the first time of Dr. Barrett L. Taussig's "Quintette for Strings and Piano." The ensemble will be under the direction of Jerome D. Rosen.

Other compositions to be presented were written by William Robyn, P. G. Anton Sr., and Samuel Bollinger.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME

The body of Mrs. Gertrude Seitz, 75-year-old widow, was found hanging yesterday by a clothesline tied to a joist in the basement of her home, 4249 Humphrey street. A daughter, Miss Barbara Seitz, who found the body, told police her mother had an abdominal operation two weeks ago.

REUTHER IN INDIA DISPUTES MEANY'S DISLIKE OF NEHRU

NEW DELHI, April 6 (AP)—One United States labor leader took issue here today with another's criticism of Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

Walter P. Reuther, a vice president of the AFL-CIO, said he disagreed "most emphatically" with George Meany, president of the organization, on the subject. Reuther told a news conference Nehru was "truly one of the great statesmen of the world."

Meany, addressing the National Religion and Labor Foundation in New York City last Dec. 13, said that Nehru and President Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia were not neutrals but "allies of Communism in fact and in effect, if not in diplomatic verbiage."

Reuther, also president of the United Auto Workers, arrived April 4 for an 11-day tour.

Before meeting reporters today, Reuther presented Nehru with a 13-volume set of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's papers. He had lunch with Nehru and his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi. Earlier he visited villas which are being developed with United States aid. In one he took a pair of cymbals and danced with the villagers.

Officers installed at the annual meeting were Edgar B. Roberts, who succeeded William H. Chapman as president; Roy B. Gleason, first vice president; Robert C. Wendel, second vice president, and Mrs. Douglas H. Anderson, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Edward M. Brooks, professor of geophysics and geophysical engineering at St. Louis University, spoke on sun spots and their effect on the weather.

GEN. PHILLIPS

Compromise Likely in Iceland On Withdrawing U.S. Troops; Local Politics Behind Conflicts

Elements Involved Include Native Girls' Liking for Americans, Jealousy of Young Icelanders and Communists Exploiting Their Opportunities.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 6. THE RESOLUTION passed by the Icelandic Parliament calling for the withdrawal of NATO forces (about 6000 soldiers and all American) from the air and naval bases at Keflavik has no operative effect internationally.

A United States-Iceland treaty provides that either government may ask the North Atlantic Council to review the continued necessity for the facilities and their utilization. If after six months an agreement is not reached, either one can serve notice to terminate the agreement within a year. No such request has been, or will be, made by the present government of Iceland.

The government, a coalition of the Independence and Progressive parties, fell as a result of the vote on the resolution. The Progressives party deserted the coalition to vote with left-wing parties and the Communists.

Elections Next June. The government remains in office pending new elections in June. In the meantime, no action toward abrogation of the agreement will be taken. After the election the composition of the new government will determine whether Iceland goes ahead with a request to the North Atlantic Council.

If the new government demands the withdrawal of the NATO forces there is no question but that the United States will pull out its troops stationed there. It is more likely, however, that a compromise will be reached calling for substantially reduced forces to place the bases on a caretaker status in peacetime.

Iceland is a little more than half way from New York to Moscow. Obviously, in case of war, it is a prize in the hands of either side.

Not only is it on the air route to Moscow, but it is about 800 miles from Greenland to the west and Ireland to the east and thus is a strategic link between the North Atlantic waters through which Soviet submarines must pass to gain access to the Atlantic routes of American and Allied shipping.

The Keflavik base is also a transit base for short-range aircraft crossing the Atlantic by the northern routes. Short-range fighters and interceptors cross to Europe in 800-mile stages starting at Goose Bay, Labrador, thence to southern Greenland, Iceland and Ireland.

Might Be a Battleground. If there were no NATO troops on Iceland, the instant war broke out there would be a race between the Soviet Union and the United States to get there. This probably would lead to fighting on Iceland itself and in the surrounding waters.

If NATO forces were ready there, it is unlikely that Russia would try to force them out.

Iceland nearly became a battleground in World War II. German technicians and officials had moved in and the Germans had established a submarine base at an isolated location. The British, however, got there with the first armed forces and were replaced later by agreement by United States forces.

Responsible officials of Iceland know all this and are anxious to retain the status quo. But politics in Iceland are more local and narrow than can be envisioned in the bigger states. Iceland has a population of 158,000 on a little island 800 miles from its nearest neighbor. In general all the Iceland-

Gen. Gruenther Clarifies View On NATO Power

Not Strong Enough on Ground, but Could Defeat Foe in Air.

PARIS, April 6 (AP).

GEN. ALFRED M. GRUENTHER said yesterday that Western Europe's forces still were not strong enough to stop short an all-out ground attack but that massive airpower would defeat an aggressor.

The Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers in Europe added, however, that forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would still "fight hard and valiantly for any NATO territory threatened by an aggressor."

Gruenther spelled out his position in the wake of an interview published in Germany which quoted him as saying NATO would have to give up all West Germany in the event of Sovietism in West Germany and Holland. Gruenther's headquarters said he had been misquoted.

No Defense Line Drawn. Yesterday he gave a statement to a group of broadcasters who visited that headquarters (SHAPE) near Paris. Meanwhile, an article appeared under his signature in the weekly newspaper Rheinischer Merkur in Cologne, Germany.

The two statements clearly showed Gruenther did not feel his forces could defend all of Europe on the ground. Yet he drew no actual line that he felt could be successfully held against a Soviet attack.

Speaking at his headquarters, Gruenther said: "The question is frequently asked, 'Are we yet strong enough to give a guarantee that we could resist successfully an all-out act of aggression?' I think that in all frankness we must admit that in spite of our great progress during the past five years we are still not that strong."

However, we will have that strength when the German contribution is effective and we estimate that this will be in about three to four years from now."

Counts on Air Superiority. Gruenther's Cologne article, supplied to the paper by the United States Information Agency in Düsseldorf, Germany, was titled, "Can Europe Be Defended?"

It said: "We are in a position to destroy the enemy if he attacks on a large scale even if we may not be able to protect certain areas against an invasion." In that article and in his headquarters statement, Gruenther said Western air superiority

ity now constituted the major deterrent to aggression and would insure the defeat of an aggressor.

Speaking to the broadcasters, he added: "In this stage in the technological development of defense against offensive aircraft, the offense has a tremendous advantage over the defense. In other words, the B-47 airplane (the United States six-jet atomic bomber) and the 'V' bombers (Britain's jet bomber series) can fly so fast and so high that there is as of now no defensive answer to this type of attack."

Real Winner Unlikely. "This means that if certain parts of Europe should be overrun our retaliatory attacks would insure the defeat of the Soviet bloc. 'Now mind you, I am not saying we would win because I am convinced there would be no such thing as a winner in a third world war. But the Soviets would be defeated and I am sure this reality weighs heavily in the minds of the Soviet war planners.'"

While this constitutes a major deterrent, Gruenther said, SHAPE feels that air power in itself is not a good enough answer and consequently advocates a German contribution to NATO "so that we shall be able to state positively that we will be able to prevent the overrunning of all NATO territory. We believe we will reach this situation in from three to four years."

Denies Statement. "This does not mean," Gruenther added, "that if war should come now we would give up our forward areas. Quite the contrary, our NATO forces would fight hard and valiantly for any NATO territory threatened by an aggressor."

A state-ment such as "SHAPE plans to defend in southwest France" is of course absolute nonsense. We have no such plans."

Gruenther emphasized that the number one objective of the NATO organization was the preservation of peace. A statement such as "SHAPE plans to defend in southwest France" is of course absolute nonsense. We have no such plans."

AFGHANISTAN MILITARY MISSION IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

VIENNA, April 6 (AP)—The Prague radio announced yesterday that a military mission from Afghanistan has arrived in Czechoslovakia.

The military delegation, headed by Maj. Abdul Razaq, is expected to place orders for Czechoslovak arms after making a tour of industries.

Czechoslovakia has been granting Afghanistan credits since early 1955 for arms purchases and such projects as the construction of a cement factory. It has also sent groups of technicians to Afghanistan.

FLEESON G.O.P. Cites Gains Under Eisenhower

Boasts of Social Trends That It Opposed in New Deal Days.

By DORIS FLEESON
WASHINGTON.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CHAIRMAN LEONARD W. HALL has released some figures which may help to explain why President Eisenhower carried a normally Democratic city like Milwaukee in the primaries this week.

Hall told a Republican audience in Troy, N.Y., that the post-depression social and economic revolution is rolling along even better under President Eisenhower than it did under Harry S. Truman. He cited economic studies showing that:

The nation's total income in 1955 was 387 billion dollars, 42 billion more than in 1952. Labor's share amounted to 65 per cent during the seven Truman years, but has risen to 69 per cent in the first three Eisenhower years.

Corporation profits, after taxes, which averaged 7.8 per cent of the total national income during the seven Truman years, dropped to 6 per cent under Mr. Eisenhower.

Revolution of a Sort. It is a revolution of a sort when a Republican national chairman can make such figures a matter of boasting. The trends set in motion by Franklin D. Roosevelt were for many years anathema to the G.O.P. Now, having failed to lick them, the Republicans are joining them.

Not all Republicans consider this a matter for rejoicing. There are many gatherings of that party right here in Washington where it is seriously debated whether Mr. Eisenhower's triumphs are a victory for Republicanism. Some of the old guard believe sincerely that principle has been hopelessly compromised to win voters.

This is, of course, reminiscent of the early days of the New Deal when conservative Democrats insisted both their party and the Constitution were gone. Hall's survey also shed light on the lethargy that permeates official Washington. Timidity is the occupational disease of politics, and when politicians think the people are reasonably shut in the Negro wards of Milwaukee. Many of these

Voters' Trend to Independence Alarms Both Parties' Strategists

Wisconsin Accentuates Negro Desertion of Democrats Over Segregation Issue, and Farmers' Anger at G.O.P.

By JAMES RESTON

The New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, April 6.

A MARKED TREND toward independent voting seems to be modifying if not destroying many of the normal political assumptions of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Primary elections are not a reliable guide to voting in November, but the primaries in New Hampshire, Minnesota and Wisconsin all seem to suggest that neither party can be absolutely sure this year of the overwhelming support of voters on whom they traditionally depend in presidential elections.

The Republican party, normally moored to the agricultural North, is clearly in trouble with the farmers, whose income has fallen off more than 25 per cent in some areas in the last four years.

Likewise the Democrats, who have counted on the Roosevelt coalition of the deep South and the so-called labor vote and minority vote of the urban North, are apparently losing support among the Negroes on the segregation issue and among other working people above the Mason-Dixon line on the prosperity issue.

Strategists Uneasy. Thus, in a period of transition, when there is an unusually large movement of people from one area of the country to another, and an extremely large number of "new voters" all over the country, the political strategists of both parties are uneasy. They think they see the development of wholly new and unpredictable political alignments in the nation.

Wisconsin illustrates the trend toward weakening of party allegiance. The normally Republican farmers of Wisconsin voted heavily for Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, particularly in the hog-raising and marginal dairy districts. At the same time, the normally Democratic voters of industrial Milwaukee and the other southeastern areas of the state, who are fully and prosperously employed, gave President Eisenhower a larger percentage of the vote this week than in 1952.

This same trend was less marked in Minnesota and New Hampshire, but there were evidences of the same Democratic rise in the rural areas and loss in the prosperous cities. Shift in Negro Vote. Moreover, the largest Republican gain in the Wisconsin primary was in the Negro wards of Milwaukee. Many of these

Nevertheless, the primaries are raising the Democratic cry: "Let's regain the support of the Negroes and labor in the North and go after the farmers in the Midwest. That is our only hope."

Mr. Eisenhower swept the 12 Middlewestern states in the 1952 election, picking up all 153 electoral votes on Harry Truman's "give-'em-hell" campaign in Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa and Missouri. If they can do that again, and hold their strength in the urban areas of the north, the Democrats say, maybe they can pull another upset.

Holding together the Roosevelt coalition in the North, however, may prove to be as hard for the Democrats as the Republican campaign to retain the support of the angry farmers.

Zhukov May Win Power Fight In Kremlin, Bohlen Reports

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright, 1956.) WASHINGTON.

AMBASSADOR CHIP BOHLEN took a trip from Moscow to Rome the other day, officially on a vacation. Real reason behind this trip, however, was to send a secret cablegram to President Eisenhower on the turmoil inside Russia. He went to Rome in order to use the high-speed transmitter of the United States Embassy there so the Russians could not, under any circumstances, interfere with his message.

Gist of Bohlen's report was that Marshal Georgi Zhukov, co-commander of Germany with Gen. Eisenhower after V-E day, may emerge as the most powerful man in Russia. Unrest has spread through the Soviets, Bohlen wired. How serious it is is difficult to guess.

Bohlen indicated he was not guessing when he reported that the army is solidly behind Zhukov and that Zhukov has become the No. 2 man in Russia, second only to Khrushchev. (The State Department announced yesterday that Bohlen has been summoned to Washington for consultations.)

Bohlen reported that Khrushchev can probably consolidate his power despite the turmoil over Stalin and remain in office for the time being, depending on when and if Zhukov wants to strike.

Even in Moscow, old men and women openly weep in front of Stalin's tomb, refusing to believe he was the tyrant and blunderer he is now pictured.

HATE-MONGERS—Some of the hate groups active in the 1952 campaign are already maneuvering to snipe at President Eisenhower, Senator Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson. They have adopted the technique of latching onto some of the splinter party groups.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Name and address must accompany every letter, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Danger in the Middle East

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Time is running out in the Middle East. Unless our Government abandons its policy of appeasement of the Arabs and takes positive steps to insure peace, the Middle East may flare up into a great conflagration, which can spread to the ends of the world.
Logic and reason dictate supplying Israel promptly with defensive armament to deter the aggressor. Furthermore, mutual security treaties should be offered Israel and all the other Middle Eastern states guaranteeing the inviolability of the present boundary lines.
President Eisenhower has declared with unquestioned definiteness and earnestness that the preservation of Israel as a free people is the accepted policy of the United States. Unfortunately, the recent actions of our State Department have not been very convincing either to Israel or her enemy neighbors that such a program is actually in effect.
M. J. SLONIM.

Chivalry—or Equality?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In this age when the weaker sex has practically achieved the equality for which it has fought so hard and clamored so long, comes now Cornelia Denny plaintively inquiring as to the whereabouts of chivalry. How inconsistent can one become?
I fear that Miss Denny is just "not with it."
BRIEF CASE.

In reply to Cornelia Denny's letter "Chivalry Died Long Ago," may I add that chivalry died when appreciation ceased.
J.W.

The Lenten Series

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
This is just a short but sincere note to say "Thank you" for the series of articles printed daily for Lent on "Stories From the Life of Jesus." I enjoyed rereading the story Friday afternoon as an individual Good Friday service.
The stories have been clipped and soon will be saved in a scrapbook for use in the future with church groups and as needed.
GRACE GODBOLD.

The Democrats' Choice

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It looks as if reader Marian Barnholtz of University City shares your views on Senator Kefauver's victories in New Hampshire and Minnesota.
It is quite evident that your "fair-haired boy" (Stevenson) has suffered a real setback. Why don't you and Marian Barnholtz admit defeat instead of making childish excuses?
As time goes on, I think you will find that this year the American people will not be forced to accept the candidate of the party bosses as they were in 1952. The true Democrats will make their own choice in 1956!
DeSoto, Mo. KENNETH COX.

The Man for the Post

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I read with great interest Mr. Sherman's remarks about the future of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and I can only hope that the board of directors of the orchestra have also read them.
The most important factor, it seemed to me, was the necessity of having a resident director of the orchestra until such a time as a permanent conductor is chosen.
The man who could most capably fill that post is Harry Farberman, who has shown in the many years he has been the assistant conductor how dedicated he is to the orchestra and to the musical life of St. Louis.
Clayton. READER.

A Record to Cheer

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Congratulations are in order to Coach Red Holzman, the team, and the entire staff of the St. Louis Hawks. In NBA competition, the Hawks gave a fine account of themselves, and closed the season with a record of which they may well be proud.
Our city's reputation in professional athletics has been given a much needed transfusion by the appearance of the Hawks. I hope the people of St. Louis don't follow the apathy road which led to the disappearance of some of our other professional teams, the Browns, the Knights, the Bombers and the Flyers. Let's not add the Hawks to this list.
THOMAS H. HICKS.
Kirkwood.

Too Busy Watching Traffic

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Every thug, robber, crook and burglar in St. Louis knows that there is a very good chance of committing a crime and getting away with it, even to holding on the streets in broad daylight. This is because the majority of policemen on duty are so busy watching parking meters for possible parking violators and so diligently enforcing other traffic ordinances.
Police Commissioner Long claims that the police force needs many more men, whereas actually the force really needs new orders. If the police force of St. Louis were to patrol the streets in the manner in which police forces were originally conceived, perhaps many of the present lawbreakers would think twice before attempting a crime.
CITIZEN.

To the Tinderbox

Dag Hammarskjöld is off to the Middle East and his peace mission comes not a day too soon. As the Secretary General of the United Nations was getting ready to leave New York, the U.N.'s chief Palestine truce administrator, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, ordered a cease-fire in the mounting hostilities between Egypt and Israel.
What the precise facts are is uncertain, but Egypt accuses Israel of killing 33 Egyptian civilians and wounding 92 civilians and seven soldiers in increased fighting in the Gaza strip. Hostilities have been continuing for weeks and now the potentially explosive situation has burst into flame.

The Associated Press reports from Tel Aviv that, according to Israeli accounts, the aggression was committed by the Egyptians. The Arabs are said to have crossed the armistice line and then to have opened fire on Israeli patrols. One of the difficulties is in knowing just who did what so responsibility may be fixed.

Even if matters get no worse, the situation will be bad enough when the U.N. mediator arrives at the east end of the Mediterranean.

Citizens of the United States may take satisfaction in knowing that it was an American resolution by which the 11-nation U.N. Security Council unanimously gave its peace instructions to Dag Hammarskjöld. His guidance calls for him to arrange for the withdrawal of armed forces from demarcation lines in the disputed area. He is also directed to work for ready access by truce observers to the demilitarized zones. Still another instruction is for him to achieve local agreements for averting violence.

The man who made the long trip to Communist China to work for the release of American prisoners knows the value and necessity of both patience and firmness. After an on-the-scene look at the controversial areas last January he said at U.N. headquarters:

"I do not see any easy way to so-called 'solutions,' and I do not believe that solutions in the absolute sense of the word, that is to say, complete settlements, are within reach. But I do believe in the possibility of an orderly progress toward solutions, and that is for me enough as a source of certain optimism."

Now that the U.N. is moving in two ways to prevent the spread of the conflagration—through the cease-fire order and the mission of its Secretary General—the fair and sensible thing is to give it a chance to show what it can do to reduce this grave international hazard.

If the U.N. efforts are not successful, and we earnestly hope that they will succeed, then Britain, France and the United States ought to reaffirm, in strong language, their 1950 tripartite pledge to keep the peace in the Middle East by actions "both within and outside the United Nations." Such a reaffirmation should make plain to the adversaries in that area that aggression, if it came, would be resisted. Already Great Britain has announced itself as "prepared to take action."

The world looks to the United States for leadership and not to provide that leadership for peace would be to forfeit it.

Let us hope fervently that peaceful adjustments will be worked out under the U.N. procedures before the new and promising nation of Israel is handicapped seriously by the United States policy of not selling arms and by the military build-up of the Arabs by the Communists. If anyone can work out these accommodations on a peaceful basis it ought to be the skillful, experienced diplomat who is now on his way to the Middle East's tinderbox of rivalries, jealousies and animosities.

A Warning and a Hope on Cancer

The Food and Drug Administration, whose principal duties pertain to guarding the public health from worthless and harmful substances, has sounded an unprecedented public warning against the Hoxsey cancer treatment. It terms the treatment worthless and also "imminently dangerous" if its use leads to neglect of other care. That is a strong declaration.

This move is the latest in a campaign that the agency has been carrying on for more than eight years against Harry M. Hoxsey whose principal clinic is in Dallas, Tex., and who asserts he now has 10,000 patients. In 1953 the agency won a decision in a United States District Court in Texas prohibiting Hoxsey from shipping in interstate commerce what the agency calls "worthless cancer medicines." Hoxsey contends no real investigation has been made, that the Food and Drug Administration has libeled him and that he is going to Washington soon "to make arrangements for a lawsuit."

About the same time that Hoxsey was attempting to rebut the agency, Dr. Lowell T. Coggeshall, who conducted a $3,000,000 cancer research program at the University of Chicago, was opening the annual Cancer Crusade in Washington. His most optimistic statement was that control of cancer was a possibility not too remote from accomplishment. He urged more research for eventual conquering of cancer.

In the light of what the agency has charged, the success it has won in court and the statements of such widely recognized cancer research experts as Dr. Coggeshall, the Food and Drug Administration is thoroughly warranted in going after Hoxsey. The State of Texas should follow suit.

Chance to Learn Something

This is a week in which educators from all parts of the country have converged on St. Louis as the center of serious deliberations on their many problems. The religious habits of those in attendance at the National Catholic Educational Association have called public attention to the convention of its members at Kiel Auditorium. Now the American Association of University Professors is in session at Hotel Jefferson.

A major concern of the administrators of Roman Catholic parochial schools is their shortage of teachers. Msgr. Joseph M. Marling, auxiliary bishop at Kansas City, said that the lack of trained teachers makes it impossible to provide a parochial training for all those children whose parents prefer a Catholic school education. Quoting figures from the National Catholic Welfare Conference, Msgr. Marling said that at present 80 to 85 per cent of all Catholic children are in elementary parochial schools and 35 to 40 per cent are in Catholic high schools. This suggests the increasing extent to which church schools are becoming a part in the education of the nation.

The meeting of the American Association of University Professors brings the leaders among the men and women at our colleges and universities who have done a great deal, often under vicious political and social pressure, to keep our educational institutions the free centers of inquiry that they must be if the American experiment in self-government is to succeed. Time after time it has been the probing vigilance of the A.A.U.P. that has saved the career of some faculty member who has been hounded by local patrioters or a prejudiced college board.

Ralph F. Fuchs, former professor of law at Washington University, who has succeeded the late Ralph E. Himstead as general secretary of the A.A.U.P., occupies one of the key places in the never-ending fight for freedom in American education.

Why Only 50 Per Cent?

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly has asked the Legislature to submit a constitutional amendment at the November elections so that Missouri may earn interest on at least some of the idle funds kept in the banks of the state.

Months ago Republican candidate Joseph M. Wheelan of St. Louis made the interest-free deposits an issue. Other candidates of both parties took it up, including L. C. Carpenter on the Democratic side. How could they be against it—especially since Mr. Carpenter was circulating petitions to force the matter to a vote?

Yet nothing happened until after the disclosure that State Treasurer G. Hubert Bates, the Governor and several State Senators have interests in some of the depositories. Only in the case of the Treasurer has a question of legality been raised, and he cites opinions of the Attorney General's office in his defense. Whatever the law, it is against public policy that a state official should profit by state funds. Nor can taxpayers be satisfied with a situation which allows banks to earn money on state funds when the state itself may not do so.

So a correction is in order. Yet Gov. Donnelly suggests that this should allow the state to put no more than 50 per cent of its idle funds in interest-bearing time deposits. Why only 50 per cent? The state must have some cash available, especially for payrolls. But half of its funds runs to quite a few millions of dollars at almost any time. With a little planning, it ought to be possible to invest a substantial part of this sum in short-term Government securities.

The banks themselves put a good part of the money into such short-term paper, so there is not much substance to the argument of the Missouri Bankers' Association and of Gov. Donnelly that the funds should be kept in Missouri for loans to local interests.

While the State Senate's Banking Committee has accepted the Governor's 50 per cent limitation, the proposed amendments drafted by Mr. Carpenter and by Representative Richard H. Ichord, Houston Democrat, seem preferable. These would permit placement of all state funds not needed for current operating expenses in time deposits or in Government securities maturing in one year or less. This is certainly an improvement over the Governor's plan.

If funds are on hand for all reasonably anticipated expenses, it is difficult to imagine any serious embarrassment in connection with money which generally would be available in less than a year. Under this form of the amendment, the state could earn the largest possible return.

Such maximum earnings would not be an embarrassment either to the taxpayers or to the state's non-too-well-financed institutions.

Probability Plus If

The off-again, on-again tax scandal investigation is now in the dim realm of if and probability. The Post-Dispatch has learned that the grand jury probably will be recalled—if there is any delay in the trial of three men indicted previously.

Trial of Matthew Connelly and T. Lamar Caudie, former Truman Administration officials, and Harry I. Schwimmer in a tax case is scheduled to begin May 7. But an even more important date is Sept. 13, when the statute of limitations will run out on nearly all tax scandals being investigated by the grand jury. After that date there will be little point in investigating.

The grand jury felt obliged, after protest, to recess its inquiry when Attorney General Brownell said resulting publicity might prejudice the trials. Mr. Brownell did not explain why much publicity would attend the jury's normally secret task, but he carried the day for inaction. The inquiry is stalled again with time running out. Undoubtedly the jury should be recalled if the trials are delayed. The fact is that the Justice Department ought to find a way to resume the important tax scandal inquiry before its life expectancy grows any shorter.

The Other Side of Prosecution

It is a prosecutor's job to prosecute, but he also has a duty to see justice done. This rather obvious but all too often forgotten axiom of official conduct has been given a new luster by State's Attorney Bernard J. Moran of Rock Island, Ill. Mr. Moran, whose job it is to put guilty criminals in prison, has just succeeded, after two years of effort, in having an innocent man freed from prison.

Roy E. Eaton has spent 16 years behind bars for an armed robbery which the circuit court now finds he did not commit. At his trial in 1940, a salesman identified Eaton as one of two men who had robbed him of $60. Eaton's alibi was that he was in New Mexico on the day of the robbery, but he could not prove it because he lacked money to bring witnesses to Rock Island. Since going to prison in 1940, Eaton had been unable to clear himself because the real robbers, serving time for another crime, refused to absolve him until one of them got out on parole.

There are plenty of lessons here. One lesson is for witnesses in criminal cases—they should be deeply positive in making identifications where a mistake would work painful injustice. Another lesson is for courts and bar—they should never let a defendant's lack of funds interfere with a full and fair trial of his case.

But the big lesson is for prosecutors—that it is their job to correct injustice as much as it is to obtain punishment for crime. Once State's Attorney Moran became convinced of Eaton's innocence, he worked at the task of clearing him as zealously as he would work for a just conviction. He is entitled to congratulations.

Alert on the Kaskaskia

Illinois public health officials are, we trust, watching the plans for two new industrial plants at Tuscola in a spirit of hospitality seasoned with caution. The new plants are projected by National Petrochemicals Products Corp., whose National Petrochemicals plant near Tuscola has already caused so much trouble. Inadequate preparations for waste disposal resulted in the pollution of the Kaskaskia river, killing fish and impairing the water supply of Shelbyville and other Kaskaskia valley communities. Litigation over the offense is still pending.

The two new plants will produce isosorbic acid and phosphoric acid. Illinois's responsible authorities should satisfy themselves as far as is physically possible, before the plants are built, that adequate pollution-control systems are to be built into them. The case of National Petrochemicals has shown how many pounds of cure it takes to equal an ounce of prevention. There can be no excuse for repeating the same mistake.

VERY FEW CRUMBS FROM THE MASTER'S TABLE

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Though there are few Communists on the campus, convention of American Association of University Professors in St. Louis finds issue of how to deal with them troublesome; historian suggests simple formula forgotten during emotionalism on subject.

A Statement by John W. Caughey, Professor of American History, University of California at Los Angeles

Today Communists are hardly more than a trace element in the American population. How to fire them ought therefore to be academic. Yet the question is so explosive, so surcharged with emotion that it has heavy overtones and raises a multitude of side issues.
In the ranks of college and university professors, for example, Communists are practically nonexistent. Yet the question how to fire one still is troublesome. At the annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors, now in convention in St. Louis, the bulk of the business under review will concern excesses and abuses rising out of over-zealous measures of Communist control and abatement.

With or without membership in the party, the problem of how to fire lingers on, and advice on it is not irrelevant. My counsel has the simplicity of an epigram. It does not come from J. Edgar Hoover or the Supreme Court, nor from any organization to which I belong. Perhaps they would agree. I do believe that I am with the Constitution. But what I have to offer is just one man's opinion:

'Just Like Anyone Else'

A Communist should be fired just like anyone else. That means for incompetence, gross neglect of duty, or grave defect in character.

This advice must have a familiar ring. It derives from an American fundamental, that all are equal before the law and that the law sees every person as an individual not to be convicted until his guilt has been individually determined. It draws on the instinct for fair play and merely recites what is the practice under many union contracts, seniority practices, teacher tenure and the merit system for civil servants.

Society recognizes that in many jobs there is an advantage to society if dismissal come only for adequate cause, and on a basis applicable to any and all. The idea has general acceptance—except as concerns Communists. As to them, the impulse has become almost irresistible to prejudice, to cut through due process and to fire simply because of the label.

Consider, for example, the instructions telecast to the nation in 1954 in the Army-McCarthy hearings. Witness Roy Cohn casually mentioned that the files of the McCarthy committee contained information on several secret Communists in defense plants. Counsel Joseph Welch called for their names at once so that "before the sun goes down" they could be put out.

The Standardized Method

With infinite patience Mr. Cohn explained that there was a better way. Call them to the stand, put the question to them, get them to plead the Fifth Amendment, and then their employers, recognizing them as Communists, would fire them. The advice was not just theoretical; he was talking about a method standardized through practice.

A year or more earlier a more impressive group had advocated short shrift for Communist professors. Some 37 university presidents, speaking in the name of the American Association of Universities, held that any professor who was a Communist or refused to deny it, or followed the party line, thereby became ineligible for a faculty position.

Back of this recommendation stood a formula applied at the University of Washington in Seattle as long ago as 1949. It was set up in the form of the classic syllogism with two premises and a conclusion.

1. A university needs a faculty composed of scholars who are free to pursue the truth.
2. The Communist party dictates the thoughts of its members and thus enslaves their minds.

Therefore, no Communist can be a member of a faculty.

The argument goes on to insist that Communism is not just a philosophy, political party or heresy, but an international conspiracy. Thereby it and all its members are beyond the pale, and somehow the burden of proof is shifted to anyone suspected or accused of being a Communist to prove that he is not.

A Corner on Orthodoxy

The syllogism is plausible, except that both premises have holes in them. The first asks for perfection. Where short of the angels are we to find men without some prejudice, some lack of freedom? The second assumes that the Communist party in the United States, alone among human agencies, achieves perfect discipline. Reason and the record suggest the contrary. Americans appear to have gone in and out of the Communist party at will.

As applied in the area of scholarship this arbitrary excluding takes on a worse dimension. It makes the dangerous assumption that the orthodox thought of the current majority has achieved a corner on what is useful and instructive. With equal hazard to society, it seeks to regiment thought in the very centers supposedly dedicated to full exercise of the mind.

The routine of firing Communists on sight, with only the fact of their membership to go on, has its direct demerits. It also sets a baleful precedent that may be turned against any group that becomes the pet hate of the majority.
The routine likewise can spread, and it has, to suspected Communists, rumored members of Communist fronts, "Communist thinkers" (whatever that may mean), and to many others not even remotely connected with Communism.

Real Threat to Freedom

Over the past few years the formula of firing Communists on the same grounds as anyone else has not prevailed in the colleges and universities. In fact, in the very few instances when actual Communists were identified in American academic ranks, almost never has dismissal been based on an overall evaluation of their qualifications.

Nor has the formula of the presidents of the American Association of University Professors had wide acceptance. The presidents themselves have dodged it, perhaps because there is too much hazard in coming right out and calling anyone a Communist.

Instead the most popular choice has been one or another variant on the technique that Mr. Cohn described. Times over more professors have been fired for pleading the Fifth Amendment or the First or Fourteenth, for risking contempt of Congress rather than implicate others, or for refusing in one fashion or another to deny Communist membership.

Firings such as these, or the threat of them, have made extraordinary demands upon the American Association of University Professors, requiring intercession by its staff and dominating its present agenda. By that measure they constitute the most serious threat to intellectual freedom in our colleges and universities.

Yet there is nothing to it that would not be cured through letting Communists stand or fall by the same standards of character, ability, and performance that serve for the rest of us Americans.

Between Book Ends

Robin Hood of the Frontier
A SKETCH OF SAM BASS, THE BANDIT, by Chas. L. Martin. (University of Oklahoma; 164 pgs., $2.)

When Sam Bass was seventeen he moved to Texas from the family farm in Indiana. He got a job with "Dad" Egan, the Sheriff of Denton County. Soon Sam was running a fast little animal called the "Denton Mare." He consistently raced the mare around Denton, losing but one race. He spent so much time with the mare that he neglected his ranch duties and Sheriff Egan fired him.

The Denton mare was the direct cause of his downfall. Sam took up with a gang which robbed several stagecoaches, then the members drifted to train robbery and in the fall of 1877 the gang staged the most successful train robbery ever pulled off on the Union Pacific. They got away with $80,000 worth of $20 gold pieces.

Sam then formed his own gang and in a matter of a few weeks pulled off four train holdups, two of them only a few miles outside of Dallas, and staged several bank robberies. With the whole state now aroused, Sam decided to make one more bank haul and flee to Mexico. He was betrayed by one of the members of his gang and when cornered in the town of Round Rock he was badly wounded by Texas Rangers and died the next day.

This is the Sam Bass story in a nutshell, not spectacular in itself, but with all the basic elements from which folklore is concocted. So, with the passing years, Sam Bass has taken his place alongside of Billy the Kid and Joaquín Murietta to form a triumvirate of Robin Hoods of the American frontier.

During the criminal career of Sam Bass, and immediately thereafter, there were four books written about him, all now exceedingly rare. This book by Charles Lee Martin was the last of the quartet and has become the rarest. Only one copy is known to exist, and that is in the Library of Congress.

Martin's account is substantially the same as the others, but in a long chapter entitled "The Band," he gives a more extended and more accurate biography of the members of the Bass gang, such as Henry Underwood, Seaborn Barnes and "Arkansas" Johnson, and scattered throughout the book is some information not found elsewhere.

With all of the other books having been reprinted at one time or another, it was left to the University of Oklahoma Press to reprint this one—the rarest of the lot—for the first time, and it is thus brought within the reach of those interested who would likely never see a copy of the original.

The Second Better Than First

After Divorce, by William J. Goode. (The Free Press, Glencoe, Ill., $4.)

This report of the first major research undertaking on adjustment problems after divorce is largely descriptive in nature, including detailed findings based on material gathered through personal interviews, with a sample of 425 divorced mothers residing in Detroit, Mich., and identified from county courthouse records. As is true in many inquiries into social and personal behavior, the data deal mainly with associative rather than causative factors and suggest a number of questions for further research.

The majority of the respondents showed various kinds of personal disorganization most often at the time of final separation, but the trauma experienced was not so overwhelming as to cause long-lasting or permanent emotional disturbance. It was established that institutional patterns definitely create pressures toward new marriages. Within two years of final divorce decrees, over three-fourths of the divorces were either remarried or going steady. Further, the overwhelming majority of the remarried women stated that their second marriages were better than the first. RICHARD H. UELIG.

Trading Leadership for Appeasement?

A GREAT DEAL is being said abroad and here at home about how necessary and urgent it is that this country give firm and clear leadership to the non-Communist world. It is easier to say that than to do it.

But I wonder whether the President and Secretary Dulles have not in fact come to think of the world situation in terms of leadership. Whether, indeed, they are trying to lead. In the past few months Mr. Dulles has found himself entangled in an extraordinary series of dilemmas—in issues in which he does and damned if he doesn't.

He has been caught in the Goethe dilemma between Portugal and India, in the Jakarta dilemma between The Netherlands and Indonesia, in the North African dilemma between France and the Algerian Arabs, in the Palestine dilemma between Israel and the Arabs, in the Baghdad dilemma between Iraq and Egypt, in the Cyprus dilemma between Britain and Greece, in the Persian Gulf dilemma between Saudi Arabia and Great Britain, and so on and on.

Avoids Clear Stands.

This is all rather different from what it used to be in the pre-Genève phase of the cold war. Then the issues were between Communists and anti-Communists. The line of leadership was self-evident. But now the issues which plague Mr. Dulles are very often primarily among our allies and the peoples that we are courting.

Mr. Dulles is in theory a believer, as he said in his famous Life magazine interview, in taking a clear position so that foreign governments will not miscalculate.

In actual practice, beginning

WASHINGTON. with Quemoy and Matsuo and going on to Palestine, he has devoted an immense amount of his energy trying not to make clear choices in the dilemmas which confront him.

No Longer One Foe.

I am not attempting here to criticize or to judge but only to describe when I say that a large part of our current policy is to work out ways of straddling the many horrid choices with which we are confronted. The old much simpler days are past when there was one great adversary and leadership consisted in opposing him. The great adversary is still there, to be sure, but he is playing a secondary part in the troubles of France in North Africa and of Great Britain in the Middle East.

The President and Mr. Dulles give the impression of being men who are not so much trying to lead a grand alliance as they are to disengage themselves from its quarrel and to become if possible mediators.

Policy of Straddle.

This is their line in Cyprus, in Palestine, and in effect in North Africa. They are trying not to become involved and committed and not to offend either side too much. Naturally enough, no one is very much pleased.

One wonders where the policy of straddle is heading, and what conception of America's role in the world is implied by it. Are they trying to accommodate themselves to the idea that there is an irresistible revolutionary tide of anti-Western passion rising in Africa and Asia, that they cannot hope to resist it, that they might in some places manage to appease it?

It sometimes looks that way.

Women's Ad Club Uses 'the Needle' of Satire On Notables, and Even Makes Them Like It

242 Angels Pay $60,
Rest of 1000 Guests
$20 to See 22nd Gridiron Show.

By FAY PROFFER
of The Post-Dispatch Staff
"The Needle," the twenty-second gridiron show given by the Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis last night in the Gold room of Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson, was threaded with satire to harpoon national and local events, persons in the news and gridiron guests.

The club needed 1000 women to raise its fund for cancer research at Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital from $91,000 to well over $100,000. The gridiron "archangel," Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman, was hostess to 242 "angels," each of whom paid $60 instead of $20, the price of admission for the other guests.

Party for 100 Bachelors
Last night's affair started with a champagne cocktail party on the mezzanine of the hotel and ended with a stagedoor party for 100 bachelors in recognition of leap year.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Norrie Passino, assisted by Mrs. A. D. Welsh, the mezzanine was turned into a picture gallery stressing the title of the show. A gallery of caricatures of the cast was arranged above beds of blossoming spring flowers and near a tree made of orchids were coats of armor pierced with needles. Several large statues were said to be "guests who got plastered at last year's show and didn't go home." In the Gold room the gilded balcony was garlanded with smilax and the walls were hung with silver cloth. Great trees of red roses formed a background.

A cloud floated above Mrs. Sayman's place and tables for the "angels" were decorated with red roses and needle-pierced barefoot angels, their wings drooping. Figures of men hung from needles set in red roses at the head table and smaller tables were centered with red carnation pin cushions.

The Women Behind It All
Mrs. L. H. Baker, president of the Women's Advertising Club, presided and introduced the guests of honor. Miss Beatrice Adams, originator of the gridiron shows and the author and director of many of them, was general chairman. Miss Bonnie Dewes directed the show and Miss Helen Franke was musical director. Miss Wilma Sim was chairman for the dinner.

The show was in two scenes, the first a Riverfront Store and the second, the riverfront. Miss Marilyn Harris as Adm. Jones, the manager of the store, hired J. G. Whiz (Miss Peg Josted) as promotion manager to woo the customers from the West End shops to the levee. From then on anything could and did happen.

The show got off to a swift start with the appearance of a gridiron star, Mrs. Beulah Schacht Cochran singing "The Needle," warning the guests that "we fit the punishment to the crime." Later in the evening she stopped the show with "Cop and Madam," in which she told of a cozy arrangement for "just a little friendly pay-off."

The cop was played by Mrs. Peggy Johnson who has been seen in leading roles in many gridiron shows. In the second act Mrs. Cochran sang "Mid-America Jubilee," the hit song of the evening. "The Needle" and "Mid-America Jubilee" were written by Miss Adams and Miss Franke.

Dorothy Ward Star
Miss Dorothy Ward, a star of every gridiron performance, was greeted with prolonged applause for her traditional song to the "angels," each verse ending with the refrain, "To pay twenty bucks is human, to pay sixty bucks is divine."

Her rock and roll number, a parody on "Sixteen Tons," had the women in stitches. She also played Rosie, a sales girl in the store, Miss Jane Sevening, as Shirley, the switchboard operator; Miss Shirley Vierheller, as Lola, another sales girl, and Miss Muriel Brauetigam, as Wilbur, the clerk, provided much of the comedy.

Guests from Washington were spotlighted in a rollicking number, to the tune of "Hot Diggity" in which the three girls were determined "to investigate Washington dames" until Wilbur sang:

But-gee diggity whiz, ziggy boom.
They just came to town—
(When you hear this you'll guess!)

Gee diggity whiz, ziggy boom
They just came to town
To investigate us!

Two Weddings Take Ribbing.
Miss Edna Carroll, a gifted comedienne, poked fun at two April weddings of world interest and convulsed the audience as a shopper overcame with "instant bourbon." As a tourist from Spain, she was followed by the Pat Girls' Chorus in a hilarious Spanish dance.

Not content with luring all the shoppers, notables, the convention for all "The Friends of" the Wednesday Club's Poetry Contest, the Veiled Prophet and even former President Truman to the Riverfront Store, Adm. Jones took over the Mid-America Jubilee.

The political scene was satirized in a take-off on a TV program, sponsored by Tender Trap Lip Stick. Contestants were aspirants for the Democratic nomination for President Adlai Stevenson (Miss Bobbie June Willis), the first contestant had reached the last plateau and had gone home four years ago to think over his decision to continue in the contest. The scene ended when Mrs. Eisenhower (Miss Dorothy DeDoyard) and her mother (Miss Gene Ellinger) arrived and Miss DeDoyard sang "Two for Ike."

A distinguished guest at the "Jubilee" was Bulgannin played by Miss Josted who was warmly applauded for her song, "We Just Want Peace."

Costumes, Chorus Outstanding.
A factor in the success of the show was the costuming, which was original and beautiful, and the dancing chorus. The chorus, trained by Mrs. Loretta Rexford, appeared in three numbers: an oriental dance, as merry-makers at the Jubilee, and in brief black lace costumes as the Sizzle Chorus. The dancers were Mrs. Elsa Aubaugh, Miss Niki Fisher, Miss Joanne Gravelly, Miss Jeanne Lynch and Miss Doris Wade. Those in the Pat Girls' Chorus, also trained by Mrs. Rexford, were Mrs. Marie Addison, Miss DeDoyard, Miss Audrey Kettlekamp, Miss Sim and Miss Myra Stroud.

The script was written by a group of club members headed by Miss Helen Hardesty. Costumes were by Miss Arvilla Droll. Jack Field's orchestra played for both the cocktail party and the show.

Distinguished Guests.
A highlight of the party was the presence of several out of town guests headed by Mrs. Leonard Sullivan, congresswoman from Missouri; Mrs. Alice K. Leopold, assistant to the Secretary of Labor; Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, special adviser, Federal Civil Defense, and Mrs. Esther Van Wagoner Tufty, director of the Tufty News Bureau, all of Washington.

They shared honors with Mrs. Phil M. Donnelly, wife of Missouri's Governor; Mrs. Raymond R. Tucker, wife of the Mayor of St. Louis; Miss Margaret A. Hickey, public affairs editor, Ladies Home Journal; Miss Mary Busch of Baltimore, vice president of the Advertising Federation of America; Miss Helen A. Holby, director of club services for the federation; Miss Audrey Faust Wallace, the Veiled Prophet Queen; Mrs. Elzey M. Roberts Jr., wife of the president of the Men's Advertising Club of St. Louis, and Mrs. Aloys P. Kaufmann, whose husband is president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

ANNUAL CHESTERTON CLUB CORONATION BALL TOMORROW

The annual coronation ball of the Chesterton Club, a city-wide organization of Catholic young people, will be held tomorrow evening in Convention Hall of Kiel Auditorium. Miss Rita Ruby, retiring queen, will relinquish her crown to a successor in ceremonies beginning at 9 o'clock.

In pageantry modeled after the Veiled Prophet Ball, a mythical ruler called Rex Ches will summon to his throne the new queen and four special maids of honor. They will be chosen from the following: Misses Betty Boswell, Ruth Brown, Pearl Conniff, Shirley Dwyer, Mary Ebes, Marlene Miller, Marta Polizzi, Shirley Richards, Marge Suren, Cathy Sullivan, Elaine Tichacek and Ann Watz.

Proceeds of the ball this year will go to the Archdiocesan Department of Special Education for training of physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped children. The department has more than 450 children enrolled, with 200 on its waiting list. The ball was first held in 1934. Two 10-piece orchestras will provide continuous music for dancing after coronation ceremonies.

More Aid for Gifted Child Urged; Catholic Educators Adjourn

Delegates Elect Archbishop Meyer President General—Father Reinert Heads University Department.

The needs of the gifted child deserve "much greater attention" than has been given them in American schools, James F. Redmond, city superintendent of schools, New Orleans, La., said here today.

Redmond addressed the closing session of the fifty-third annual convention of National Catholic Educational Association, which has been meeting in Kiel Auditorium. The convention began Tuesday.

"Time was, perhaps, when it was considered undemocratic to extend more enriched opportunities for the exceptional child," he said. "However, today, when business and industry leaders point out to us the great demands for well trained professionals and highly trained technicians, we no longer can afford to allow talent to fall by the wayside."

"Equality of educational opportunity does not necessarily mean the same as identity of educational opportunity. Provision for adequately identifying and instructing the gifted is the next great step in the development of our American schools."

Resolution on Integration.
The members of the association, which represents all levels of Catholic education, voted in one of the resolutions passed at a business session that they should "be guided by precepts of justice, charity and prudence in giving leadership toward the orderly integration of Negro and white children in the nation's schools."

At the closing session, Archbishop Albert G. Meyer of Milwaukee, Wis., was elected president general of the association, to succeed Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis. The Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert S.J., president of St. Louis University, was elected president of the College and University Department of the association. In an address yesterday before Delta Epsilon Sigma, a national scholastic honor society with chapters at 75 Roman Catholic colleges and universities, George N. Shuster, president of Hunter College, New York, warned that the United States is falling behind other nations in terms of relative development of scholars.

"If we don't wake up, the torch is going to be in some one else's hands," Shuster said.

Hostile Atmosphere.
Shuster, an outstanding Catholic layman, said Catholic intellectuals must learn to face "the first shock of finding that we are living in an intellectual environment alien from our own, and in a real sense hostile."

He continued: "If we are going to develop a form of participation in the making of the American mind, we must begin by an awareness of our own position."

He called for the development, among the Catholic laity of families "imbued with a love of scholarship from generation to generation, a core of people who would go into academic life not as a profession, but as a vocation."

In an address last night to a dinner meeting of the diocesan superintendents of schools, the Rev. J. B. Gremillion, pastor of St. Joseph's Church at Shreveport, La., said the present "drab scene" of Catholic parish and community life "can and must and will be reconstructed."

The present college graduate, he added, "leaves an intellectual campus climate" to enter a world of business and politics, diaper-changing and country-clubbing which is an "intellectual wasteland."

Tomorrow's Events

ST. LOUIS U. CHEMIST GIVEN $4700 FOR NAVY RESEARCH

A one-year grant of $4700 has been made to Dr. George W. Schaeffer, director of the Department of Chemistry at St. Louis University, by the Office of Naval Research to be used for research in the chemistry of boron hydrides, it was announced today.

Dr. Schaeffer will be aided in the project by the Rev. Francis J. Koenig S.J., a graduate student. They will investigate the behavior of electron-deficient boron compounds, particularly that of diborane gas, and determine their chemical properties.

Proceeds of the ball this year will go to the Archdiocesan Department of Special Education for training of physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped children. The department has more than 450 children enrolled, with 200 on its waiting list. The ball was first held in 1934. 2 ART GROUPS OPEN DIVERSIFIED SHOWS

Missourians at City Museum, Staff Members at People's Center.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

Two large and diversified exhibitions by groups of artists of the St. Louis area opened here today and will run through the month. At City Art Museum, the Missourians are holding their tenth annual display. The other show, at People's Art Center, consists of work by members of the center's teaching staff.

To celebrate the organization's tenth anniversary, the Missourians have arranged an impressive array of 17 oils, water colors, prints and sculptures that have won a total of 19 prizes at the museum and the Artists' Guild. New work on view suggests a still mounting vitality in the group, which has a strong contingent of rising young members.

Characteristic pieces, old and new, include Jim Harmon's "Dock Scene," a fluid water color that has won awards at both museum and guild; Arthur Kanak's subtle, subdued oil, "Winter Reflections"; Fred Dreher's "Pacific," a highly inventive mobile, also a double winner; Mabel Meeker Edsall's spirited "Paul Revere's Ride," a guild prize-winner, and a meticulous, humorous "Self-Portrait," by Russell Kraus, a guest exhibitor and a former member of the group.

Fresh departures, both mild and radical, are Ada Hanvey's loose water colors, which gain new strength and character through the use of ink; John Wallace's odd metal sculpture, mostly large nails driven into wood; Jessie Beard Rickly's floral-hued oil; Eda Lincoln Cushing's ghostly architectural composition, Margery Dodson's increasingly brilliant abstract oils; Katherine Haven's "Nubia," Moore-like sculpture, "Nubia," and Elizabeth Phelan's ceramic bottle, sculptural in form.

Dreher's recently completed sound and color film, "A World of Designed Movement," presented in mobile sculpture, will be shown Monday at 8 p.m. in main-floor Gallery 16 at the museum. The Missourians' show, running to a total of 55 pieces, occupies lower-floor galleries B, C and D.

At People's Art Center, 3657 Grandel square, where a reception will begin today at 7 p.m., the exhibition comprises 80 examples of painting, sculpture, woodwork, weaving, jewelry and other crafts.

E Oscar Thalingner's new semi-abstracts, logical developments of his recent painting style, are "Memories," an assemblage of personal symbols suggesting a random reminiscences linked by free association, and "Before Christ," "Spongeboats" and Vivian Cheillon's "East Argonne" effectively extend their individual kinds of impressionist painting.

Robert Walker's clay medallions are skillful, straightforward portraits showing such traditional work is still being done these days. At the other extreme is Henry Jakobe's "Bull's Eye 1920," an "art nouveau" decoration painted on a circular piece of plywood.

Among the potters, Gillian Elliott, Noel Walte and Patricia Degener are represented solidly and well. The craftwork generally attains a high level of quality. Special distinction is lent the crafts section by a wealth of small but exquisite objects by Maria Regnier, silver-smith.

Venturi's 6-Under-Par 66 Best Ever Posted by Amateur in Masters

Ed Furgol Scores 74, Jackson 77

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6 (AP)—Shades of Billy Joe Patton, another amateur is off and running in the Masters.

Ken Venturi is the young man's name and he showed the veteran pros a thing or two about golf with his opening round 66.

The 24-year-old San Francisco stylist's six-under-par was only two shots over the record for the tough Augusta National course and it gave him a one stroke lead over defending champion Cary Middlecoff going into today's second round. Tied for third with 68s were a pair of regular circuit riders, Shelly Mayfield and Tommy Bolt.

Hogan Shoots a 69. Ben Hogan, the two-time Masters winner who holds the tournament record of 274, was next with a 69. Patton, amateur sensation here two years ago, shot 70 for a tie with Doug Ford, the Professional Golf Association champion, and Bob Rosburg, who tied for fourth here last year.

Ed Furgol, St. Louis professional, shot 38-36—74, and Jimmy Jackson, St. Louis amateur, had a 40-37—77.

Showers fell intermittently during the opening round. Not everyone found the course, with its par of 36-72 stretched through 6950 yards of woodlands, easy to master. Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, the only three-time winners of this tournament, had to settle for 73s.

Playing with Patton, the North Carolina lumberman who came within a whisker of winning the 1954 Masters, Venturi used an eagle and five birdies in fashioning his brilliant round.

No amateur ever has won a Masters, to the chagrin of founding father Bobby Jones, the greatest amateur of them all. And perhaps Venturi will fall back into the pack. But for one day, at least, the pros were looking at the heels of a simon-pure.

Sharp iron play marked Middlecoff's game. He was particularly proud of his birdies on four of Augusta National's tougher holes where his longest putt was 16 feet.

Record Is Mangrum's 64. Venturi's 66 is the best ever scored by an amateur in the Masters. Middlecoff had a 65 last year and Lloyd Mangrum set the record in 1940 with a 64.

Hogan and Middlecoff agreed the Augusta National played easier than they had ever known it. The sprawling greens, usually fast, were slow.

"You could make chip shots and go for putts you usually wouldn't dare try," said Hogan. He added that he felt conditions were right for someone to better his 274 of 1950.

Venturi got his eagle on No. 13, the "graveyard of the Masters." He landed a four-wood shot to the green 18 feet from the cup. His putt carried up a rise on the big green, broke slightly to the left, and plopped in for an eagle three.

"I owe this round to Byron Nelson," Venturi said. Nelson, a former Masters champion, has spent considerable time working with the West Coast whiz and the youngster seems to have learned his lessons well.

There are 145 fives competing in the five-man team event, 283 teams in the doubles and 523 bowlers in the singles. Teams from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Charles and St. Louis will compete on the opening squad. The tourney play starts Sunday at 12:30 p.m. and runs weekends until May 6.

Stewards Named for Fairmount's Meet

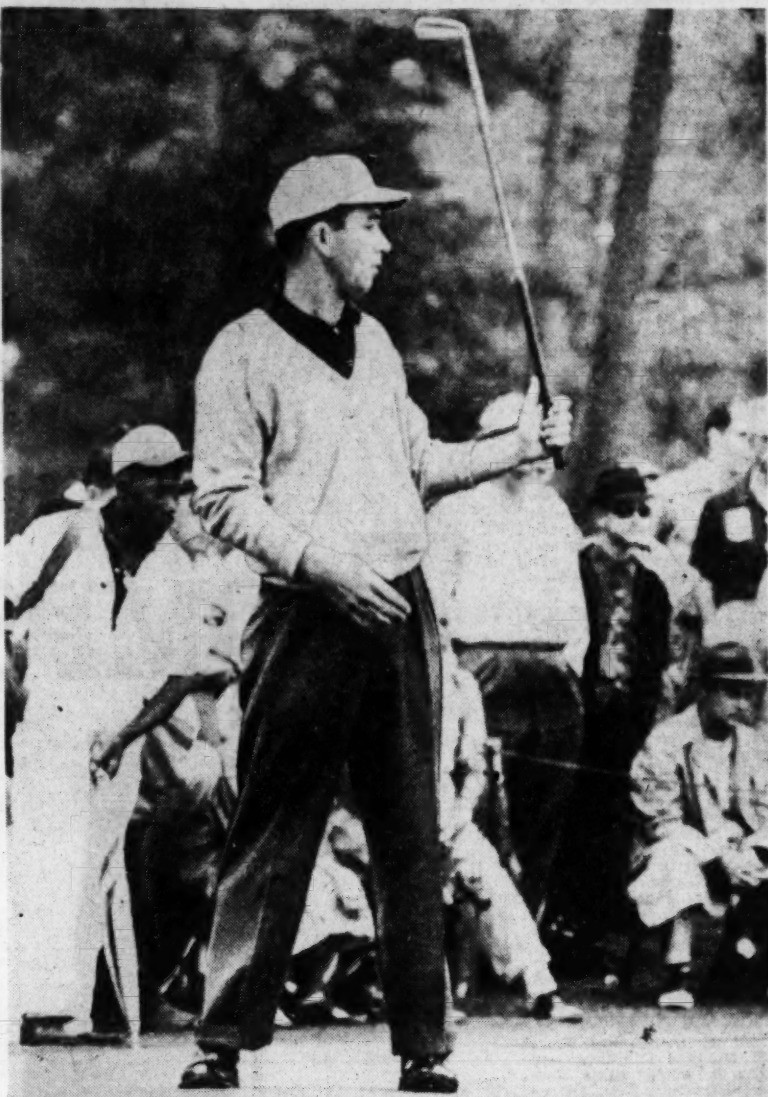

The Illinois Racing Board, at a meeting held yesterday, named Ralph W. Chiosser as state steward for the Fairmount Park race meeting opening the night of April 28. It will be the third year that Chiosser has officiated in that capacity.

Bryan Steele will serve as track steward from April 28 through May 12, at which Robert P. McAuliffe, finished with his duties at Sportsman's Park, will take over. Carlyle Johnson will be the third man in the steward's stand.

For the Sportsman's Park meeting at which McAuliffe will be racing secretary, the stewards will be Keene Dangler, William A. Reagan and Teddy Cox.

John J. (Jack) Klucina will be racing secretary at Fairmount.

Master Stroke Gives Amateur Lead

Lowest score ever made by an amateur golfer in The Masters golf tournament, a 66, gave KEN VENTURI the first day lead in the event at Augusta. Venturi is shown here waving his club as his long putt on the fourteenth green drops into the cup.

St. Louisan Siebern, Voted Best Rookie, to Be Yankees' Left Fielder, Stengel Says

MOBILE, Ala., April 6 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel says Rookie Norman Leroy Siebern is the New York Yankees' starting leftfielder if he can get his knee healed in time.

"Also there won't be any more platooning in leftfield if this boy is what I think he is," the Yankee manager added as his team moved into Mobile to play Philadelphia.

Siebern, voted the Yankees' standout rookie by baseball writers yesterday, will treat his knee in Lake Charles, Fla., before rejoining the team. He crashed into a fence chasing a ball in a game against the Cardinals March 22. He received 9 of the 9 votes of the New York writers.

The 22-year-old 6-2 blond from St. Louis (Wellston High) batted .292 in a dozen games before being injured. He is not officially on the Yankee roster, being the property of Denver of the American Association, technically. It is likely, however, he will be signed to a New York contract before the season opens.

The "best rookie" award was established this year in honor of Jim Dawson, late baseball writer of the New York Times who died of a heart attack while covering the Yankees here in March, 1953. Competition was limited to players who have never appeared in a major league game. The prize is an engraved gold watch.

Yankees-Orioles Trade Talk. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 6 (AP)—A possible player trade between the New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles was brewing today, with Second Baseman Gerry Coleman and Pitcher Jim Wilson reported as the main bait.

Baltimore Manager Paul Richards passed up yesterday's exhibition game between the Orioles and the Chicago Cubs at Alpine, Tex., to meet with Bill Dewitt, assistant general manager of the Yankees.

Trotters Beat College Stars

CHARLOTTE, N.C., April 6 (UP)—The Harlem Globetrotters played serious basketball last night and downed the College All-Stars, 81-68, to take a 4-2 lead in their cross-country series.

The Trotters' stiff man-to-man defense kept the All-Stars away from the basket and forced the Collegians to shoot from outside.

Only the marksmanship of All-America's Darrell Floyd of Furman and Si Green of Duquesne kept the Stars in contention. Floyd, the nation's leading major-college scorer two years, was high scorer with 17 points. Green had 14.

The Trotters, who abandoned their clowning antics for straight basketball, took the lead behind the shooting of Andy Johnson and were never headed. They led at halftime, 41-34.

A crowd of 7000 turned out in Charlotte's new Coliseum for the contest, many attracted by the popularity of Floyd who

Mosconi Undefeated

KINSTON, N.C., April 6 (AP)—Willie Mosconi defeated Luther Lassiter, 150-141, in the feature match of the round robin world billiards tournament. Mosconi, the national champ, moved into the front as the only unbeaten player in the tourney. Lassiter, from Elizabeth City, is the North Carolina champion. Other action saw Erwin Rudolph defeat John Fitzpatrick, 150-75, and Irving Crane whip Richard Riggie 150-17.

Young Handball Star Defeated In First Round

Bill Guers, of Salt Lake City, youngest player in the tournament, was defeated in the first round of the United States Handball Association meet today. The event is being held at the Y.M.H.A. courts on Union boulevard.

The 16-year-old Guers rallied after losing the first game to Meyer Rudin of St. Louis but could not square the match. Scores were 21-5, 21-14.

National Champion Jimmy Jacobs of California is top-seeded in the big final.

Jacobs, the second youngest national champion, faces one of the strongest fields in years during the week-long tournament.

Other contestants include Vic Hershkovitz of Brooklyn, Phil Collins of Chicago, Paul Stobbe of Detroit, John Sloan of Chicago, Gus Lewis of Chicago, Dick Langdon of Minneapolis and Harold Schmitt of Buffalo, seeded in that order.

Jacobs captured the U.S.H.A. singles title at the 1955 nationals in Los Angeles, representing the Los Angeles A.C. During March he won the National Y.M.C.A. singles title at Reading, Pa.

Warriors Nip Pistons; Need One More Win

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 6 (UP)—The Philadelphia Warriors were only one game away today from the "world series of basketball" championship.

The Warriors can win the National Basketball Association title outright by beating Fort Wayne on their Philadelphia home court Saturday night.

The Warriors took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series by edging Fort Wayne, 107-105, on the Pistons' home court last night.

Coach Charley Eckman of the Pistons said before last night's game that "if you can stop (Paul) Arizin, you can stop the whole club."

Eckman's strategy of stopping Arizin failed, however, and most of Fort Wayne's title hopes disappeared since the Pistons now would have to beat the Warriors twice in Philadelphia and once in Fort Wayne to win the crown.

Arizin led the Warriors for the fourth straight playoff game by pouring in 30 points to lead both clubs in scoring.

Arizin now has scored 28, 27, 28 and 30 points in each of the four playoff games.

Fort Wayne led most of the way last night, leading 56-50 at the half and 82-80 at the end of three quarters. But the Warriors took the lead at 86-85 in the final period and increased it to 106-100 with 1:33 remaining.

Then George Yardley and Larry Foust hit field goals and Met Hutchins sank a charity toss to narrow the margin to 106-105 with 40 seconds left.

George Dempsey made one free throw and missed his second try to give Philadelphia its final cushion of 107-105, but a last second, desperation shot by Corky Devlin almost gave Fort Wayne a tie.

Devlin fired the ball from 40 feet out and it parted the nets, but the official scorer and timekeeper ruled he fired the ball after the final buzzer sounded.

Philadelphia was outscored from the field, 38-34, but the Warriors made 39 of 45 attempts from the free throw line to make up for their four basket deficit.

Yardley led the Pistons' losing cause with 21 points.

No Beer for Minors

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 6 (UP).

The Pennsylvania State House of Representatives has defeated attempts to have a bill which would permit sale of beer and ale at the state's two major league parks expanded to allow similar sales at minor league parks.

The State Senate already has approved a bill which would permit the sales at Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia and Forbes Field in Pittsburgh. In precise language, the bill would permit sales in parks seating more than 25,000 spectators. There would be no sales on Sundays.

Representative John J. Vaughn, who urged the bill's expansion to include the smaller parks, based his attempt on the question "If the big clubs are losing money, what are the minor league clubs doing?"

Rosenthal and Selvy on Army All-Star Team

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—

Cliff Hagan and Frank Selvy, both former college All-Americans, have been named to the 1956 armed forces press service all-star basketball team.

Hagan, one-time Kentucky star, averaged 22.5 points a game for Andrews air force base in Maryland. He was selected the outstanding service player in a poll of armed forces and civilian sports writers and armed force coaches.

Selvy, formerly of Furman, was the top man for the Fort Knox, Ky., team. He was drafted after starting the year with the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Other all-star servicemen were (college in parentheses): Dick Rosenthal of St. Louis, Fifth Army Headquarters Chicago (Notre Dame); Bob Leonard (Indiana); Al Bianchi, Brooke Army Medical Center, Tex. (Bowling Green); Richie Guerin, Quantico, Va., Marine Corps (Iona); Frank Ehmann, Great Lakes Naval, Ill. (Northwestern); Ralph Beard, Camp Zama, Japan (Kentucky); Larry Costello, Eighty-sixth Infantry Regiment, Germany (Niagara) and Don Savage, Paris Island, S.C. Marines (Lemoynne).

Walks in Deciding Run.

NORMAL, Ill., April 6 (AP)—Pitcher Norman Miller forced in the decisive run in the tenth inning by walking Jim Smith with the bases loaded as Western Michigan's baseball team defeated Illinois Normal 4-3.

Stalcup Denounces Recruiting Violations, Demands Clean-Up

TOPEKA, Kan., April 6 (AP)—Missouri University's basketball coach says there are more recruiting violations now in college athletics than at any time since he started coaching in 1932.

Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup said the National Collegiate Athletic Association should spend some of its money smoking out the evil.

"The time has come for a test case," he declared. "The time has come when some boy should be declared ineligible and some school should have its schedule suspended."

"If you're caught in a violation now, you get a little slap on the wrist and go right on winning."

"Tough to Be Honest and Win." Stalcup unleashed his blast as principal speaker last night at Topeka's annual all-sports banquet, which honors letter winners from Topeka high schools and Washburn University. He said:

"It's time to decide whether we want college sports or professional sports. It's tough now to be honest and win. "Alumni and friends of some institutions are over-emphasizing sports and doing everything it takes to win."

"I'm not pointing the finger at anybody, but I think I could. "Big boys are expensive and the guy who gets them has the big advantage."

"It's no secret how it's done. Alumni make under-the-table deals and they're hard to trace. Some institutions lack the integrity to make the alumni do the right thing. They hide behind a screen by saying other schools do it."

"It's a disgrace." "A coach can't say he doesn't know what's going on. Some coaches just lack the integrity to abide by the rules. We coaches know what's going on. We know the asking price and the bidding level for the big boys. It's a disgrace. "The parents and the boy know it's wrong, too. Some parents will sell their kids down the river."

Stalcup didn't say anything

Florida State Routs Illinois, Wins Title

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 6 (UP)—Florida State University piled up seven runs in the first inning last night and coasted to an easy 12-0 victory over Illinois to win the first annual F.S.U. invitational baseball tournament.

The game was called at the end of 6½ innings so the Illinois team could catch a plane home. F.S.U. came out of the seven-day tournament with six wins and only one setback. Other entries and their won-lost records were Wisconsin, 5-2; West Virginia, 4-3; Illinois, 3-4; Notre Dame, 2-5, and the combined entry of Brown and North Carolina 1-6.

St. Louis Has Inside Track In State Meet

By Harold Tuthill
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
COLUMBIA, Mo., April 6—Athletes from the St. Louis side of the state were expected to grab the major share of firsts in the twenty-fourth annual indoor prep track meet here today and tomorrow.

St. Louis area schools dominated the meet a year ago when University City won its eighteenth Class A crown, beating out Sumner by a point, and DeSoto was a close third to Brookfield and Caruthersville in a bitter three-way battle for Class B honors. Brookfield won with 27, followed by Caruthersville with 26½ and then came DeSoto, 23.

Preliminaries for Class B schools were to be held this afternoon with the finals scheduled for tonight. Class A trials will be run off tomorrow morning with the finals taking place in the afternoon at Brewer Field House.

Individuals expected to star include Bill Comfort of University City, William Sanders of Vashon, and Jim Hoffman of Kansas City Northeast in Class A, and Glenn Lewis of DeSoto and Jim Leslie of Caruthersville in Class B.

No Comfort for Rivals.
Comfort is one of those athletes who could compete in the maximum number of events—three track and two field or two track and three field. And, he could run on a relay team. The husky Indian of Henry Schemmer's Tribe showed he was ready with a sparkling performance against Kirkwood the other day. He captured four firsts—both hurdles, the 60-yard dash and shotput.

Sanders also flashed outstanding ability in a dual meet with Washington Tech Wednesday. The Vashon representative leaped 23 feet, 4 inches in the broad jump, good enough to beat any state meet mark except the Class B outdoor (23 feet 6¾ inches). The Class A indoor record, made by Henry Schlesinger of University City in 1939, is 22-6½ and the outdoor mark, owned by Chuck Lohr of Clayton and made in 1946, is 22-9¾.

Hoffman, Kansas City's good high jumper, may be pushed to another record-breaking height by Sumner's Willie Bates. Jump-in' Jim went 6 1 13-16 to nose out Bates in the '55 finals.

Lewis a Multiple Threat.
Lewis is the decathlon champion of the St. Louis area. The De Soto iron man won his title at a meet sponsored by the Marine Corps Reserve last June while he was a junior in school. Now that he is a senior, he has lost none of his ability.

In a recent meet with Pototsi, Lewis won four events and anchored a mile relay team which was clocked in 3:47. He jumped 20 feet, 7 inches, pole vaulted to 11 5½, ran the high hurdles in 15.7 and the lows in 20.4, all good for 21¼ points. De Soto easily won the meet, 118 to 24. Lewis won both hurdles in the 1955 state indoor competition. He also captured a fifth in the shot put, a third in the broad jump and a fourth in the pole vault in a spectacular one-man show.

Caruthersville's Leslie and Morris Patterson could furnish Lewis with some stout opposition for individual honors. Leslie was third in the 60-yard dash a year ago and Patterson ran fifth in the mile. The time for the event was 4:48.5 and Patterson has done better than that.

In a meet early this spring at Kennett, Leslie was credited with two records with a time of 10 flat in the 100 and 23 seconds in the 220. Patterson's time for the mile in the same field was 4:59.5.

Comfort-able Style

8 Colleges Entered In Harris Teachers' Track Meet Tomorrow

About 120 athletes from eight colleges will compete in the Harris Teachers' College annual track and field meet tomorrow afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium. Preliminaries start at 1 p.m. and the finals a half hour later.

Coach Dwight Reed's strong Lincoln University team from Jefferson City, last year's winner, likely will find the Southeast Teachers squad from Cape Girardeau as its chief rival. Other participants besides Coach George Elliott's host Harris team are: Washington U., Concordia Seminary, McKendree, Principia and Greenville (Ill.) College.

Art Smith, 1955 Vashon graduate, won both the high jump (6-4) and broad jump (23-3) for Lincoln in the Philander Smith College relays. Otis Smith and John Backers are other Tiger standouts.

Former Big League Stars to Serve as Instructors at Clinic

A group of former major leaguers will be on hand for the seventh annual baseball clinic sponsored by the St. Louis Athletic Association tomorrow at Washington University's Liggett Field. Instruction will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Teachers will include Heine Meine, Joe Medwick, John Sturm, Jack Maguire, Boris Martin, Mark Christman and John Tobin and Coach Irv Uitz of Washington University.

Breen Sets New Mile Swim Mark

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 6 (INS)—World record holder George Breen, a Cortland State Teachers' College senior swimming unattached, won the 1500-meter A.A.U. swimming championship last night and then went on to set a new world record for the mile.

Breen finished the scheduled 1500 meter distance in 18:20.2, 14.3 seconds slower than the world record he established in the N.C.A.A. championships last week at Yale University, then continued to set a new world mile mark of 19:40.4.

Breen's time in the mile eclipsed the old mark of 19:49.4 set by John Marshall of Australia in New Haven July 7, 1950.

His time in the 1500 meters also set a new A.A.U. meet record for that event.

The 1500 meter swim, with 22 Olympic hopefuls entered, was the only event scheduled for the opening night of the three-day A.A.U. championships.

Breen won easily from Frank Brunnell of the Vesper Swim Club, Philadelphia.

Giambra Favored.
SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 6 (AP)—Determined to fight his way to the top of the middleweight division, Joey Giambra battled rugged Johnny Sullivan of England in a 10-rounder at War Memorial Auditorium tonight. (The fight will be televised by KSD-TV).

Giambra, a 24-year-old Buffalo (N.Y.) youth, was a high-ranking 160-pounder until he went into the Army for a two-year hitch that ended last December. He was a 7-5 favorite.

TWO WOMEN IN AUTO ROBBED OF 3 RINGS

Held Up by Two Men When in Parked Car in University City.

Two University City women were robbed of three rings valued at $1200 by two men who held them up as they sat in a parked automobile last night, the women reported to police.

Mrs. Eli Appel, 7236 Cornell avenue, said she was taking her aunt, Mrs. Sam A. Kaufman, to the aunt's home. They parked in front of the house at 7005 Tulane avenue and talked briefly before parting.

Mrs. Appel noticed two well-dressed men approaching. She took the precaution of locking her door, but one of the men opened a door on Mrs. Kaufman's side of the car. He told the women it was a holdup.

"Give us your rings and purses," he said, "or we will shoot you."

The men displayed no weapons. Mrs. Appel took three rings from her fingers and handed them to one of the robbers. The women left after being told the women's purses contained nothing of value.

They ran across the street, got into a parked car and drove away. Mrs. Appel is the wife of a grocer and Mrs. Kaufman's husband is a real estate dealer.

FUNGI TO BE SOLD BY SHAW'S GARDEN

Collection at Herbarium May Be Bought by U.S.
Agency.

Sale of the fungi collection in the herbarium of Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden has been approved by the board of trustees and negotiations with the United States Department of Agriculture for its purchase are under way, Edgar Anderson, garden director, announced today.

The collection consists of dried and preserved specimens of these lower plant forms and constitutes less than one-twentieth of the contents of the herbarium, which is considered one of the three finest in the nation, Anderson said.

A representative of the National Fungus Herbarium of the Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md., has expressed a willingness to pay $5000 for the collection of fungi but a contract has not yet been signed, Anderson said.

Taking note of criticism expressed by some St. Louisans that the garden's assets were being dissipated, Dr. Anderson said the sale of the fungi would not affect the work of the garden or the teaching program.

He said that after a laboratory for botanical research was established at Washington University in the late 1920s, all laboratory work in botany was discontinued at the garden to avoid duplication. For the last 50 years or so, the study of algae and fungi has been less and less centered around herbarium work and more and more concentrated on laboratory work with living cultures of these micro-organisms, he said.

He said the living collection was being retained at the garden. It was the decision of the herbarium committee, consisting of the seven members of the garden most vitally concerned with the work of the herbarium, that efforts be concentrated on those parts of the herbarium which are in active use—the higher plants and lichens, he said.

After the decision to dispose of the fungi had been made, the collection was offered to Washington University but Dean Henry N. Andrews Jr. of the school of botany, rejected the offer.

In doing so, he wrote: "We should do a first-rate job in certain areas of botanical research and teaching rather than attempt to cover the entire field in a less efficient fashion. In this connection, it is my own feeling that the algae and fungi will be deposited where they will be used and taken care of and that our own efforts, in the field of taxonomy, should be with the higher plants."

Anderson said disposal of the fungi to the federal agency would put them in an active center for such work and would give the garden working space and cash with which to step up its herbarium work.

CORE OF REACTOR WAS DAMAGED IN MISHAP, AEC SAYS

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported yesterday that a mishap at its reactor testing station in Idaho last November damaged the core of its experimental breeder reactor No. 1.

Some radio-activity was released and the building was evacuated, it was related by the Chicago operations office of the AEC.

An information officer of the commission said he did not know why the accident was not announced until now.

The AEC announcement said: "During a planned power surge in the course of the final experiment of a series Nov. 29, 1955, a verbal instruction to shut the reactor off instantly was misunderstood and as a result enough heat was produced to damage the core. Some radioactivity was released within the building which was promptly evacuated. No significant radiation exposure or damage other than to the core occurred as a result of the experiment."

"The full extent of the damage to the core will not be determined until it can be removed and examined. Work is underway to remove the core."

G.O.P. POINTS TO GAINS UNDER MR. EISENHOWER

well satisfied, they don't stick their necks out.

Republicans are right that the current House and Senate are a do-nothing Congress. The Democratic leadership is dawdling and even such normally popular measures as highway building are floundering.

But it is equally true that President Eisenhower has done practically nothing in the way of fighting for his own program. He proposed it and the rest is silence.

There has been no use of the White House as a pressure agent through patronage, personal charm and social contact. The President has had private interviews with only two Senators, other than the congressional leaders, since his heart attack. He has no astute legislative aids. (President Roosevelt's Corcoran and Cohen, bearing "the word" to the cloakrooms.)

His press conferences show him both uninformed and uninterested in the details of legislation. He can always blame the Democratic Congress for what doesn't get done, and Republican orators are already beginning to do so. The fact is that the President and the dominant conservative coalition in Congress are much closer together than the Democratic leadership is to the party's leading candidates for the presidential nomination.

BUILDING BLOWS UP; THREE IN AUTO HURT

Mysterious Explosion in East St. Louis As Brothers Drive By.

Three brothers were injured last night in a mysterious explosion which razed a small concrete block building at 2059 Lynch avenue, East St. Louis, as they were driving by in an automobile.

They are Alex L. Claro, 26 years old, 730 North Eighth street, who suffered abrasions and bruises; Bernard E. Claro, 24, 1741 North Ninth street, back injuries; and Thomas Claro, 23, 2104 North Fifteenth street, burns of the left arm. All live in East St. Louis.

The wrecked building, which was about 12 feet square, housed an office at the Maurice Sacks scrap metal yard. Firemen who extinguished a blaze caused by the blast were unable to determine what caused it.

Alex Claro told police he was driving west in Lynch opposite the building when the explosion occurred. Concrete blocks flew in every direction, he said, and the concussion knocked his automobile across the street, causing severe damage. Thomas Claro's arm was seared by the blast. The brothers were treated at St. Mary's Hospital.

State and city fire department officials began an investigation. Sacks, proprietor of the scrap metal yard, said there was no gas line to the office and he knew of no reason for a bombing.

"The hate groups," say Epstein and Forster, "are welded to one another by the anti-Sovietism which all exploit; latter-day know-nothings who in their fear of Communism oppose civil liberties as a weakness in our ramparts; extreme political reactionaries who are unable or unwilling to recognize the bigots among those joining their movement."

As part of the stop-Eisenhower movement, the haters have started smearing his brother Milton as a dangerous New Dealer.

Gerald L. K. Smith points to the naming of the President's mountain retreat in Maryland, "Camp David," as sinister. References are creeping out regarding the alleged "Eisenhower Red record." Smith is repeating what he did in 1952, citing the 1915 West Point year book and its kidding reference to Mr. Eisenhower as a "Swedish Jew" as proof that Mr. Eisenhower is Jewish.

A secret meeting held in Chicago's Conrad Hilton hotel on Jan. 27 to discuss ways of stopping Mr. Eisenhower included such pamphleteers as Marvin K. Hart of New York, Myron Fagan of Los Angeles, and West Hooker of Larchmont, N. Y. They agreed on various tactics, both open and underground.

MAJ. WILLIS C. VAUGHN HEADS ORDNANCE PLANT

Maj. Willis C. Vaughn has been named commanding officer of the St. Louis Ordnance Plant, 4300 Woodfellow boulevard, succeeding ing Lt. Col. James H. Bash, it was announced today. Maj. Vaughn was in command of the plant from the time it was reactivated in 1951 until August 1953, when he left to attend the Army's Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

After attending the college, Maj. Vaughn was assigned as an adviser on ordnance installations and activities to the Chinese Nationalist Government on Formosa. Col. Bash has been assigned to the Ordnance Ammunition Command at Joliet, Ill.

One of Its Components Will Be Chemical Called Diphenyl—Target Date Set in 1957.

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission last night announced plans for a new type of experimental atomic reactor or "furnace," as a further step in its drive to produce economical industrial power from the atom.

Key novelty of the $1,800,000 device is that one of its components will be a chemical called diphenyl. This substance is widely used in industry for various purposes, for example as a base for fabric dyes.

The AEC said it had signed a contract with Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., for the building and operation of the new reactor at the AEC's testing station near Arco, Idaho. Atomics International will put $750,000 into the reactor and the AEC $1,050,000.

1957 Date Set. The new furnace—expected to begin operating in 1957—will be known as an "organic moderated" device, the AEC said. "The experiment, which is part of the commission's civilian power reactor development program, is designed to establish the technical feasibility of using the hydrocarbon diphenyl as a reactor moderating and cooling material."

This means that the experiment will be aimed at determining whether diphenyl can be used for the following purposes:

1. As a "moderator" to help keep a chain reaction going in the uranium fuel of the furnace. A moderator's function is to "slow down" neutrons which are produced in the fission process, so as to assure that as many as possible of them will take part in further fissioning, or splitting, of other atoms—thus keeping the atomic fire burning.

2. As a "coolant" to transfer heat away from the reactor in such a way that it could then be available for producing steam and, ultimately, electricity.

In six other types of reactors under construction or planned for the AEC's civilian power reactor development program, ordinary water, heavy water and graphite are used as moderators while water or liquid metals are employed as coolants.

Advantage Over Water. The commission said organic materials such as diphenyl offer several potential advantages over water as a combined moderator-coolant.

These include a lesser tendency to corrode fuel elements; also a "high boiling point" which makes reasonably high temperatures possible.

The new reactor will not be designed to produce electricity, although it will be designed to generate between 5000 and 15,000 kilowatts of heat—which theoretically could be converted into about one fourth as much electricity. The reactor will "simulate conditions of heat transfer, temperature and coolant flow which would exist in a practical power reactor." For fuel, the reactor will use uranium that contains a high enrichment of U-235, the most fissionable type.

An AEC official told a reporter that the new program is the latest step in the commission's program of exploring all possible avenues to economic atomic power. But he said it is very unlikely that any one type of reactor "will emerge as the answer to all problems." Rather, he said, the possibilities are that different types of reactors will be used for different purposes.

Here's How To Use The Beauty Secret Of Glamorous Stars!

by Betty Montague

Why do famous actresses of screen and television look so young and have such wonderfully smooth, flawless complexions for so long?

How can they play roles 15 and 20 years younger than you know they really are? Chances are they don't look any different than you do when they wake up in the morning!

What is their secret? It's simple! To face the cameras they use expensive liquid make-up bases that are put on by experts—and retouched many times a day. But they're much too busy to do that every day. So they wear all day or all evening.

How Hazel Bishop Solves This Problem!

For years, cosmetic chemists have sought to develop a make-up base to meet your everyday beauty requirements; that's easy to use—that goes on quickly—looks natural and soft in appearance—and is so light you barely feel it. The experts said it couldn't be done!

But, once again, HAZEL BISHOP succeeded in doing the seemingly impossible—created an entirely different kind of make-up that makes it wonderfully easy for every woman to enjoy a lovely, smooth, "radiant" complexion.

Only Liquid Make-Up In Different Formulas For Dry, Normal & Oily Skin!

There's a protectively rich formula for dry and normal skins... an extra-absorbent formula for oily skin. That's why this miracle make-up and powder base looks lovelier, longer—why it's the only Make-Up that is a perfect foundation for any powder—whether loose, pressed or compact-type.

That's also why your special formula Hazel Bishop "Liquid Make-Up" holds your powder perfectly for as long as 12 hours without retouching... why it positively will not crack through... won't get shiny, won't cake, won't streak... won't crack!

SAUDI ARABIAN KING REPORTED TO FEAR REVOLT

Diplomats' Reports to London Say He Is Reviving Fanatic Band to Curb Unrest.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times.)

LONDON, April 6—Accounts of revolutionary ferment and counteraction in Saudi Arabia have been brought here by Middle Eastern diplomats and travelers.

King Saud, one of the few remaining absolute monarchs, is reported to be reviving the Ikhwan (brotherhood), a fanatical religious warrior force, as a precaution against increasing revolutionary sentiment.

Revolutionary activity is reported among officers in the Saudi Arabian army, in the tiny middle class that is growing up under the impact of oil production, and in the illegal labor movement in the oil areas.

Free Saudis Movement. Last week, an Arabic-language broadcast from the Israeli radio reported the existence of a "free Saudis movement." This was described as a clandestine organization bent on overthrowing King Saud and his regime of a liberal government.

The Ikhwan was the empire-building force of the late King Ibn Saud, King Saud's father, in the first 30 years of this century. It brought most of the tribes on the Arabian peninsula under Saudi authority and annexed vast desert areas. These included the Hedjaz, the Moslem holy land containing the pilgrimage cities, Mecca and Medina.

The Ikhwan was composed of the puritanical Wahabi movement of Islam. It lost importance with the pacification of the country in the 1930's and still more with the development of a regular Saudi Arabian army.

Nasser's Influence. Paradoxically, a strong contributing factor to the reported revolutionary ferment has been the influence exerted in the Middle East by the revolutionary regime of Premier Nasser in Egypt.

Egypt and Saudi Arabia completed a military alliance last fall making the Egyptian army commanders and defense minister, Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, commander in chief of both armies. An earlier treaty had placed the Syrian army under his command.

King Saud is reported to be worried by the ability of Egyptian leaders to influence the people of other countries over the heads of their government.

Egyptian agents, aided by Saudi Arabian money, are alleged to have helped foment nationalist rioting in Jordan in December and January.

Informed Middle Eastern sources here say King Saud is relying for support in the Ulema (Moslem religious officials), the conservative tribal sheikhs and politicians with vested interests in his regime.

The Ikhwan would be, in effect, a private army set up to watch the official one.

7 MILLION MORE
SCHOOLCHILDREN
IN '55 THAN IN '50

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The Census Bureau said yesterday that enrollment in the nation's schools grew from 30,200,000 in 1950 to 37,200,000 in 1955.

This was an increase of 23 per cent. Students from age 5 to 29, kindergarten through high school were included.

Elementary schools absorbed 4,900,000 of the additional pupils. Percentage-wise, kindergarten enrollment increased the most, by 82 per cent between 1950 and 1955, but this represented a numerical increase of only 700,000.

Elementary school enrollment, where nearly five-sevenths of the entire increase occurred, was up by 24 per cent. High school enrollment increased 1,200,000, or 19 per cent.

The Census Bureau said that approximately 40 per cent of the increase in kindergarten was the result of the post-war baby boom, but that 60 per cent represented a higher rate of kindergarten attendance among children five and six years of age.

Fatally Hurt by Golf Ball.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 6—A 14-year-old boy who was struck on the head by a ball Monday when learning to play golf, died yesterday. He was George Molinoff, a high school freshman. He was standing on the seventh fairway when he was hit by a ball driven by a classmate, Donald Kamman, also 14.

7 ATOMIC POWER PLANTS BY 1962

Westinghouse Man Reports to Engineers' Club on Progress.

Seven atomic power plants, which will be capable of generating a total of 915,000 kilowatts of electricity for commercial use, will be completed by 1962, Lamar W. McLeod, vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corp., said last night.

Addressing a meeting of the Engineers' Club, 4359 Lindell boulevard, McLeod said the seven plants would use reactors of five different types, permitting a determination of which type can compete with generating stations using conventional fuels.

He said that in areas where coal and oil are plentiful, economically competitive electric power production by atomic reactors is still in the distant future. The most optimistic estimates are that it will be at least seven years, McLeod said.

In any case, he pointed out, atomic power will not replace conventional fuels, but supplement them. Producing electric power by atomic reactors is economically feasible now in those areas of the world where there is a scarcity of coal and oil, he said.

Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh will be the first producer of commercial electric power by atomic energy when it opens its atomic power generating plant at Shippingport, Pa., next year, the speaker said.

The other six firms which will enter the field are Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Detroit Edison and Associates, Consumers' Public Power District of Columbus, Nebr., Yankee Atomic Electric Co. of Boston, Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. and Nuclear Power Group.

The Nuclear Power Group is composed of five utilities, one of which is Union Electric Co. of Missouri. The group's plant will be 47 miles southwest of Chicago and will be completed late in 1960.

McLeod outlined the five different types of reactors which the plants will use to produce their power. "He pointed out the differences and advantages of each type, declaring that no one knows yet which one is the most economical."

The five types are called the pressurized water, boiling water, sodium graphite, homogeneous and fast breeder, McLeod said. The Nuclear Power Group will use the boiling water reactor.

"Within 10 years the United States will have about 4,000,000 kilowatts of installed generating capacity powered by the atom," the speaker said, pointing out that this represents 4 per cent. of the present total capacity.

DRIVER ARRESTED AT HOME, SAID TO HAVE FLED IN CHASE

John Ward, truck driver, was arrested today at his home, 1825A Park avenue, by two traffic policemen who said he eluded them in a high-speed automobile chase over streets and through alleys in north St. Louis. Ward was booked suspected of 11 traffic violations. Patrolmen Robert Melhofer and Carl Lechner reported that Ward refused to stop when they attempted to arrest him at 12:30 a.m. today at St. Louis and Vandeventer avenues for speeding. In the ensuing chase, at speeds up to 85 miles an hour and at times going the wrong way on one-way streets, the motorist escaped.

However, the policemen, checking the license number they had noted, went to Ward's home, where they found the automobile parked in front. They discovered the license plate had been removed and placed in the back seat. Melhofer and Lechner identified Ward as the motorist they had chased, although he denied it.

JENNINGS CHILD HURT BY AUTO NEAR HOME

Leslie Comparato, 5 years old, suffered fractures of the skull and nose yesterday when he ran against the side of an automobile in front of his home, 5428 Hamilton avenue, Jennings.

Police said the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Comparato, was playing with other children and ran in front of a parked automobile and against a machine driven by Mrs. Lillian Cantrill, 1205 Delaware avenue, Wellston. He is in serious condition in St. Louis County Hospital.

WEARING ON BUS FARE RISE TO ALTON AND CHICAGO

A hearing on Transcontinental Bus System's application for fare increases between St. Louis, Alton and Chicago will be held by the Illinois Commerce Commission, it was announced today in Springfield.

The proposed increases range from 5 to 50 cents. In another action, the commission granted Ozark Airlines permission to intervene in a case involving a permanent operating certificate for Illinois Airlines, which is operating between Chicago, Rockford, Freeport and Sterling. Ozark said the operation is in direct competition with its service.

SECOND IRAQ RIVER PROJECT IS OPENED BY KING FAISAL

BAGHDAD, April 6 (AP) — Young King Faisal yesterday opened a second river control project to protect Iraq from further devastating floods. The $28,000,000 project is similar to the Tharthar valley works built from money made from oil. The new project is designed to control the waters of the Euphrates river and permit the storage of flood waters in Habbaniyah lake. The man-made lake will be about 15 miles long and 12 miles wide.

LOANS and discounts and time deposits in St. Louis Clearing House banks reached new record high marks in the week ended Wednesday. Loans and discounts were up $370,000 on the week to a total of $3,041,142, 000 highest since the week of Dec. 28 when the top was $31,496,000. Time deposits, regarded as largely savings, which touched new high ground for the third consecutive week, were $241,000 higher at $211,006,000.

Demand deposits declined $37,829,000 in the week, and bond and stock accounts dropped $3,149,000.

There was a sharp expansion in retail turnover this week and dollar volume was noticeably above that of a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet said in the weekly review of nation's business. Percentage-wise, the buying of middle western states was six to 10 per cent above last year, south and southwestern states had a turnover five to nine per cent better than a year ago. New England states reported business better by two to six per cent while in the eastern, northwestern and Pacific coast states trade was four to eight per cent up over the 1955 week. "Consumers increased their purchases of women's spring apparel, furniture, and Easter food specialties and there was an upsurge in the buying of new automobiles," the agency said, "but volume was below that of the similar week last year. Post-Easter sales promotions and reduced prices were less frequent than a year ago."

Commerce Department said sales of wholesalers in February totaled about 9 1/2 billion dollars. This was a billion dollars more than in February 1955 and on a seasonally adjusted basis was a rise of about 1 per cent over January.

National Coal Assn. estimated bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended March 31 at 10,290,000 net tons. Production for the corresponding period in 1955 was 7,360,000 net tons. Estimates were based on incomplete car loading reports from the railroads.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the recent "unparalleled growth" of American corporations has been based too heavily on borrowing. He said the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. announced a press release on Monday, "showing net income for the new company should have read unappropriated surplus instead of net income. The net income of 1955 was $2,371,062, compared with $852,975 for the first two months of 1955."

Handy & Harman quoted New York silver Friday at 90 1/2 per ounce, a gain of 1/4 of a cent from yesterday.

Banker with a constructive talent

From test-boring to shoring, from riveting to roofing, the contracting business builds up to a big and complex job of organization. Just ask this officer from Division C of our Commercial Banking Department.

What's his job in construction? Well, he's a banking specialist in this particular field. We have many others like him, who concentrate in other businesses. You see, our Commercial Banking Department is organized into divisions. Officers in each are thoroughly experienced in operations and fiscal planning for specific industries and services. Working daily with the people, problems, developments and trends in your field, they can make important contributions to your business structure, its operation and growth.

Mercantile Trust is the only bank in St. Louis... one of only a few in America... to offer this unusually specialized financial service. Why not talk to one of our officers now? Whether your business is local or international in scope, you'll find we're equipped to work with you, because...

there's a man at Mercantile who understands your business!

TORNADO SPOTTED BY RADAR AND NO ONE IS INJURED

BRYAN, Tex., April 6 (AP)—Residents of this central Texas city of 20,000, alerted by a radar tornado-spotter, escaped without a single injury yesterday as a twister destroyed or damaged more than 200 houses and six commercial buildings. A 15-minute warning from Texas A. & M. College, broadcast by radio, gave citizens a chance to take safety measures. The A. & M. radar tornado-spotter, on of many in the Southwest, was established with radar sets donated by the United States Weather Bureau. The sets have a range of 150 to 200 miles.

The warning possibly prevented many injuries among students of the Stephen F. Austin High School, only a short distance from the tornado path. School authorities kept the children in the building although it was time for school to end for the day. They ordered all windows in the building opened to prevent the suction of the tornado from shattering glass.

LIBERAL ARTS' PLACE IN BUSINESS WORLD

Discussion at Conference Sponsored by St. Louis U.

Liberal arts training can do a far better job for education for business than it is now doing, Francis J. Curtis, a vice president of Monsanto Chemical Co., said today at the opening session of a conference sponsored by St. Louis University's college of arts and sciences.

Curtis and Prof. Walter L. Wilkins, director of the university's psychology department, discussed the value of a liberal arts education.

"Liberal arts definitely needs more frequent stock-taking, accompanied by willingness to change," Curtis said. "It should face the fact that life is too complex to have one simple course to prepare for such diverse things as business, arts, literature, religion as well as the good life."

Prof. Wilkins said the education offered by the liberal arts and sciences college is "immensely practical." "I realize this practicality may not be immediate," he explained. "The arts and sciences graduate may be at some disadvantage for an entry job in industry."

"Or, to put it another way, the arts and sciences graduate may be held in high esteem by the president, who is concerned with the eventual leadership potential in his organization, but in not such high esteem by the personnel director, who has to put the new graduate into this or that department and convince the supervisor that this literate, numerate young person can do something to make his department better."

Edwin M. Clark, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., presided at the discussion. The conference, attended by about 30 representatives of business and 30 faculty members, was held in Chouteau House on the university's campus.

He is Rudolph Diaz, a seventh-grade pupil, accused of fatally stabbing a playmate, Anthony Brown, 11, March 15.

County Area Cited in Health Report

Two views of dwellings in Elmwood Park, the St. Louis county community which was cited yesterday in a report filed with the County Council by the St. Louis County Health Department. The community, part of which lies in Olivette, was found to have sewage disposal facilities so inadequate they pose a menace to public health. Water supplies for many dwellings were not regarded as safe and garbage disposal methods also were regarded as inadequate. It is one of 11 county communities rated as substandard by health authorities.

Television in Review

Live 'Titanic' Show Challenge to Movies

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, April 6.

THE consequences of "A Night to Remember," the splendid Kraft Theater production of the book by Walter Lord about the sinking of the Titanic, are fairly momentous. The one thing television has not been able to do with conspicuous success is to produce a show, on a large scale, on anything like the scale of the movies.

Television's great hits have been small scale things like "Marty." The movies, fought back — with scale — Cinema-scope, huge casts, lavish budgets and lots of scenery to look at. But after "A Night to Remember" where does the motion picture industry go?

JOHN CROSBY

THE SINKING of the Titanic was a very large disaster—1500 lives lost—and to get this on a small screen was an undertaking of great courage. The director, George Roy Hill, managed the sinking of what the author terms a small city with a cast of 107 actors who suggested the teeming Titanic's hundreds of passengers very well. The size of the great ship, its magnificence—survivors will tell you there has never been anything quite like it since—its complicated innards were done so well that we suddenly were practically on the ship.

Kraft had 31 sets and of the cast of 107 actors, 73 had speaking parts, making it far and away the most complex live television show ever attempted. That may be a little smaller than a Cecil B. De Mille production but not much.

COMMENTED FILM DAILY the next day: "Attractions of the stature of 'A Night to Remember' conceivably could establish that toll TV is unnecessary because commercial television is providing it, thus proving the point which its opponents are making, but what happens then to the motion picture industry—there's the rub. And it's something this industry better give heed to pronto."

Film Daily went on to point out that "A Night to Remember" cost money. But the production budget was insignificant by Hollywood standards. According to NBC it was exactly $85,000. On the home receiver it looked as least 10 times that."

"A NIGHT TO REMEMBER" was a particularly happy event for friends of live television like myself. If live television can do this sort of thing, what can't it do? Especially if it can do a live drama like this for so little money. The contrast between this $85,000 production and the $350,000 which went down the drain on "High Tor," a filmed production, is fairly painful.

There will always be that trite and demonstrably untrue argument that film is perfect, that live television is imperfect. And again and again, live shows cap all the honors; filmed shows lay the eggs—and still the argument goes on. However, one thing you can't argue with is the budgetary differences between film and live television. The bankroll is a sensitive area to any sponsor and that alone, thank heaven, may save television from being engulfed entirely by film.

'Me First' Child

By Angelo Patri

BETTY, aged 11, and Doris, aged 13, are sisters. Betty makes life miserable for the whole family by putting herself first in every situation that arises. When the family are getting ready for a trip to Grandma's, Betty announces, "I'm going to sit beside Daddy." Nobody answers and she looks disappointed. Once in the car beside Daddy, she says, "When we get to Grandma's, I'm going to kiss her first and I'm going to sit beside her at dinner, too."

Sometimes Doris grumbles about this "Me first" idea, but it is not until this touches her more personally that the battle really begins. Doris and Betty are taken to the shop to buy new skirts. Betty will wait until Doris makes her choice and then say, "I want that one," and unless Doris gives it up there will be a scene. This is a day-by-day occurrence until the household is upset by tears and laments that end in an order that sends Betty to bed.

THIS SORT of thing must be faced. Betty is at an age when she feels she must assert herself in competition with her older sister. That is often so but, natural though it may be, it is not to pass without check. Betty is to be told firmly that she is Betty and Doris is Doris, and each being different persons has different wants but the same rights.

And this must be put into daily practice, come what may. True, it means a battle but a series of them, with the aid of time and the growth it brings, will go a long way toward modifying this sort of child's need for assurance. Given her place and her rights and her share of family affection, she will at least realize her duty toward others.

KNOWING THE REASON, or the cause, behind unacceptable behavior in a child is not enough. The child must be guided toward a better understanding of his relationship to others. He must be informed about it and so disciplined that he learns to behave acceptably.

By discipline I do not mean punishment, although that is not excluded completely. There are occasions that warrant it, as every parent knows. I mean the broader discipline that comes by experience in doing what is right even under stress. There is no need for sympathy for the "poor child," who is forced by family opinion to give up his selfish ideas and accept a better one. He really feels happier when he goes the right way. So do the rest of the family.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

WHAT we seem to need around here, grumbled Nero, "is a manager who really understands show business. The Coliseum has been in the red for three months running."

"Don't blame us, Boss," slibbed one of the Emperor's men. "It's those confounded lions. They're eating up all the profits."

A NOVELIST told his publisher, "My next book's going to be a real man's story." "You mean," prompted the publisher, "we can compare it to Hemingway and Jack London?" "No!" snorted the novelist. "All the characters are going to be beautiful girls."

A Century of Aid to the Ailing

Helpers of the Holy Souls to Mark Centennial of Caring for Aged, Sick

By Clarissa Start

ONE hundred years ago, a French nun, Eugenie Smet, known in religious life as Mother Mary of Providence, left her home in Lille to go to Paris to form a new order. Concerned because there were religious orders for all the needs of the Church Militant but none for the Church Suffering, Eugenie Smet had determined to form such an order. The new order adopted as its motto, "Pray, suffer, and labor for the Holy Souls in Purgatory," and took as its name, the Helpers of the Holy Souls.

"Our Venerable Mother hesitated over what kind of work should be performed by the new society," says Mother Mary Colette, Mother Superior at the Helpers of the Holy Souls convent here, whose accent is as French as that of her order's founder. "Then, the first day after her arrival at the Mother House, someone asked if a sister could go and visit an old woman who was sick. Our Venerable Mother thought it was providential and a sign that this should be the work of the order."

The care of the aged and the sick in their own homes has remained to this day the primary work of the Helpers of the Holy Souls, a work which the St. Louis representatives of the order have performed admirably for many years.

A part of the St. Louis welfare picture since 1903, the sisters who are among the 1500 Helpers all over the world, will celebrate a Triduum of Thanksgiving tomorrow, Sunday and Monday in honor of their centennial. His Excellency Joseph E. Ritter, Archbishop of St. Louis will celebrate the Pontifical High Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Francis Xavier (College) Church at 10 a.m. tomorrow, and an Open House will be held at the convent, 4012 Washington boulevard, starting at 2 p.m. Sunday and Monday.

The Helpers of the Holy Souls follow the ideal of doing good wherever it may be, says Mother Colette. Here they feel the chief need is in social work and to that purpose, Sister Mary Gilda recently received a degree in social work at St. Louis University.

"In St. Louis our work may be among the Negroes, in New York among the Puerto Ricans," says Sister Gilda who has the gift of her native tongue in her voice. "In China we train native girls for the religious life. Our Venerable Mother sent one sixth of her order to China to form her third house. In Japan our work is with children. And do you know when the bomb fell at Hiroshima, not one of our sisters was hurt."

"Last year we opened a

house in the Belgian Congo where we teach domestic science to raise the level of women there. In our first year we've taught 600 women and girls. But here, most of our work is with the aged.

"They have so many problems, material and spiritual both. We provide material help so we can provide spiritual help. You can't say to someone, 'Love God,' if he's starving."

THE Helpers go into the homes of the old and sick, do the housework, help with the shopping, provide food, clothing and friendship. They are aided by a corps of volunteers who have helped them expand their work. They could use many more volunteers.

"We never say no to a volunteer," laughs Sister Gilda. "We have them helping in every capacity, as typists, as drivers throughout the week, taking us to the homes. Some do the shopping for the old people, write letters for them. So many of the aged people are lonely, just longing for someone to come and pay them a visit."

Every day brings the Helpers evidence of human need, and some of the stories are heart-rending.

Not long ago, a man came to the Helpers in the depths of despair. His wife was in the last stages of malnutrition. He was old but not quite old enough to get a pension. They were living in terrible quarters, the landlady drank and threatened his wife physically. The man was afraid to leave her alone.

"We got his wife into City Hospital," Sister Gilda says. "Then we helped the man find a home in one of the projects. They had not one piece of furniture but our volunteers helped furnish their apartment and one volunteer did the trucking for us."

"When they moved into the project, the man said to me, 'For the first time in our married life, we can shut the door and say, "This is our home." He has now obtained odd jobs and is helping out; although they'll always need our help, they have some of the security they needed so badly.'

One of Sister Gilda's favorite stories concerned a couple she helped reunite.

"This was a man I met at City Hospital," she says. "He told me his wife had left him and admitted it was his own fault. 'I was a fool, I drank,' he said. I asked him, 'Does your wife know you're in the hospital?' 'No,' he said, 'but it wouldn't make any difference.' 'Send her a postcard,' I told him, 'and tell her you need her.' He wrote the postcard and I took it out and mailed it. The next time I went back to see him, he was sitting up, radiant. It was two days before Christmas, and he said, 'She came to see me, and I'm going home for Christmas.'"

HOSPITAL visiting has been part of the work of the Helpers, too, and the St. Louis ones make weekly calls at Homer G. Phillips and Koch Hospitals. At one time, masses for Negroes were held at the convent but now the Negro members attend the parishes in which they live, this work has been discontinued. The Sisters also give religious instructions to children attending public school. For the most part, however, they may be seen, wearing the familiar gray habit, going into the homes of the poor, the sick, and especially the aged, to help wherever need of help exists.

A United Fund agency, the Helpers of the Holy Souls operate on a limited budget, but find that somehow, as befits an organization founded by Mother Mary of Providence, some providential help always turns up.

"We get a tremendous lot of inter-denominational help," says Sister Gilda.

"Just recently a Jewish woman called us and said her little girl had so many toys that she had asked the children coming to her birthday party to bring a toy for a poor child and she wanted to bring the toys to us."

"At Christmas time we had a call from another Jewish woman. She said she would like to provide Christmas for a family with about four children. A few minutes later, there came to the door a woman in utter despair. Her husband had left her with their four small children, the oldest of them six. And there was our family."

On another occasion, Mother Colette recalls, she had a caller at the front door who begged for blankets. Mother Colette gave her the last blanket from the storeroom and walked away, crying to herself.

"Now there are no blankets left."

"And when I got to the back door," she beams, "there was someone with a package for us, with seven blankets. You see, Providence is still working."

Inadequate Water Pressure.

SOME homes suffer from inadequate hot water and some from inadequate cold water and there are many homes where the flow of both hot and cold water is inadequate.

There are lots of reasons why the flow of water out of a faucet is down to just a trickle. One is that the well is dry, and another is that you didn't pay your water bill and the water company turned off the supply.

Another reason is that the inside of the pipes in the house have become lined with rust and minerals thus restricting the flow of water to the various fixtures. You can find out for sure by loosening a section of pipe and examining the interior of the line. If it's got a lot of rust or minerals on the inside you can be pretty sure that you've found the reason for your troubles.

There are several cures for this condition and the best one is to install new pipes—copper tubing for example which can be fed up through the walls without too much work. There are some firms that specialize in the use of chemicals to remove the deposits from the pipes. This can be effective but must be done by experts and Often it's possible to get back adequate pressure at the faucets by replacing the fittings such as elbows, for these fittings tend to rust or corrode on the inside faster than the straight runs of pipe and by replacing them you once again get the full volume of water. Many cases of inadequate water pressure have been traced to a shut-off valve that was not all the way open and if you have your own water pump and water storage tank, have them checked to be sure that the pump is in proper working order and that the storage tank contains sufficient air pressure to force the water throughout the house system.

Lightweight Coats

Silk printed dresses that are topped by lightweight wool coats lined with the silk are among the most fashionable of late-spring ensembles. Bright navy blue, black and white allances, and shades of brown and beige are seen most often. The coat that has casual, straight lines is preferable to the fitted type. Many women like this style of coat because it is suitable for wear with different dresses.

Secrets of Charm

Art of Gift Receiving

THERE are one or two rules in regard to gift-giving and receiving that are most important, particularly in regard to what a girl can and cannot accept. For example, before the engagement, a young woman should not accept jewelry from a man. His gifts should be relatively impersonal and not costly—handkerchiefs, a scarf, candy or a book.

OCCASIONALLY a too-expensive or too-intimate gift is sent by a young man who may not know any better. If this happens, a girl must be very charming and tactful. She shouldn't show the gift off to anyone, or try to explain it to her friends. She simply returns it, saying something like this: "I'm sure you didn't realize this, but I cannot possibly accept such a gift from you. I do want you to know how much I appreciate your great kindness. If she is very kind, he won't be too embarrassed and respect her all the more for her firmness."

A BRIDELETT may accept jewelry and other expensive gifts from her fiancé. But she cannot accept wearing apparel of any kind—or money, a car, a house, or furniture. In other words, anything that would appear as "maintenance." She may drive his car and help select the furniture for their home, but she can't accept his support in any way until she takes his name.

When the wedding gifts begin to arrive, the bride should write her thank-you notes as promptly as possible. Not only should she show the sender this courtesy, but promptness

The New Films

By Myles Standish

Ordeal at Sea

THE stories of the various branches of the armed services in World War II have been told from time to time in American and British films, and the latest of these, "THE SEA SHALL NOT HAVE THEM," the dramatization of the work of a British Air-Sea Rescue Service operation in the English Channel, is as absorbing as most, though it is not another "The Cruel Sea" by a nautical mile.

From a novel by John Harris, the film, which opens tonight at the PAGEANT THEATRE, shows a bomber carrying an Air Commodore and a crew of three ditching into the channel, where the four men take to a life raft. As the Commodore (Michael Redgrave) is carrying in his briefcase vital information about a successor to the German V-2 rockets, the British search is even more intense than usual. As night, fog, rain and personal foulups hamper the search, the survivors drift helplessly for days toward Holland, suffering terribly from exposure to sea, rain and snow, fainting from hunger, near exhaustion and with the pilot almost dead.

The personalities aboard the searching launch, the life raft, and back at headquarters are gone into pretty thoroughly as the suspense is slowly tightened. The efficiency of some of the launch personnel from the hard-jawed skipper, (Anthony Steel) and a barking flight sergeant (Nigel Patrick) on down is contrasted with the whiners and the goofoffs, including a mechanic whose sloppy work on the engines delays the search for hours and a rookie who sets fire to the cabin. At headquarters the grim Commander is bothered in concentrating on the search by a regulations-stickling paper-pusher of a staff officer. On the raft, a flight sergeant (Dirk Bogarde), ranges from despair to heroic fortitude. It is wrapped up with an exciting ending.

Drab Tearjerker

Well, well, at the FOX we have that old professional hard-boiled cynic and iconoclast, Ben Hecht, getting sentimental. So sentimental that he actually drips in turning out a tearjerker that is as unabashed as any we've encountered in "MIRACLE IN THE RAIN." Plain Jane Wyman, mourning for her young man killed in battle (Van Johnson), gets up from a bed of pneumonia to wander in a blither cold rain to St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue, New York, to light another candle before a statue of St. Andrew. There she has a vision of her lover come back, and she collapses in the rain. But clutched in her hand is a lucky Roman coin she once gave to Van and which he wore when he was killed. Did he return from the dead to give it to her? We'd like to think so, says the narrator, thus deftly dodging the issue.

Hecht has made his people so determinedly average he has made them drab and dull. Miss Wyman is an inhibited young woman who scarcely dares to smile and lives with a mother (Josephine Hutchinson) who is still virtually in a state of shock over her husband's desertion years ago. Jane meets soldier Van who spouts cheery cliches until you wish he'd change the record. Jane's father (William Gargan) is now a hard-drinking restaurant pianist grieving over his bad treatment of Jane and her mother. Mr. Hecht's script, abetted by Director Rudolph Mate, sprinkles sudsy dialogue and tears all over these sterile characters to whip up an agony stew that would go just dandy on daytime TV.

Doctor's Helper

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

A WOMAN called up and said: "My husband needs a physical examination. He doesn't think so, but I know he does. He has been having chest pains lately and I don't like it. He's 46 and working too hard. Please let me know when you can see him, doctor."

DR. STEINCROHN
plete without the help of wives. Women are doctor's first assistants.

THE OTHER DAY a man who had had an attack of coronary thrombosis six months previously sat quietly listening to his wife report on his transgressions. "Doctor," she said, "Bill isn't saying anything now, but I know he'll let me hear when I leave the office. I don't care. It's my job to tell you how foolish he has been."

"You'd think a 44-year-old man would have more sense. Believe it or not, I caught him chopping wood the other day. And he insists on playing 18 holes of golf two or three times a week. When I beg him not to overexert, he says I've changed. That I've become a nagger."

"What am I supposed to do, doctor? Just stand by, say nothing, and watch him drop in his tracks some day? Why can't a man think of his wife and children before he disregards his doctor's orders?"

WELL, BOTH OF US went to work on him. As he was intelligent, and not stubborn, he agreed that he had been stupid. He promised that he would not go in for shoveling snow or other exertions. He would henceforth limit his golf to a maximum of nine holes in one day.

I know many diabetic husbands who owe their lives to their wives. One administers insulin daily. Another examines the urine for sugar. A third has become an expert in managing her husband's diabetes. Without question, women are the doctor's "right-hand man." No matter how great the doctor, how valuable his experience in treating diabetes, many men would die prematurely without the constant supervision of their attentive wives.

This holds true for any potential health hazard you can name. It applies to hypertension, tuberculosis, ulcer of the stomach and dozens of other discomforting and dangerous illnesses.

I HAVE OFTEN WONDERED what is the true, scientific explanation for this fact: that married men live longer than bachelors. Nobody has come up with the real answer. It is all conjecture.

As good a guess as any is that the wives are responsible. Many married men will say: "I can't understand why bachelors don't outlive us. All they have to do is work, eat, sleep and play. They have no family quarrels, no children to worry about, and all the freedom in God's world. How do we married fellows outlive them?"

Tell such a man that the credit perhaps is due to his wife's watchfulness over his health and he will look at you in startled incredulity. The answer is that most of us married men take our home comforts for granted. The bathrobe, slippers and pipe may not always be brought out by the little woman; nevertheless she makes for health and comfort in other ways. As a doctor, I am sure this is the reason married men live longer.

Greek Teen-Agers at U. City School

Four Refugee Pupils Learning American Ways and Language, Making Friends at Same Time

By Mary Kimbrough

THE Greeks have a word for it and so have the Americans. But friendship and hospitality are the same in any language.

So four Greek teen-agers have discovered after a bewildering introduction to their American colleagues at Hanley Junior High School in University City. Dark-eyed, smiling, still a little shy, the two sisters and two brothers have been made welcome and have found good friendship, even though they haven't yet conquered the English language and continue to be mystified by strange American foods and customs.

They are Paul and Pete Maris, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Maris, 726 Leland avenue, University City, and Cynthia and Stella Georges, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Georges, 6273 Delmar boulevard, University City. Stella, 16, is in the ninth grade; Paul, 14, Pete, 15, and Cynthia, 13, are in the eighth grade.

The two families were sponsored under the United States Refugee Relief Act by Louis James, 5425 Bartmer avenue. The boys are his wife's nephews and the girls' mother is related to James's mother. Maris and his family were expelled from Albania in 1941 because of their Greek descent and for that reason they had dreamed of the day when they could make their home in America. Maris is working as a tailor and Georges as a carpenter.

LAST October James brought the two girls to Principal James King of Hanley. A few weeks later, the two boys were enrolled. None of them could speak a word of English. What would you do? How would you start to teach four teen-agers who could neither understand nor talk the language of their new country?

King had an inspiration. In a school as large as Hanley, surely there were children with some Greek background who might have heard Greek spoken in their own homes. He sent out a call. Four volunteers arrived and to them was given the task of orienting the strangers to their new surroundings.

At first, the Greek students accompanied the youthful sponsors to class, and sat there during the entire period, with no idea what the teacher was talking about. But gradually, they began to pick up words. They soon learned their way around the school. They absorbed some of the ways of American teen-agers.

Then King took the next big step. He called on two teachers, Miss Eleanor Stevens, English instructor, and Miss Evelyn Patterson, Spanish and mathematics instructor, and asked them to help out. The teachers immediately volunteered their one free period, each day to a time of tutoring and the American education of the four young Greeks began in earnest.

NOW, only a few months from the time they first walked into the halls of Hanley, they can understand much of what is being said. They can speak enough to make themselves understood. They can ask intelligent questions in class. And they can beam happily when some asks the inevitable query, "How do you like America?"

When they first arrived, according to an interview with Stella and Cynthia in the school paper, The Acorn, the spontaneous answer was "Me aresne," which is Greek for "I like it."

Now, even though they speak Greek in their own homes, the new students are learning to converse with their school friends in English. Still a little reticent, they speak with quiet dignity and occasionally a puzzled look replaces the pleasant expression on their faces as they struggle with the intricacies of mysterious words and phrases.

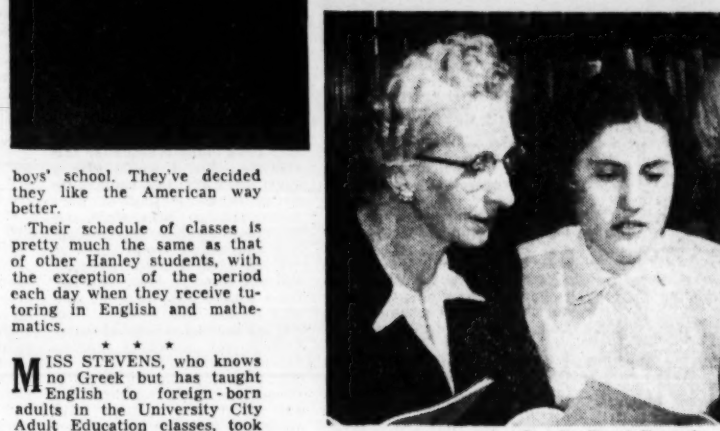

They will agree, though, that American schools are a little less strict than schools in Greece, but the hours are longer. There, they began their classes at 8:30 in the morning and were out by 1:30, although they also attended on Saturday. They did their homework in the afternoon rather than the evening.

They are of one accord, too, on the subject of the hot dog. They like them. Television is a strange and wondrous invention and a popular part of America and with all four even though they can't understand much of what they hear. Radio, of course, is familiar to them but here, again, the vocabulary is difficult to master.

In Greece, Stella and Cynthia went to an all-girls' school while Paul and Pete were in an all-boys' school. They've decided they like the American way better.

Their schedule of classes is pretty much the same as that of other Hanley students, with the exception of the period each day when they receive tutoring in English and mathematics.

MISS STEVENS, who knows no Greek but has taught English to foreign-born adults in the University City Adult Education classes, took over first, starting with the most fundamental expressions in order to establish some basis of communication.

Pointing to herself, she would say, "This is I," then, "This is he." "This is she." In turn, the pupils would repeat and gradually learn the difference in pronouns. From there, she taught them names of common objects, books, pencils, desks, blackboard. Alert and anxious to learn, the youngsters soon picked up much of the vocabulary they need for their daily work in school.

Having learned a little English, they were ready for math. "In addition to the difficulty of communication, we were faced with the difference in mathematical systems in Greece and here," said Miss Patterson. "For instance, their use of the decimal point and the comma are just opposite from ours. To them, one-two-five-period and three zeroes means one hundred twenty-five thousand. Their method of long divi-

1. ARE EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS MORE FREQUENT IN NONDEMOCRATIC THAN DEMOCRATIC MOVES? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1.

YES. Psychologists Carol Stone and Paul Landis, found among 4310 high-school seniors, almost twice as many boys and girls from harsh, undemocratic homes had marked emotional problems, as those from kindly, democratic homes. The boys showed more emotional problems than the girls. The late Alfred Adler showed that harsh parents make liars and moral cowards of children, otherwise there would be no reason for them to lie if they weren't afraid to tell the truth.

Answer to Question 2.

No, they are opposites. The day-dreamer lives in a world of unrealities, trying to escape his weaknesses and hard knocks of the real world by creating a world of illusions to live in. He imagines himself a great hero, lover or some successful person. The dreamer, so-called, is a person of imagination with his feet on solid earth—one who can invent, project, create things, but who also dreams practical plans for bringing them into existence.

Answer to Question 3.

Parents, naturally, try every way possible to convince themselves their children are "perfect"—not only out of affection, but because they feel any abnormality reflects on them. If they understood the laws of heredity better, they would realize that it does not. In the child's interest, however, parents should settle any suspicions by having the child examined by competent authorities at the earliest moment.

When North learned that his partner had two aces, he decided to abandon the idea of asking for kings—he was satisfied with a small-slam contract. This restraint should have been rewarded, but it wasn't.

West opened the heart 10. The ace won, trumps were drawn in three rounds, the heart five was ruffed, and declarer then devoted his efforts toward guessing the position of the diamond queen. After gazing at the ceiling for a considerable period of time, he finally laid down the diamond ace, then led the jack through West. Unfortunately, however, his guessing in this particular session was not good, and East took the diamond queen and later a club.

It is utterly inexcusable to go down on a hand such as this. The obvious correct line of play was to win the heart ace, draw trumps, ruff dummy's last heart, then to lead the ace, king and a low club. A 3-2 club break was vital regardless of the diamond situation; hence, what could have been easier than to strip the hands in this way, then to throw the lead to either opponent on the third round of clubs, forcing a heart or a diamond return. With a tenace position in diamonds in both hands, it did not matter which defender won the club trick. If he returned a diamond, the finesse would be taken for declarer, and if the defender returned a heart, declarer could of course discard a diamond from one hand while he ruffed in the other.

Comment on Middle East Situation

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK. I AM completely mystified by the stand of our Administration on the Middle East situation. Our Secretary of State, according to the newspapers, says that he does not think the President would use American armed forces in a Middle East war without the approval of Congress, except under extraordinary circumstances. Who has urged this, I wonder? So far there has been no discussion, as far as I know, of the use of American armed forces. The question under discussion is the equalization of arms for Israel, since the Soviet Union had sent arms to Egypt from Czechoslovakia. Of course, we also seem to have provided arms to Middle East countries, but the discovery of that particular situation was rather a surprise to us and it only makes the balance of arms in Israel smaller.

DURING the last few days our Government has announced that we will not object to the delivery of arms to Israel from Great Britain and France, but that we will not provide any arms. It seems illogical that we, who have a greater productive power than either Great Britain or France, who know that these two countries now face a greater demand for military supplies than we do, should take this standoffish attitude if we think equalization of arms is essential to peace in the Near East.

I realize the administration may have many reasons for this attitude. But I would give a great deal for the country to be given an inkling of what the reasons are, since our present stand seems totally illogical and rather cowardly.

I am glad that the Security Council voted in favor of sending a United Nations peace mission to the Middle East. The Soviets seemed critical of Great Britain and ourselves sending armed forces into that area. The discussion in the Security Council on this question did not sound very mature. But since the main desire one has is to see the U.N. mission go into the Middle East, it is encouraging that the resolution proposed by United States was passed.

FORMER PRESIDENT TRUMAN pointed up very well in his speech Tuesday night that the people of the country are constantly being reassured on the danger of Soviet policies

Women's Clubs

Traffic Club to Aid Children

By Fay Profflet

THE Women's Traffic Club of St. Louis has chosen as its 1956 charity project the Evaluation Clinic for Retarded Children at the new Renard Hospital. To obtain funds for the clinic the club will give a card party next Friday at 8 p.m. at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. The hotel's Gold, Ivory and Crystal rooms have been reserved for the event.

Miss Louise Gauchat will be general chairman assisted by Miss Lillian Ray, co-chairman. In addition to the card games, there will be a sale of home-made candy and gifts. Miss Mary Walsh and Miss Genevieve Kilcullen will be chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the candy sale.

Miss Pearl Mueller is treasurer for the party; Miss Vera Anne Ducker is publicity chairman, and Miss Irene Schuepbach, assisted by Miss Charlotte Leu and Miss Vera Elvert, is chairman of reservations. Others assisting will include Miss Betty Basman, Mrs. Iris Abbey, Miss Loretta Schlewinger and all past presidents of the club. Miss Clara Louise Ziegler is club president.

Chaminade Mothers' and Fathers' Clubs will meet next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at the school, 425 South Lindbergh boulevard. Both clubs will elect officers. Brother William Callahan, vice president and athletic director of the school, will speak on "Athletic Program at Chaminade." Mrs. Mary Swartley is president of the Mothers' Club; W. Byrne Diamond heads the Fathers' Club.

abroad, although they really are not informed of the battle for economic and political penetration being waged by the Soviet Union in many other areas of the world.

We are loathe to state clearly those things which might bring greater understanding of Communist theories and methods, and we insist that we are stronger today in the world than the Soviet. But we do not actually tell our people the Soviets are waging this economic and political war with astuteness and success in Asia and Africa.

Television Notes and Gossip

JOHN NEWLAND, who played leads in many of the "Robert Montgomery Presents" plays on KSD-TV Monday nights, recently graduated from acting to directing, but says he is aiming for something higher. He wants to be a producer. "A producer," he says, "is the most powerful man in the theater. He has the rule of everything." Newland has been acting in television since the medium was in its infancy. He now directs every other one of the Montgomery plays.

John Newland

Clint Walker of the "Cheyenne" series seen on KWK-TV plans a vacation in Belen in the Amazon basin, where he will hunt for diamonds. His wife Lucille and daughter, Valerie plan to go with him.

Arnold Stang proved so successful as "Marvin," the parasitic brother-in-law in the "December Bride" series, that producer-writer Parke Levy plans to use him in several of next season's shows.

Wallace Ford was practically signed for a starring role in a network show sponsored by an automobile company until someone suddenly became aware of Wally's last name.

The 10-year-old financial wizard, Leonard Ross of Tujunga, Calif., will be trying for $50,000 on "The Big Surprise" on KSD-TV at 6:30 tomorrow evening.

Evangelist Billy Graham and television star Hal March will be visited by Edward R. Murrow in "Person to Person" on KTVI at 9:30 tonight.

Martha Raye has released her writers, Ed Simmons and Norman Lear, from their contract. They plan to work full time on television projects scheduled by NBC next season.

The Encyclopedia Britannica has given a special award to "Nightmare in Red," NBC-TV's history of Communism, as "the best educational television program of the year." The program was seen on KSD-TV Dec. 27 and repeated Jan. 24.

"Television has done more than anything yet conceived to make American women clothes-conscious," says Julie Meade. Miss Meade does the commercials for "The Ed Sullivan Show" and "Your Hit Parade." She gets several

TV westerns are around Borrego Springs, a desert community 100 miles northeast of San Diego, Calif.

HERMAN—By Clyde Lamb

CREBILION
(1874-1923)
The great French playwright created 9 famous plays in verse
EACH TIME WITHOUT PUTTING A SINGLE WORD ON PAPER
UNTIL THE PLAY WAS FAMILIARLY COMPLETED IN HIS MIND!

ARCHIE—By Bob Montana

ARCHIE! WHEN WE'RE ON A DATE MUST YOU LOOK AT GIRLS?
WHY? IS THERE SOMETHING ELSE?
OBOY! BATHING SUITS!
WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO SIT IN THE PARK WITH ME AND LOOK AT THE STARS?
OKAY!

HI and LOIS—By Mort Walker and Dik Browne

READY TO GO TO THE BRIDGE PARTY, LOIS?
JUST A MINUTE. I HAVE TO GIVE HIM HIS DINNER.
THAT WAS QUICK! DID YOU GIVE HIM HIS DINNER?
YES. I ALWAYS LIKE TO GET A GOOD MEAL ON HIS STOMACH BEFORE I GO OUT.

RIP KIRBY—By Alex Raymond

KEEP UP YOUR COURAGE, MISS WELLES. GO BACK TO THE HOUSE WHILE I STROLL AROUND AND SIZE UP THE SITUATION.
WHAT? YOU SAY, MR. KIRBY?

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

HAND-WRITTEN Bibles existed in England during the Anglo-Saxon period. Some of these contained quaint pictures, and perhaps none of these was more amusing than one which showed "the wives of Jacob riding into Canaan." Two queer-looking camels were drawn, and on the back of each animal we see three women. One woman holds a child, providing an extra burden for the poor camel.

Points for Parents

By Edyth Thomas Wallace

NOT THIS Mother: "The change I keep in this jar for household things is gone. I'm sure I didn't use it all. Which of you took it? I'll have to quit keeping it here."

THIS Mother: "The money in this box is for such things as stamps and paying the paper boy, and this little book is for a record of how and by whom it is used."

Keopalert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving. Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.
